Einstein Sees Reality
Cheerful Spots

By Arthur Brisbane

A BUSY DAY in the world of news.

Europe reports that the revolt in Spain, as anticipated, has become extremely dangerous. A President is named, to take the place of the King, and rebels against the government include Spanish army flying machines.

The remarkable King of Spain takes all this coolly, not disturbed, apparently, by the fact that, already, eight separate attempts have been made to assassinate him. He says he will run for President, if his people really want a republic.

Chinese Communists in captured cities have massacred entire populations, or as many as could not hide or run away. Tens of thousands are supposed to have been cut down in cold blood.

Such is the old-fashioned method of punishing with death any enemy that resist.

Alexander the Great, comparatively humane for his period, put to death all the inhabitants of one city when their resistance annoyed him.

William the Conqueror, whose mother was the daughter of a humble tanner, was irritated when a besieged city, to mock his birth, hung hides of cattle on the city wall to remind him of his grandfather's business. Having captured the town, he had the principal citizens slain, and hung their hides on the wall.

You hardly expect such horrible brutality in 1930.

Democrats in Congress block the $116,000,000 emergency employment bill.

They object to the fact that under that bill President Hoover could direct the spending as he saw fit. Next to the large amount, that was the best feature of the bill. Somebody must have charge of the spending.

Apparently our lawmakers will continue fighting for the pleasure of throwing the life preserver to the drowning unemployed.

The great Einstein is on his way to the Pacific coast, going, most wisely, through the Panama Canal. He will see things there that will make matter, space and time seem temporarily real. Of course, he can prove that there is nothing there except deceptive aggregations of electrons and protons, negatively and positively charged, the electrons going around the protons trillions of times in a second.

Nevertheless, the very solid looking locks and cuts are sufficiently real to satisfy the ordinary mortal.

When you go to the Pacific coast, don't forget to see the Panama Canal, going or coming.

There are cheerful spots in the news. The Chevrolet Automobile Co., adding a night shift to its working force, is now carrying 30,000 men on the payroll, and expects to increase that number.

Mr. Cutter, president of the United Fruit Co., says that we did a business last year with Latin-America of more than two thousand million dollars, whereas we ought to be doing a business of ten thousand million dollars.

In the Caribbean countries, says Mr. Cutter, we reach fewer than 20 per cent of the possible customers.

American business men, with the Department of Commerce leading, should look into that ten billion dollar possibility. We need the business.

Fear, in the mind of man, works strangely. One suicide, foiled by a policeman yesterday, shows that some of us no longer take seriously the theory that a divine ruler is always watching us.

Joseph Vallera, climbed a telegraph pole, carrying a rope, and was fastening a noose around his neck, when Policeman Bernard White saw him. Vallera knew that the supreme power forbids suicide. But that didn't deter him.

But when Policeman White said, "Come down or I will lock you up," Mr. Vallera humbly dropped his rope, climbed down the telegraph pole and submitted.

The man could have hanged himself. The policeman could not have prevented it.

The death of a murderer with many years in prison ahead of him in Sing Sing Prison is made more interesting by the fact that he was an editor. You rarely read of editors committing murder. The usual thing has been for somebody to shoot the editor.

The dead editor murdered his wife, and by way of anti-climax his body goes to Washington to be buried beside her. If they arise at the same moment in obedience to Gabriel's trumpet, "in the flesh" to meet their

DRY LAW HELD INVALID

Newark, N. J., Dec. 16 (AP)—Federal Judge William Clark today ruled the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment to have been invalid.

His decision was based on the broad principle that such an amendment could be ratified only by constitutional conventions and not by state Legislatures.

The immediate effect of the decision, Judge Clark explained would be in New Jersey, where any arrests made for the retail of intoxicants would have to be made under the state enforcement act pending appeal of his decision.

hTe probability was that Federal Dist. Atty. Forman would appeal directly to the United States Supreme Court.

Today's decision will effect only those states in which United States district court judges concur in the findings of the New Jersey federal jurist.

Schmeling Called to Fight Sharkey

New York, Dec. 16 (AP)—The New York State Athletic Commission cabled Max Schmeling at his home in Germany today warning him his six months' period of grace had expired and he must accept within 15 days the challenge of Jack Sharkey to a heavyweight title fight.

The message read:

"There is on file in this office a challenge directed at you by Jack Sharkey. Your six months' period in which to defend your title expired December 12. You are directed to advise within 15 days from date your acceptance of the above challenge."

'American National' Convention Called

Chicago, Dec. 16 (AP)—The American National Party, describing itslf as a "third liberal new political party, composed of members from both the Republican and Democratic ranks," issued a call today for a convention to be held in Chicago, Feb. 1.

The platform favors government employment for all idle workers, government education, government construction of homes and cheaper public utility rates.

WALSH URGES CUBAN PROBE

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—Investigation of Cuban conditions with reference to American relations by the Senate foreign relations committee was asked in the Senate today by Senator Walsh, (D.), Massachusetts, in calling attention to a "manifesto" of grievances signed by a number of Cubans.

Senator Walsh said a copy of the "manifesto" was found two days ago by government spies in Cuba and that as a result the signers were being arrested and imprisoned.

"In view of this," he said, "I am asking the foreign relations committee to inquire whether or not our relations with Cuba as set forth in this document are being impaired."

Walsh said the document, written in Spanish, was turned over to him today, and the signers were described as including "the most distinguished professional men and educators of the island."

Workmen Overcome by Gasoline Fumes

Lowell, Dec. 16—While operating a gasoline machine for removing wallpaper today, Peter Arsenault, 43, and his son, Albert, 18, of 11 McIntyre st., were overcome in the home of Mrs. Cordolia Lemire, 54 Branch st.

The father collapsed and the son ran across the street to a fire station to get help. The boy returned with the firemen and collapsed while they were reviving his father with an inhalator. The police rescue squad had to be called to aid the son. The latter's condition proved the more serious and he was later taken to St. oJseph's Hospital.

May Be Wed

WILDA BENNETT, former musical comedy star, is reported to have been married last night to Anthony Wettach, against whom she recently filed suit for $20,000 following an auto accident.

Asbury Park, N. J., Dec. 16 (AP) The Asbury Park Press said today that Wilda Bennett, former star of musical comedy, was married last night to Anthony Wettach, against whom she filed suit several months ago asking $20,000 damages for injuries in an automobile accident.

It was Miss Bennett's third marriage.

185 French Bankers Accused, 35 Jailed

Paris, Dec. 16 (AP)—Minister of Justice Henri Cheron announced today that 185 French bankers were under accusation in connection with recent financial operations. He added 35 were in jail. Investigation began about six weeks ago after the failure of a number of banks, including the Oustric Bank. The closing of the latter institution created a scandal that was held indirectly responsible for the downfall of the Tardieu cabinet.

Portland Girl Not to Marry Hobo King

Portland, Me., Dec. 16—Miss Dorothy Cohen, of this city, today denied the statement of Joseph Leon Lazarowitz, self-styled king of hoboes, that they are wed. She admitted she had corresponded with Lazarowitz, who visited Portland October 20, but declared she had ceased writing some time ago. Lazarowitz announced the engagement in a statement at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., yesterday.

Charlestown Youth Says He Was Robbed Before Receiving Beating

Details of an alleged attack by three Station 15 patrolmen on four Charlestown young men, Nov. 30, were aired in Charlestown court today, when the policemen went on trial on charges of assault and battery.

Judge Sullivan presided and the courtroom was crowded.

The defendants are Patrolmen Neil J. Henderson, Walter Armstrong and John J. Madden. They are represented by James Cassidy and Asst. Corp. Counsel Schwartz, adviser to Commissioner Hultman, was present.

The complainants are Francis J. Galvin of Washington st., James J. Neary of Union st., Francis M. Coyne of Elm st. and Joseph Gallagher of Prescott st. Atty. William R. Scharton represented them

HAD BEEN AT NIGHT CLUB

The four complainants had returned from a night club and were parked in a car outside Neary's house.

Galvin, first witness, said the three officers in plain clothes appeared at the machine and that Henderson opened the door and asked them what they were doing.

The child said: "Don't forget to give $5 to the Boston American, mother."

"I won't forget, dear," the mother said.

That was three weeks ago. The Boston American Christmas Basket Fund Editor learned about it yesterday. The mother called on him.

She was dressed in mourning. She took a crumpled $5 bill from her purse. She flattened it out, smoothed it painstakingly. She held it in her hand for a long minute.

Learn a Lesson from the Sumptuary Situation

MANY years ago the Hearst papers tried to get the hotels and restaurants and legitimate resorts to favor a light wine and beer policy, and to oppose hard liquors, and the Hearst papers warned the hotels and restaurants and the public generally that unless some such policy was adopted the extreme of prohibition would be inflicted upon them.

This advice was rejected with some resentment on the part of the liberal element of the community, and consequently we are suffering today under prohibition and its attendant evils.

The Hearst papers would like to give some advice today to the reputable theater managers.

Something must be done to clean up the stage.

It has degenerated to a degree seldom reached even in the most decadent days of its history.

It is dominated by the dollar-greedy members of the dramatic profession.

It is, in part, at least, an offense to the judicious element of the community.

THE question of what is to be done is being widely debated among the more thoughtful producers, performers and playwrights.

It is useless to depend on self-regulation. We have the results of self-regulation now.

There must be some sort of governmental censorship.

The stage can either have a liberal censorship, largely of its own devising, or it can have an extreme and fanatical censorship of the kind that will surely result if stage conditions continue as at present without any co-operation on the part of stage people to correct them.

The censorship of moving pictures operates on the whole to the advantage of the producers.

The censorship would be better if it were a national censorship instead of a series of state censorships with considerable conflicting ideas and standards.

Nevertheless the censorship, even as it is and imperfect as it is, puts a strong curb upon the irresponsible moving picture producers and prevents the excesses which existed in the moving picture situation before censorship went into effect.

IN some of the states the censorship is excellent. In New York state it is intelligent and liberal.

It keeps the pictures clean, but it does not interfere unnecessarily with the legitimate objects of the producers.

If, therefore, the stage has reached a point where it must have judicious censorship or worse, why should not the people of the stage in New York welcome the same kind of liberal censorship which the moving pictures in New York secure?

And why should not the same censorship board, enlarged sufficiently to enable it to perform its added duties, censor both the stage and the screen?

The Hearst papers advise the responsible stage producers, performers and playwrights of New York to support some such plan.

Otherwise, they will surely have some drastic and damaging regulation imposed upon them.

Heflin Hopes to Ban Margin Trading

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—A resolution to prohibit trading in margins on the stock exchanges was introduced today by Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, after a speech blaming conditions to manipulations on the New York Exchange.

The resolution would limit interest on call money to not more than 6 per cent and subject violators to fines between $10,000 and $50,000 and imprisonment for from two to ten years.

25 ARE MADE HOMELESS IN OIL STOVE BLAST

One Parent, Forgetting Baby, Dashes Back Into Flames; 3 South Boston Homes Burn

Ten small children were saved by their mothers today as an oil stove exploded in the three-family house at 39 Ward st., South Boston, spurting flaming oil in all directions and causing a fire which destroyed the dwelling and all the furniture.

The fire made 25 persons homeless, including 15 children, their parents and a grandfather. They saved virtually nothing except the clothing they wore. Neighbors gave them shelter from the bitter cold.

Damage was estimated at $8000 by officials of the fire department.

All the windows were blown out by the force of the blast, and, as the occupants fled to the street, the three mothers carrying some of the children and pushing the others out ahead of them, the flames spread rapidly through the structure.

SHE FORGETS BABY.

One mother, in her excitement forgot the baby in its crib and bravely rushed back and rescued the child, narrowly escaping being overcome by thick, oily smoke.

The house was occupied by two families on one side and one family on the other, that being its total capacity.

These families are those of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baseckiewicz who have seven children; Mr. and Mrs. George Mensledge, with six children, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Libby and five children. Christopher Mensledge, the grandfather, lived with his son.

The fire started in the home of the Mensledge family, on the first floor. As the windows blew out into the street and yard, most of the neighbors thought the blast had occurred in their own houses and ran into the streets.

FIREMEN IN SEARCH

Four of the Mensledge children were at home at the time. They screamed and their mother had to run from room to room, with the flames licking the walls, to be sure they were all getting out safely.

Firemen, upon arriving in response to an alarm sounded by a passerby, dashed into the house and made a hurried search to see that nobody was left inside. The flames spread so quickly that there was little chance to save the interior and nothing but charred walls and furnishings remained of the homes of the three families.

Plymouth, Dec 16—An old farm house, headquarters of the summer camp of the Boston Y. M. C. U., was destroyed by fire today. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Collins, caretakers, saved most of the furnishings. The building was owned by E. K. Sacrcorough, of Braintree. Damage was estimated at $5000.

Lowell, Dec. 16—Two dogs perished, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Noel fled into the cold cald in night clothing, when an explosion set fire to their home in Tyngsboro, razing it to the ground early today.

The explosion was believed to have been caused by coal gas.

HOOVER'S CONTROL OF EMPLOYMENT FUND RESTORED TO BILL

SENATE NOT HEEDED BY CONFEREES

Couzens Amendment Among Others Stricken Out in New Agreement

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—Conferees of the Senate and House agreed today to the $116,000,000 emergency employment appropriation in the form which drew opposition yesterday in the Senate.

The conference report was presented to the Senate this afternoon and Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, said he would ask consideration tomorrow.

The revised bill contains the provision giving President Hoover authority to use the funds as he sees fit, if emergencies arise.

This decision of the conferees, reached tentatively Saturday, was assailed in the Senate yesterday by Democrats. Senator Robinson, the party leader, agreed to the restoration of this provision in the interest of hastening the legislation, however.

AMENDMENTS DROPPED

The conference report also eliminated the amendment of Senator Couzens, Republican, Mich., requiring that contractors spending the funds employ local labor and pay the highest wage scale prevailing in the localities.

Amendments of Senators Black, Democrat, Ala., and George, Democrat, Ga., making available the unexpended balance of appropriations for road construction work in their States without the necessity of their States matching the funds, also were stricken out.

HYDE ASKED TO TESTIFY

Meanwhile, the House agriculture committee adopted a motion by Representative Purnell, Republican, Indiana, to invite Secretary Hyde to testify on the Senate's $60,000,000 drouth relief bill. A motion by Representative Jones, Democrat, Texas, to proceed with immediate consideration of the Senate bill was rejected on a strictly party vote.

Representative Aswell, Louisiana, ranking Democrat, charged that "the Republicans are deliberately trying to delay the bill until after Christmas."

Chairman Haugen said the committee will meet whenever Secretary Hyde finds it convenient to testify.

COLDEST DEC. 16 IN 47 YEARS

A biting, penetrating cold that sent temperatures to the lowest marks of the season, gripped Boston and New England today, bringing death and suffering.

The first death reported from the cold was that of Mrs. Marie Austin, 65, of Appleton st., South End, who was overcome on the way to the office of a physician.

With the official minimum at four above at 7 a. m., the weatherman predicted fair weather tonight and Wednesday, with rising temperatures.

Today was the coldest Dec. 16 since 1883, when the official minimum was one above, the same mark recorded in 1876 on this date.

It was also the coldest day since Feb. 17 last, when the weather bureau recorded an official minimum of one below.

BOSTON POISON 'JAKEY' SOURCE

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—Boston, Congress was informed today, was the source of most of the sinthetic ginger alcoholic drink which struck down with paralysis hundreds of drinkers in the Central and Southern states during the year.

Dr. P. B. Dunbar, assistant chief of the food and drug administration, informed the House appropriations committee of the drink's origin, adding many of its distributors were now awaiting prosecution. He testified on the Agriculture Department supply bill, at hearings of which the transcripts were made public today.

He described it as a product ordinarily used in varnishes.

Three Boston men are under indictment in Kansas, Ohio, Kentucky and other states in connection with the "jakey paralysis" cases. At the Federal building today it was explained that officials of the Department of Justice at Washington are puzzled as to where to try them.

The indicted men are Harry Gross, Max Reisman and Allston Dolan. Gross is at a sanitarium. Reisman and Dolan were arraigned in September and were released under bail.

Sacrifice of Child by Voodoos Probed

Havana, Dec. 16 (AP)—The secret police are investigating reports that voodoo worshipers near Havana recently decapitated a small child for the purpose of using its blood in making a sacrificial offering to Chango, god of the cult. Cuban voodoo worshipers are descendants of former African slaves who practice human sacrifice as a part of their religious ceremonies.

Maker, what will the wife say to the husband who killed her and then insisted on being buried by her side?

Science says the world will not end for at least a million million years. Perhaps she will have forgotten all about it by that time.

Mention of the Angel Gabriel recalls the curious fact that Charles Wesley Hill, a Negro who took the part of the Angel Gabriel in a play, "The Green Pastures," killed by a taxicab last Wednesday, was buried yesterday. Two thousand Negroes attended his funeral and sang "I've Heard of a City Called Heaven," Mr. Hill's favorite hymn.

The coffin was decorated with a gigantic golden trumpet made of flowers, bigger than the coffin itself. The dead man was one of the most popular actors in a play in which every night another colored actor said: "Gangway for the Lord Jehovah," while the Angel Gabriel offered to Jehovah in the play "a ten cent cigar."

The tremendous success of this play tells how much of real reverence the Christian religion has lost in modern times.

Admiral Pratt, chief of our naval operations, says it is ridiculous "to hope that the United States Navy will ever equal that of Great Britain without a development of our merchant marine."

We arrange to have only as many warships as the British, carrying out British orders in that respect most humbly. And we forget that Britain has a fleet of gigantic passenger carrying ships that can be used for transporting troops, munitions, all ready for mounting high powered guns. Each great merchant ship is a warship in itself.

Three Charlestown Police Fight Attack Charges

Neary replied that he lived there.

"Come on, come on," Henderson was quoted as saying.

Madden then walked around the car to Galvin, who was at the wheel and demanding license and registration started to search him, the witness said.

"He took $20 out of my pocket and put it in his," testified Galvin.

SAT ON HENDERSON.

"I said: 'Don't forget what you took out of my pocket.'"

Henderson then grabbed him, he said, and they wrestled and he threw Henderson and sat on him on the sidewalk.

"Let me up! Let me up!" Henderson yelled, he testified, and then called: "Bill! Bill!"

"One of the other men ran over and hit me on the side of the jaw and knocked me off," he testified. "The two started to hit me and I hollered for help. They twisted me and hit me in the ribs. I got away and ran down Rutherford ave. I saw Madden strike Neary."

Galvin said he was scratched on the head, cut over the eye and ear and suffered an injury to his leg. He went to Station 15 and reported the assault to Sergt. Mitten, who sent two officers to the scene to make a search.

Later, he said, he picked Henderson out of a lineup of 35 men.

FRIENDS HAD LIQUOR

Under cross-examination he denied he had been drinking, but said his three companions had one drink each at the night club.

Neary, the next witness, said he saw Henderson put his hand to his hip pocket during the encounter and that he heard Galvin say:

"Don't you forget you put your hand in my pocket and took $20."

Then, he said, he heard Madden say:

"Let him have it."

He heard Galvin shout:

"Help! Help! They're killing me."

"Henderson punched me on the chin. He and Madden took punches at me. I rang the bell of my house and they walked fast around the corner."

He said his teeth were driven through his lips by one blow.

It was brought out under cross-examination that he is studying law, and that the car in which the four were riding was owned by his uncle, Deputy Sheriff Richard Sweeney.

COYNE TELLS HIS STORY

Coyne testified he was sitting in the back seat of the car with Gallagher when the officers appeared. He said one made a motion toward his back pocket and he saw something shiny as he heard the warning:

"Stay in there you—if you know what's good for you."

He said he overheard Galvin charge that he had been robbed of $20. He said he told Sergt. Mitten that the assailants were policemen because he had seen them in uniform. He admitted having had "two or three drinks."

An attempt to show that three of the complainants were under the influence of liquor proved somewhat disconcerting.

Sergt. Mitten testified that Neary, Gallagher and Coyne were under the influence when they arrived at Station 15 to make complaint.

Capt. Matthew Killen, in command at police headquarters when the quartet arrived there after visiting Station 15, testified that Neary, Gallagher and Galvin were under the influence.

Patrolman Daniel J. O'Brien of headquarters testified that the three were under the influence and noisy.

Sergt. Mitten said Neary was bleeding from the nose and that he had scratches and a cut under one eye. Galvin was cut under the eye, he said. They told conflicting stories and argued, he testified, and said nothing about being robbed of $20 until they returned from headquarters.

It was brought out that Neary did not identify Madden in the lineup until he had asked Madden his name and Madden had been required to answer by Capt. Livingstone.

MANY DEAD IN SPAIN STRIKE BATTLE

Rebel Planes Are Reported to Have Bombed the Royal Palace; Food Shortage Looms

Lisbon, Portugal, Dec. 16 (AP)—Reports from usually reliable sources on the Spanish frontier today indicated that serious fighting had occurred at Huelva between strikers and Government forces, with many casualties on each side. In Valencia rebel airplanes were said to have bombed the royal palace.

Madrid, Dec. 16 (AP)—Through the censorship over all Spain there came today reports which indicated that the revolutionary movement of the past week had developed into a general strike, threatening food shortage in many of the principal cities.

Martial law was in force throughout the country. Seventy-five thousand troops were reported to have been mobilized and the leaders of yesterday's revolt of the aviators were interned at Lisbon.

STRIKES IN BIG CITIES.

From Barcelona came reports that the police had been reinforced by 6000 civil guards.

At San Sebastian were proclamations abrogating all constitutional rights and the civil authorities had surrendered their powers to the military.

Strikes were in progress at Santander, at Bilbao where Alcala Zamora was proclaimed "president of the republic" yesterday, at Saragossa, a garrison for an important unit of troops; at Lerida, Jaen, Valencia, Cadiz, Seville, Huelva and Gijon.

LOYALISTS CLAIM CONTROL.

Bilbao reported its bread supply was exhausted. No bakers were working and all provision stores were closed.

The frontier town of Irun reported that a bread famine had begun. Supplies were being brought across the frontier from the French town of Hendaye.

Madrid, Dec. 16 (AP)—In an exclusive statement to the Associated Press today Gen. Damaso Berenguer, premier of Spain, reiterated his assertion that yesterday's revolutian movement had been suppressed.

Lisbon, Dec. 16 (INS)—Twelve Spanish air aces, headed by Maj. Ramon Franco, who landed near here after fleeing Spain when the revolt they staged collapsed, awaited decision by the government of Portugal today as to their disposal.

Major Franco blamed the collapse of the revolt on failure of the artillery to keep its promise and join the Republican cause.

Missing Fishermen Hunted

Bridgeport, Ct., Dec. 16 (AP)—Missing since last Wednesday, when they left in a motorboat for Long Island on a day's fishing trip, Herman Gussenhoven, 39, and Charles Friborg were being sought today by Bridgeport and Long Island police.

More Trouble

AID TO NEEDY HER LAST ACT

staring at it, beyond it, beyond the beyond.

LAST THOUGHT FOR NEEDY

"Here it is," she said, finally. "Every year Vesta gave something to the American to help brighten the lives of little children at Christmas time. This year—well, she was dying—and she said, 'Don't forget to give $5 to the Boston American.' She died Dec. 1."

She didn't say any more and the Basket Fund Editor who thought he was a hard-boiled newspaper man, didn't say anything, not even a "Thank you"—he was swallowing so hard.

He just took the $5 and put it with all the other money, the pennies and nickles and dimes and quarters and bills that were heaped on his desk and he thought:

"All right, child. That will make somebody happy."

HER EXAMPLE SHINES

And then he thought some more about it. In fact, he hasn't thought of much else since. He thought of boys and girls and men and women in good health and with more than they actually need and he wondered what the example of Vesta would mean to them.

Here was a child, dying, who thought of others and a way to make others happy. The Christmas Basket Fund Editor felt all warm inside, after a while. He felt good. He said to himself:

"This world is all right, after all. The people in it—especially the children in it—are fine. It's a good world. We'll have a good fund and make a lot of unfortunates happy this Yuletide."

THERE'LL BE TURKEY!

AND WE WILL, YOU WILL, IF YOU HELP

The baskets are going to contain everything nice imaginable for not only Christmas dinner but a good many dinners.

Turkey! Yes, sir, for the first time, those baskets are going to contain turkeys. And for the first time, too, some men and women, some children, are going to know what turkey tastes like.

The Basket Fund Editor can use every cent you will give him. If you can afford $100, send it in. If you can afford a few pennies, send them in. Give now! Give all you can!

It's a pretty good world and you can help make it a better one, as Vesta did.

ATTORNEY AND JUDGE CLASH AT TRIAL

Unfairness Is Charged When Witness in Slaying Is Being Questioned

A sharp clash between Judge Daniel T. O'Connell and Asst. Dist.-Atty. John J. Murphy in Suffolk Superior Court featured today's session of the trial of Carmello Guiffre of the North End, charged with second degree murder in the killing of Morris Lerner of Malden at the Veterans of Foreign Wars' clubhouse in Revere.

Murphy was finding Charles Sidd of Shirley ave., Revere, a taxi driver, a difficult witness under cross-examination, and John P. Feeney, counsel for the defense, was objecting liberally.

There was a conference at the bench after which Murphy was again blocked in his attempt to put certain questions. He then accused the court of unfairness and kept up a fire of criticism until silenced by Judge O'Connell.

WITNESS FORGETS.

In spite of severe grilling, Sidd insisted he did not know the second wounded man who was carried to his cab from the building on Shirley ave., where the shooting melee occurred. The first, he said, was Louis Levenson.

The witness also declared he could not remember questions put to him, or answers given by him, at an interview in the district attorney's office last week.

The conference took place at this point and, after Murphy again was denied the right to grill Sidd further on the identity of the second man, the assistant prosecutor said:

"Your honor said you would admit a certain question, although not a certain series of questions. Mr. Feeney can sneer and snicker all he wants to. I insist it was so."

"Your remarks as to sneering and snickering is wholly unwarranted," replied Judge O'Connell. "Proceed with your examination of the witness. You are not warranted in referring to unfairness. The Commonwealth is always treated fairly in this court."

Murphy: "The Commonwealth expects it."

DOCTOR TESTIFIES

Judge O'Connell—"I don't care to have any further comment."

Murphy—"I shall demand a stenographer at all future bench conferences."

Judge O'Connell—"That is for the court to say."

Murphy—"The district attorney has the right to ask it."

Dr. John B. McMahon of Boston and North Shore rd., Revere, testified he was called to the veterans' clubhouse shortly before midnight Aug. 14 and saw Lerner on the floor.

"It was a hospital case and I ordered him taken to Chelsea Memorial Hospital," the doctor said. "Later I went there and saw Lerner and also Louis Levenson, whom I knew as Tony Murphy. While I was there Guiffre was brought in."

RODE TO HOSPITAL

Two witnesses were asked about John Prokus, a man who figured in stories of the investigation following the shooting affray, but who was not otherwise identified to the jury today except by his name.

Murray Bornstein of Revere testified he saw Prokus near the clubhouse early on the evening of the shooting. Joseph Tatelman of Chelsea said he knew Prokus but had not seen him. Bornstein told of riding to the hospital in Sidd's taxicab, and said the wounded men they carried were Levenson and James Preston.

Rum Carrier Shot in Mill Strike Zone

Danville, Va., Dec. 16 (AP)—A motorist who National Guardsmen said refused to obey their command to halt, was fired on and wounded early today as the troops kept lookout for cars bearing dynamite into the textile strike area around Schoolfield.

Guard officers said they found 60 gallons of whiskey in the automobile. The man gave his name as Lockwood Pickett of Forrest Hills, N. C.

Claire Fahy Injured As Plane Falls in Takeoff

Claire Fahy

Tonopah, Nev. Dec. 16—Claire Fahy, well-known aviatrix, was injured here yesterday when her plane stalled 50 feet in the air just after a take-off and crashed to the ground. She was rushed to Mines Hospital unconscious. Physicians have not determined the full extent of her injuries, but expressed hope she would recover. Miss Fahy was reported badly cut about the face and body. The aviatrix was taking off for her home in Los Angeles when the accident happened after having attended an air circus here Sunday.

Sister of Boris May Wed King of Albania

Princess Eudoxia

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Dec. 16—Reports were current today that the Bulgarian General Wilkoff had gone to Rome to negotiate a marriage between the Princess Eudoxia, sister of King Boris, and Ahmed Zogu, King of Albania. King Boris recently married Princess Joanna of Italy with a magnificent state wedding ceremony, and the wedding of his sister to the King of Albania would strengthen the bonds between his kingdom and Italy, which exercises great influence on the neighboring kingdom of Albania.

Mary Hay Wins Custody of Daughter Until July

Mary Hay

New York, Dec. 16 (UP)—The sprightly little Mary Hay Barthelmess, seven, will spend Christmas with her mother, Mary Hay the dancer, in New York, instead of with her daddy, Richard Barthelmess, in Hollywood. The child will be with her mother until next July. The arbiter who decided that Mary Hay, Jr, shall be with her mother for the next seven months was Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, preacher and radio orator. It appears that Barthelmess had been keeping his daughter longer than the six months' period agreed upon when he and Mary were divorced in 1926.

THAYER'S "SPOTTER" JAILED IN LOVE SUIT BY WORCESTER GIRL

FAILURE TO MARRY IS CHARGE

Action Is Brought by Woman Who Recently Attempted to Kill Herself

Worcester, Dec. 16 — The greatest sensation to date in the Thayer cross-action divorce hearing came today when John B. Crowther, English amateur detective for Fred B. Thayer, was arrested in a breach of promise case.

Crowther, who testified to spying on Mrs. Jane H. Thayer and Albert Desjardin, her chauffeur, was taken into custody in connection with a $25,000 suit brought by Miss Anna Daly of Pleasant st.

Miss Daly, who lives near the apartment occupied by Mrs. Thayer at 202 Pleasant st., attempted to take her own life on November 25 last, according to police.

TRAILED MRS. THAYER

At that time, according to his own testimony, Crowther was nightly shadowing Mrs. Thayer and Desjardins in their departures and returns to her apartment.

He was arrested at the courthouse, where Thayer was on the stand in rebuttal, and taken to Worcester county jail to be held pending the posting of a bond.

It was said that the arrest was made at this time because of the fear that Crowther, being a citizen of England, might leave this country before hearing of the suit.

While a witness for Thayer, he testified he is the son of a wealthy contractor in Birmingham, England.

GETS EXPERIENCE HERE

He said he does not have to work, but believes he possesses a flair for detective work and hopes to become attached to Scotland Yard.

The young man said he met Thayer in London last summer, and on coming to this country recently felt so sorry for the Grafton sportsman that he offered to do some sleuthing for him, thereby obtaining experience as a detective.

Thayer, on resuming the stand this morning, testified he did not have Christmas dinner at home last year because his wife insisted on waiting for Desjardin.

"WAIT FOR ALBERT"

He said he remonstrated with her, but she told him he would have to wait for "Albert," so he went to his camp at Flint's Pond.

Mrs. Thayer had previously testified her husband did not have Christmas dinner at home because he was intoxicated at his camp.

Thayer testified Mrs. Robert J. Anderson, his step-daughter, tried to effect a reconciliation before the divorce actions were begun.

He said she pleaded with him to take her mother back, but he refused, telling her things had gone too far.

Stronger Beer Is Voted in Finland

Helsingfors, Finland, Dec. 16 (AP) The Finnish Diet has passed an amended bill to increase the percentage weight of alcohol in beer from 1.6, which is the limit under the present law, to 2.25. The Government had proposed to increase the content to 2.4 per cent. The bill in regarded as the first serious step toward modification or abolition of prohibition in Finland.

200,000 Weavers Face Crisis in England

Manchester, Eng., Dec. 16 (AP) Fears of a crisis in the cotton weaving industry, affecting 200,000 men were expressed today after it was learned the northern counties' textile trade federation had decided to support the weavers against the plan to increase the number of spindles allotted to each worker.

Christmas Gift Carries Them All to Far Away China

MRS. WONG YUEN ANNA MARY MABEL JIMMY ALLEN RAYMOND CHARLES WONG YUEN

HOME AGAIN TO CHINA. Wong Yuen, Chinese restaurant owner, gave his family a unique Christmas gift in the form of a six months' vacation trip to China. Wong Yuen and his family arrived in Boston today on the first leg of their trip from Bangor, Me., to Seattle, Wash., where they will board a ship for China. To most of the children, all attendants at Bangor schools, the trip came both as a Christmas gift and a reward for excellency in studies. (Staff photo.)

FAMILY OF NINE OFF TO CHINA

Wong Yuen, who came to this country 15 years ago, made a small fortune and raised a large family in Bangor, Me., is giving his wife and seven children a unique Christmas present. He's taking them all back to China for a six months vacation.

Wong and his family arrived at the North Station this morning and attracted no little attention from the army of commuters as they sat huddled on bags and suit cases in the waiting room. A kindly attendant of the Travelers' Aid Society, however, took them in hand and gave them a waiting room all to themselves in an upper story of the station—far away from the curious.

At three, Wong and his family will board a train for Seattle, where they will embark for the Homeland.

Wong didn't seem to mind the stares of the curious in the railroad terminal. In fact, he rather liked it. Looking over the group of youngsters, he said:

"I'm proud of them all. They all speak good English and go to American schools. They have done so well that I am taking them on this vacation."

Two New Tunnel Plans Submitted

The first meting of the Metropolitan Transit Council, created by the Legislature of 1929, was held today in the office of Mayor Curley, who was elected chairman, and Mayor Edward H. Larkin of Medford, secretary.

Gen. Edward L. Logan, chairman of the trustees of the Metropolitan Transit District, submitted plans for the proposed two new rapid transit routes, revealing the estimated cost has risen from $29,000,000 to $40,000,000.

One of the proposed routes would connect Roxbury, at South Huntington ave., with Day sq., East Boston, by means of a tunnel. The other would be an extension of the Boylston st. subway to Union sq., Brighton, on one end, and by way of North Station and Winter Hill, Somerville, to North Cambridge or Arlington on the other.

The next meeting will be Dec. 22.

Jefferson Letter on Declaration Sells for $23,000

Philadelphia, Dec. 16 (AP)—A letter written by Thomas Jefferson, purchased at a cost of $23,000, was added today to the collection of Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, historian and art collector.

The letter was found in a trunk at the home of Mrs. Raleigh Minor, Charlottesville, Va. His collection of letters written by signers of the Declaration of Independence, Dr. Rosenbach values at "more than $1,000,000."

The missive, written in Philadelphia July 1, 1776, is addressed to William Fleming, Jefferson's confidant. At the time it was written Jefferson was suspected in some quarters of being lukewarm toward the idea of freedom from England.

"If any doubt has arisen as to me," Jefferson wrote, "my country will have my political creed in the form of a declaration."

140 MILLIONS LEFT BY RYAN

New York, Dec. 16 (AP)—The estate of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan was valued at more than $140,000,000 in an accounting filed today by Clendenin J. Ryan, son and executor.

Mr. Ryan, who died in 1928, left $12,000 annually to Mt. Eymard Seminary, Suffern, N. Y., and $50,000 to the Fathers of the Blessed Sacrament.

The priests informed Clendenin Ryan his father agreed orally in 1909 to pay them part payments of the $305,000. They asked for the money with interest. The son told Surrogate Foley this was the first he had heard of the agreement, and asked whether the $50,000 could be applied in part payment of the $305,000.

He told the court the $12,000 annual bequest to the seminary was excessive and asked a reduction.

100 DRESSES IN WOMAN'S ROOM

In the Huntington ave. hotel suite of Mrs. Mabel B. Tyrell, 38, of Detroit, who was arrested yesterday after leaving a trail of worthless checks between that city and Boston, police today found 100 new dresses.

Mrs. Tyrell claimed that she bought them with money obtained by the checks. She confessed to Deputy Supt. McDevitt that she cashed about 75 worthless checks on one Boston bank in and about this city but that the total larceny would not be more than $500. Police allege it will be more than $1000.

Still claiming membership in the Daughters of the American Revolution, the organization whose identification card she used on many occasions to cash checks, Mrs. Tyrell was taken to police headquarters again this morning and finger-printed for a second time.

With her went her daughter, Dorothy, 18.

Both were later arraigned in Roxbury court on larceny charges and held in $8000 each. Unable to furnish bail, they were taken to jail to await a hearing December 24.

Her other daughter, Betty Gene, five, taken from her when she was arrested, was being cared for at the Chardon street home. Police allege Mrs. Tyrell used the little girl to advantage as a decoy in her check operations.

TEACHER FOUND DEAD IN AUTO IN ARLINGTON

Submaster Palmer of High School Is Believed to Have Been Monoxide Victim

Philip J. Palmer, sub-master in the Arlington high school, is dead today, believed to have been a victim of carbon monoxide gas poisoning, because he had failed to heed the repeated warnings of his wife to leave the garage doors open when he started his car on cold mornings.

Palmer was found dead slumped over the wheel of his automobile in a private stall in Lawson's garage, Massachusetts ave., Arlington, after police had been conducting a search for him for 24 hours.

Sergt. Harold Pick, who went to the garage on request of Charles Benn, owner, whose suspicions had been aroused by the presence of the car in the garage for two days, said Palmer had probably been dead for 20 hours.

An investigation by the police revealed that the switch of the car had been turned on but the motor had stopped. It was apparent that the engine had kept running until the supply of gasoline had been exhausted.

Palmer was last seen by his wife yesterday morning when he started for his office at the Arlington high school.

He was well known both in Arlington and in Cambridge, where he made his home at 10 Wendell st. He had been attached to the Arlington schools for five years. Mrs. Palmer has a son 17 months old.

4 SEAMEN LOST IN CANADIAN BLIZZARD

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 16 (AP)—The Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland were under a blanket of snow today, after a 12 hour blizzard which caused distress to shipping and interrupted communication and traffic.

Four seamen were lost off Newfoundland and several fishermen were missing from North Sydney.

CAPE BRETON CUT OFF

Cape Breton Island was virtually isolated for a time when the storm disrupted telegraph communication and halted train service between the island and the mainland.

Two small schooners anchored in the harbor at Sydney were sunk. No one was aboard them.

Bus service and rural mail delivery on the island was brought to a standstill.

The four lost off Newfoundland were memberes of the crew of the schooner Wallace M. Colp, which went aground at Burnt Point, Bay De Verde.

Anxiety was expressed for the safety of the crews of several fishing boats out of North Sydney, N. S.

Borah, of Idaho, testified in General Sessions Court today that he had never heard of the Franklin Plan Co., in connection with whose operation Viagio Viole, of Valley Cottage, N. Y., is charged with larceny. Viole is accused of having obtained $1000 from Joseph Abbott, of New York, on the representation that Senator Borah was obtaining a national bank charter for the company, which later failed.

China's New Tariff, to Take Big Jump

Shanghai, Dec. 16 (AP)—An upward revision of schedules is expected to confront importers shortly after the turn of the year, when China's new tariff law probably will be made effective.

The rates are expected to add to the difficulties of foreigners seeking trade in China.

Reports say the new tax on imported tobacco and cigarettes will be 72 per cent, now 40 per cent. Jewelry and cosmetics are expected to be about 40 per cent and foodstuffs about 30 per cent.

COAST GUARDS SAVE COTTAGES FROM FLAMES

Rye Beach, N. H., Dec. 16—Coast guardsmen, equipped only with water buckets, saved 20 cottages early today when fire destroyed the summer home of Harry L. Knapp, wealthy Manchester, N. H., insurance broker.

The blaze is believed to be of incendiary origin.

A garage on the Knapp property and two automobiles were saved.

Surfman Clarence M. Rock of the Wallis Sands Coast Guard station, saw flames shooting out of the Knapp cottage. He telephoned the North Rye Beach fire department and aroused other guardsmen.

Led by Herman Schwartz, commanding officer, the guardsmen rushed to the blaze only a short distance away. They fought the blaze with water from a nearby pump in buckets.

Sparks landed on the Coast Guard station for a time threatening it with destruction.

Commander Schwartz assigned guardsmen to soak the roofs of 20 nearby cottages. In a two-hour fight in zero weather the guardsmen prevented the blaze from spreading. The Knapp home was levelled.

The North Rye Beach fire department assisted in saving the cottages. Lack of water was blamed for the loss of the Knapp cottage.

NO. CAMBRIDGE MOTHER ASKS FOR HELP

Totally dependent upon her 13-year-old son who earns $12 a week, a North Cambridge woman, mother of 10 children appealed to the Boston Evening American Helping Hand department for food and clothing.

Neighbors of this family have given her aid, but it was not enough. This case is filed as 123. Anyone wishing to communicate with her may obtain the address by calling Liberty 4000, the Helping Hand Department.

10 NEED CLOTHING
(Refer to Case 123)

I am writing these few lines for my mother, asking you if you would please try and help us, as we are very much in need. We have 10 in the family, six sisters and four brothers. My oldest brother is 13 years, and the ages of the rest are 12, 11, 10, 8, 7, 6, 4 3, and 8 months. No one works in my house and my father works two and three days a week. We are very poor. Only for the good neighbors, we wouldn't be able to carry on. We need underwear and coats for my two little brothers. So please try and help us. We will remember you in our prayers.

This family lives in North Cambridge. Anyone wishing to investigate this case may learn the address by calling the Boston Evening American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case 123.

MOTHER ASKS AID
(Refer to Case 124)

This is the first time I have ever had to ask for aid. My husband has been out of work for quite a while and things look very blue for me. I am the mother of nine children, and would be very thankful for clothes, for I am very good at making them over. I need food more than anything else. My son is making $12 a week and that is my only income. The children's ages range from three to 12. I shall appreciate anything at all.

This family lives in Charlestown. Anybody wishing to aid may call the Boston American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and refer to Case 124.

ASK FOR CLOTHING
(Refer to Case 125)

I am appealing to you for help. My husband has not worked for two years. He had his leg broken at work and is unable to work since. I have nine children their ages ranging from 17 years to 18 months. My only help is from the two oldest. I will greatly appreciate any clothing, toys or dinner that you will give. Boys ages are as follows: 12-9-6-4-2 years and girls 7-11 and 1½ years Trusting you will not overlook this letter.

This woman lives in Roxbury. Anybody wishing to aid may call the Boston American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and refer to Case 125.

WIDOW ASKS AID
(Refer to Case 126)

I am the mother of nine children and my husband is dead and we are all in need of clothing. We have no bed clothing or mattresses for the beds. We are in a very bad fix for Christmas. I hope you will try and do all you can for us. Hoping to hear from you soon.

This family lives in Dorchester. Anybody wishing to aid may call the Boston American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and refer to Case 126.

$1,000,000 IN DRUGS SEIZED

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—Huge quantities of narcotics, said by the Treasury Department to be the largest seizure ever made in this country, have been taken on the steamer Alesia in New York harbor.

Customs agents reported today it totaled 1090 pounds and said the market value ran above $1,000,000.

Importers of the contraband were not captured.

The narcotics were shipped from Turkey, inclosed in cases of furs that originated in Constantinople.

Announcement of the seizure was made by Assistant Secretary Lowman, who said it resulted from the joint work of the customs and narcotics bureau.

Seaman With a Grudge Gave Tip to Raiders

New York, Dec. 16 (AP)—A group of customs officers from Boston and New York boarded the liner Alesia when it touched Providence last week on its incoming voyage from Mediterranean ports, ostensibly to hunt for narcotics, but they gave no indication when the vessel docked in Brooklyn that their search had met success.

The captain of the vessel asserted that the information that narcotics were aboard came from a disgruntled seaman.

The Alesia, captained by Edmond MacQuin, reached port here December 5 and sailed again from New York December 9, and from Providence, December 11, for Near East ports.

Cannon Vets' Bureau Charges Are Probed

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—Investigation of the machinery of the Veterans' Bureau for assigning medical officers was in progress today as a result of charges brought by Dr. Malcolm Cannon, son of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Dr. Cannon protests his proposed transfer from Charleston, W. Va., to Milwaukee.

Gifford in Move to Save Manomet Point

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)Examination of the shore at Manomet Point, Plymouth harbor, Mass., with a view to preventing further erosion would be authorized by a bill introduced today by Representative Gifford, Republican, Massachusetts.

30 Reported Dead in Turkish Flood

Istanbul, Turkey, Dec. 16 (AP)—Floods in southern Turkey were receding today, but telegraph lines were down and the fate of 25 villages in the cicinity of Adana was not known. Thirty persons were reported dead and at least a thousand homeless in Adana itself.

Up the Ladder

WOMAN KILLED BY AUTO

The body of an elderly woman who was killed by an automobile at Beacon and Tappan sts., Brookline, early today, was identified later as that of Mrs. Pauline Marson, 71, of 40 Beaconsfield rd., Brookline.

Mrs. Marson had been visiting friends and was on her way home when she was struck by an automobile, said by the police to have been operated by Dr. James L. Huntington of Fisher ave., Brookline. He stopped his car, picked the woman up and carried her to the Brooks Hospital in Summit ave., Corey Hill. Dr. Huntington told the police he was traveling at a slow rate of speed and did everything possible to avoid striking the woman.

Chesterton on Traffic

Hartford, Ct., Dec. 16 (AP)—Gilbert K. Chesterton, English writer, said last night, in a lecture here, that machines designed for speed have so congested modern streets that no one is able to move.

WIFE USED DRUG SAYS SHEPARD

Kansas City, Kan., Dec. 16 (AP)—Maj. Charles A. Shepard took the witness stand in his own defense today in his trial for the alleged poison murder of his wife. He testified Mrs. Shepard was addicted to liquor and feared insanity.

Tears came to the eyes of the defendant as he related that he discovered his wife was a drinker on their honeymoon after their marriage in Los Angeles in 1913.

He testified that Mrs. Shepard's mother became violently insane and that she was going to be like her mother. Fits of despondency occurred, he said, when she was drinking.

Maj. Shepard testified that he discovered a few months before Mrs. Shepard's death that she was using narcotics. This was then first mention of narcotics in the trial.

CAPTAIN TELLS OF BOAT FIRE

Miami, Fla., Dec. 16 (AP)—Capt. W. I. Stiles, master of the excursion boat Eurega II, which burned and sank near here Sunday evening with the loss of ta least three lives, testified at a federal investigation of the disaster today.

He said 133 persons were aboard the Eureka II and all were forced to jump into the water.

Capt. Stiles believed a spark from the engine generator ingnited oil in the engine room.

He said the craft carried sufficient life preservers for all aboard and declared he knew positively no one jumped into the water without a life belt.

He name the dead as Mrs. Mamie Sawyer of Miami; Henry J. Grimm of McCook, Neb., both passengers, and Clarence Vine of Haverhill, Mass., a member of the crew.

Capt. Stiles said he was convinced they died from shock and not from drowning. He said he had been advised there was no water in their lungs.

Christmastide Fire Warning Issued by Marshal Reth

With a view to preventing unnecessary fires during the Christmas season, State Fire Marshal John W. Reth today issued this list of don'ts:

Don't use paper celloid ornaments or lighted candles on your Christmas tree. If you use electric light bulbs, be sure the electric wiring has been done properly.

Don't use cotton wool to imitate snow.

Don't neglect to watch grate fires.

6 HOLD UP BANK FOR $50,000

Pittsburgh, Dec. 16 (INS)—Six youthful bandits "stuck up" the Manchester Savings and Trust Co. on the North Side today and escaped with $50,000.

A half-hour after the bank opened, the robbers walked in, flashed revolvers and sawed-off shotguns, and lined up about 30 employes.

One of the robbers compelled Dravo Grumpton, paying teller, to open the vault where the bulk of the funds were kept. At the point of the bandit's gun, Grumpton handed over the money.

4 Carolina Banks Close

Gastonia, N. C., Dec. 16 (AP)—Four Gaston county banks failed to open their doors today, leaving only one financial institution in this textile city of 20,000.

INDIA MAY GET PROVINCIAL HOME RULE

London Dec. 16 (AP)—Responsible government for the Indian provinces, with certain safeguards, was recommended today in a draft report of the sub-committee of the Indian round-table conference.

The report suggests that all provincial matters including law and order, be administed by the governments of the provinces "in responsibility to the provincial Legislature."

Nine of the Indian delegates dissented from a provision that special emergency powers be given the provincial governors in regard to legislation and finance, in event of a breakdown of the government.

The report also recommended that provincial ministers be responsible to the legislature and drawn from members of the legislature.

A difference of opinion arose today on the separation of Burma from India, which already has been agreed upon in principle. Some delegates quoted telegrams they had received, contending that Burmese opinion was not unanimously in favor of separation. Burmese delegates expressed the opinion that Burma should be given full dominion status.

Club Life Now an Outdoor Sport

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Communists staged one of their strolling riots on Fifth ave.

They threw eggs at the Union League. But forgot the toast.

The Union League is a very expensive place to riot outside of.

Dues are very high.

Membership is exclusive. And only the waiters are supposed to serve eggs.

This demonstration of flying omelets was part of the tableaux intended for the French consulate. Complicates things.

Now the French government will declare war against the Union League Club.

The Union League's membership consists of two floor lamps to every member.

We cannot believe a Communist when he yells he is hungry. And then throws a meal in your face to prove it.

If the Communists are going in for club life we will give them a list of nice clubs which have thrown the writer out.

We can understand the riot if the Communists were sore at the house committee of the club.

That's natural in every club. Even the members feel that way about it.

Everything is as lovely as syrup on waffles since Alice spoke to Dolly.

They met at the last White House reception. Mrs. Longworth said, "Hello, Dolly."

Not to be outdone in Oriental courtesy, Mrs. Gann replied, "Hello, Alice."

That's diplomacy. An ordinary person would have recited Ben Hur, the Declaration of Independence, the Dying Gladiator and had her eyebrows burned off by flashlight powders.

Alice hasn't spoken to Dolly since Dolly got her right seat at the dinner table.

So it means something to disarmament and future budgets when Alice and Dolly exchanged a couple of dainty "hellos."

Then the two girls shook hands and broke clean. Round even.

You might have wondered what important people say to each other when they're there. We already know what they say about each other when they're not there.

Well, that's all they say. Hello. All the famous speeches and sayings of history are merely legend.

Mark Twain said that repartee was something you think of the next day.

Which is correct. So you can expect the telephonic greeting between Alice and Dolly to build up into something important as time skitters around the town clock.

Even now, Alice is probably saying, "Well, I meets her and I gives her a stare that woulda nickleplated an iceberg. Then I says scramm, scramm and she was like the Prince of Wales. She didn't know whether she was on foot or hoss-back. And when I asked her how many chins they were wearing this season she faded like an old exhausted sunset."

And Dolly, after giving the matter due thought, is undoubtedly stretching that hello into a long distance call, "She looks at me like an old Colonial tea kettle and I gave her a snub that would have stopped a twenty-mule team on a dime. She swishes around like a cow's tail in fly time. But I out-swished her. I don't fall for that handshake that she gives me. Nobody can hand me that middle-aged oyster and claim it's a hearty old American grip."

Everybody knows that one word leads to another. And by the time that the hello girls are through adding to their greeting you are going to have a conversation that will fill Carnegie library and hang up a new highwater mark for oratorical floods.

MELLON UNDER FIRE IN HOUSE

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—Secretary Mellon and Eugene Meyer, whose nomination as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board is before the Senate, were under attack today in the House.

Rpresentative Garner, Democratic leader, said he would prove irregularities in tax refunds through the Treasury, if the House authorized an inquiry. He joined with Chairman McFadden of the House Banking Committee in opposition to Senate confirmation of Meyer.

McFadden said confirmation would put the Federal Reserve system in international finance. Garner said the charges were an indictment of the administration and of the Federal Reserve Board under Mellon.

The Texan charged that Mellon had tried to mislead the public on the amount of tax refunds.

Representative Golder, Republican Pennsylvania, asked if any of these refunds were made illegally.

"Yes sir, I think so," the Texan answered, "and if you will give me the opportunity to investigate the Treasury I'll show you irregularities."

YALE RAPPED ON CHARITY GAME

New Haven, Ct., Dec. 16 (AP)—Yale Daily News, under-graduate newspaper, today expressed its opinion that Yale could have done what Army and Navy did last Saturday, play a football game for charity's sake.

Of the game the News said no institutions had more cogent excuses for not playing than did Army and Navy; they were not on good terms athletically, and the date interfered with examinations at West Point.

From its own viewpoint the News said:

"In contrast, Yale's main argument consisted in a rather weak appeal to precedent as a reason for not playing the game. It would not have taken much effort on the part of the authorities to get in touch with an administrative head or a national committee and to offer the services of the team."

Butcher-Thief Hunted

Mystic, Conn., Dec. 16 (INS)—State police of the groton barracks are today hunting a roaming butcher who has twice stolen heifers from local pastures, killed and skinned them, and left the hides behind.

Slayer of Parents Sought

Nashville, Ind., Dec. 16 (AP)—Paul Brown, 28, was sought by police today for killing his parents.

Christmas Goodies!

Plump pumpkin pies—glassy smooth and delicately brown—plum puddings rich with fruit and nuts—cakes of delicious concoction — what would Christmas be without these goodies?

With the help of a refrigerator well filled with clear, sparkling Boston Ice it is possible to make many of these delicacies in advance of the Great Day and so save time and energy at the last minute for other things.

Pie crust is always better if made a week or more before it is needed and kept wrapped in a damp cloth in the refrigerator. The ingredients for plum puddings can be placed in the refrigerator and used when desired. And even the pudding itself will be fresher and more delicious if kept for a period in a glass-container in the ice-chilled refrigerator and then served piping hot with hard sauce.

As a Change from Potatoes

IN spite of overcoats, rubbers, and heated homes, Winter usually takes us by surprise. He attacks us with sudden cold spells, just when we are off our guard.

The heat that preserves health at all times comes from within. Is your family properly nourished to withstand the winter months? Here's a simple inexpensive safeguard—serve MUELLER'S MACARONI often at the principal meal.

Nourishing, "Energizing"

This tasty food builds vigor and energy into the system. It is made from a special blend of farina, according to exclusive processes, and contains the muscle-building elements of meat in a more digestible form. The following is one of many tasteful ways of serving it:

MACARONI ROYAL

1 pkg. MUELLER'S MACARONI; 7 slices lean bacon; 1 small onion, chopped fine; ¼ pound cheese; 2 cans tomato soup. Parboil the macaroni 7 min. in 4 qts. rapidly boiling water with 1 tbsp. salt. Drain. Panbroil bacon. Place layer of macaroni in baking dish, dot with minced cheese and bacon, add layer of macaroni; continue until used up. Mix tomato soup and onion; pour over top. Bake in a moderate oven for 20 min.

Lightest and "Fluffiest"

Nine minutes' boiling has been found to give best results obtainable. In that time MUELLER'S MACARONI acquires a lightness and "fluffiness" obtainable in no other make.

If you want especial tenderness, one or two more minutes may be allowed, but the frequent mistake of overcooking should be avoided.

Try this method of preparation with one package of MUELLER'S. Your grocer has it, or can get it for you.

Society Is Interested in Band

Many Leaders Are Invited to Hear Firemen Play in Jordan Hall

SOCIETY IS INTERESTED in the activities of the Boston fire department band which will give its initial band concert in Jordan Hall on Thursday evening, December 18. Mr. Russell Codman, Jr., Miss Louise Fessenden, Mr. Gordon Abbott, Jr., and Mrs. William Lowell Putnan, with Edward F. McLaughlin are on the executive committee and Mayor Curley is honorary president. Invitations have gone out to friends of the committee and directors to attend this first concert by the band and the general public may obtain tickets from any of the directors without cost.

AMONG THE DIRECTORS are Mrs. Gaspar Bacon, Mrs. Harold J. Coolidge, Mrs. William A. Gaston, Courtenay Guild, N. Penrose Hallowell, Huntington R. Hardwick, Alexander Steinert, Mrs. Edward Thaw, Bentley W. Warren, E. Sohier Welch and Joseph W. Woods. Mr. Codman will make a brief introductory address. Edward F. McLaughlin, fire commissioner of Boston, will also deliver a short address; Wallace Goodrich, dean of the faculty of the New England Conservatory of Music, will speak, and Mrs. Putnam and Mayor Curley will also have a few words to say during the evening.

THE BOSTON FIRE DEPARTMENT band is an organization in which everyone should take pride and to those who were fortunate enough to hear it at the Tercentenary Costume Ball no doubt they will be glad of the opportunity to attend another performance in Jordan Hall.

INVITATIONS ARE OUT for a dinner-dance to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Gardiner of High st., Brookline, to present their daughter, Miss Frances, on Friday, Jan. 9.

South End Music School Benefits by Concert Tonight

THE SOUTH END MUSIC SCHOOL will benefit by the concert this evening in Symphony Hall by Alexander Kipnis, basso of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Wyman Whittemore and a group of matrons prominent in social and musical life. The committee is composed of Mesdames N. Penrose Hallowell, J. Dellinger Barney, John Bolt, Arthur Richmond, Roger S. Warner, Morgan Butler, Roger Swain, Chester Humphrey, J. Lovell Little, George Hawley, Philip Wilson, James Wheeler, F. Murray Forbes, Jr., Frederic Galacar, Gorham Brooks, William Ellery, Jaspar Whiting, Thomas Thacher, Alexander Ladd, William B. Robbins, Langdon Warner, Mr. George L. Foote, Miss Susazze Dabney and Miss Rosamond Borland.

MR. AND MRS. N. PENROSE HALLOWELL are giving a dinner before the concert at the Chilton Club and have invited Madame Serge Koussevitzky and Miss Olga Naowmoff, Jan Sikisch, Mrs. Edward Thaw, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lovell Little, and Dr. and Mrs. Wyman Whittemore. Dr. and Mrs. Whittemore will entertain for Mr. Kipnis at supper after the concert and among the guests will be many of the friends Mr. Kipnis made in previous years when he has sung informally at Mrs. Whittemore's house during the visits of the Chicago Opera.

Larz Andersons to Entertain at Dance for Miss Anne Perin

MR. AND MRS. LARZ ANDERSON have issued invitations for a small dinner and dance for the debutantes and younger members of the dancing set in Washington at Grasslands on Monday, December 29, in honor of their cousin, Miss Anne Perin, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Nelson Perin. Soon after the New Year, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are sailing for the Orient.

SAILING ON THE PATRIA on Saturday was Mrs. Maynard Ladd (Anne Coleman Ladd) with her two daughters, Misses Vernon and Gabriella. Mrs. Ladd sailed from New York and the girls joined her at Boston when the Patria arrived here. They will spend the winter in Rome.

MRS. CHARLES L. HARDING of Dedham has opened her villa at Palm Beach for the season.

MRS. E. PREBLE MOTLEY, JR., of Boston, is a visitor at the Weylin Hotel in New York.

MRS. F. LOTHROP AMES, who has been living at the Ritz-Carlton, is leaving for California to be gone about two months. She will spend some time at Pebble Beach, and will visit other friends in various parts of California.

MISS ELEANOR MASON, daughter of Mrs. Herbert W. Mason, is visiting the parents of her fiance, Mr Edward Timothy Buxton, in New York.

Nicaragua Leader Praises Aid of U. S.

Managua, Nicaragua, Dec. 16 (AP)—President J. M. Moncada in his message to the nineteenth Nicaraguan Congress which opened yesterday, praised co-operation of the United States in affairs of this country and declared that it would lead "along the road of protection to liberty and republicanism."

Press Host to Lewis

Stockholm, Dec. 16 (AP)—Sinclair Lewis, who came to Sweden in connection with award of the 1930 Nobel prize for literature, will leave for the United States early next week. He will lecture at Gothenburg Friday and return here for Mrs. Lewis. He will travel home by way of Oslo, Copenhagen and Berlin.

Mr. Lewis was guest of honor at a dinner of the International Press Association last night. The famous French writer, Serge De Chessin, presiding, greeted him as a colleague, saying journalism leads to anything and from the start had led Lewis to his present eminence.

Lewis, responding, said newspapermen in America as a rule did not recognize him as a journalist, but called him an author, while authors called him a journalist.

"But as my wife, who is a real journalist, is prevented from being present," he said, "I think I shall dare to call myself a journalist, too. I am proud to do so since journalism is one of the noblest professions and one of great responsibility."

2 Airplane "Mothers" Now White Elephants

Washington, Dec. 16 (INS)—The two biggest and costliest warships afloat—the American airplane carries Lexington and Saratoga—are "white elephants." Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, favors laying up the ships as does Representative French (R.) of Idaho, chairman of the naval appropriations sub-committee. The ships cost $40,000,000 each.

Professional Women Will Stage Show Next Month

By NANCY BREWSTER

Twelfth Night Revels, a panorama of color, held annually by the Professional Women's Club, this year will take place, figuratively, in the Latin Quarter of Paris, with all the mysterious romance and traditional adventure of the Parisian Mecca in evidence.

Exciting episodes will transpire as the members, costumed for the occasion silhouetted against a darkened background in the "studio," view the works of art and costumes for the ball.

The revels will start at 8 p. m. in the ballroom of the Hotel Statler, Saturday, Jan. 3.

Each year a new idea is conceived and the chairman delves into the untried for unusual entertainment, since the revels are the crowning social event of the season for the Professional Women's Club.

There will be members masqueraded as gay students frolicking through the "street" and "sidewalk cafe," with its singers and dancers furnishing untold amusement. The wandering gypsy with her powers of light transformation will produce magic effects for the customers as "The Beggar Prince" acts his part.

There will be the king and the queen of the revels with the jester, heralds and attendants for atmosphere. An event of gigantic proportions, Professional Club members anticipate its realization, Saturday, January 3.

Mrs. Mary R. Campbell of Cambridge is ticket chairman; Mrs. Elizabeth J. Drummond, business manager; Miss Nan Gurny, treasurer; Miss Nellie L. Thompson, vice-chairman and Mrs. Josephine Perkins, chairman.

Rooming House Ass'n to Hold Meeting and Christmas Party

A business meeting will precede the Christmas party, and carol singing of the Boston Rooming House Association, to take place tomorrow evening at 20 Union Park at 8 o'clock. A group of girls, daughters of members of the association, will present the entertainment. Then will enter Santa Claus, with the customary fun-making and exchange of gifts.

Mrs. Mary Snyder, president of the association, will preside, assisted by Mrs. G. E. Gibbs.

Waterbury Woman's Club Entertained by Local Musicians

From Waterbury, Vt., comes the announcement that the Woman's Club was entertained by Kathleen LeBarn Luce, who presented a varied program of songs and readings, assisted by Mrs. George Carpenter, pianist, and Miss Beryl Thibault, violinist.

Mrs. Ralph Wright Putnam also informs that on Jan. 2, at the club meeting, Miss Marjorie Luce, assistant state club leader, will address the group on "Child Health and Protection."

Revere Club Women to Hold Christmas Party for Children

Members of the Revere Woman's Club will have a Christmas party tomorrow afternoon in the vestry of the First Congregational Church for which Mrs. George P. Merwin is hostess. There will be a tree with a Yuletide program.

In charge of the party, Mrs. Austin P. Kimball has arranged for the attendance of a large number of poor children of Revere at festivities to take place Saturday. Then toys, candy and useful gifts will be distributed to the youngsters.

The sale of Christmas seals has been sponsored by the club again this year. Mrs. Charles Ladd is the chairman, and Mrs. Franklin Leach, treasurer, of the committee.

Fortnightly Club to Hear Christmas Carols at Meeting

Rev. Otis W. Foye will bring Christmas greetings to the meeting of the Thursday Fortnightly Club of Dorchester, Thursday at 2 p. m. in the Dorchester Woman's clubhouse, followed by an attractive program of Chirstmas carol singing.

Mrs. Harrie W. Jacobs will read Christmas stories and poems, as will Mrs. Bertram C. Richardson. A musical program consisting of carol singing by club members and presentation of a group of songs by F. Ellsworth Winchester, baritone, will feature the afternoon program.

A sale of Christmas greens under the direction of Mrs. Christopher G. Hammond and her committee will conclude the program. Mrs. Fred G. Wood heads the committee of hostesses.

Members' Daughters Will Be Guests of Newton Centre Club

Daughters of members of the Newton Centre Woman's Club are the specially invited guests to the club's program, Friday, at the clubhouse, 3 o'clock. For this unusual project Mrs. Rufus S. Wilson and her committee will supervise the social end.

The club is proud of the progress made by Miss Elizabeth Bartlett, chairman of the Christmas Health seals committee. In this undertaking she was assisted by Mrs. Eugene H. Bird, Mrs. Thomas B. Booth, William J. Cloues, Mrs. Edward A. Douglas, Mrs. Otis D. Fellows, Jr., Mrs. William Hann, Mrs. Edwin A. Meserve, Mrs. G. W. Ulmer, Miss Mary Steeves and Miss Helen S. Tolman.

Musicale and Tea to Be Held Jan. 17 by Mrs. Pauline Clark

A "Manuscript Musical and Tea" is announced for Jan. 17, from 3 to 5 p. m., by Mrs. Nelson W. Howard, chairman of the manuscript department of the Massachusetts Federation of Music Clubs, to be held at the home of Mrs. Pauline Hammond Clark, 543 Boylston st., Boston.

Members of the federation knowing young musicians working along creative lines, either vocally or instrumentally, are urged to communicate with the department chairman. This is the first step of one of the youngest departments of the federation and membership co-operation is solicited.

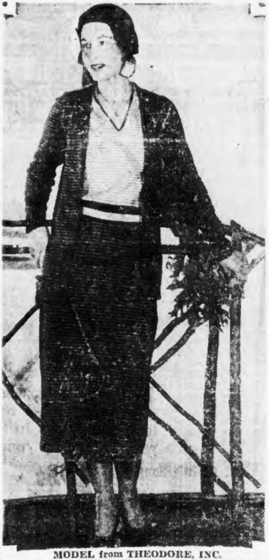
Knit Suits Popular All Year Around

By ANN ARDEN



MODEL from THEODORE, INC.
HAT from MLLE. CLEOPHEE ROBILLARD.

SPORTSWEAR IS about the only category of fashion this year where one need not pause for deep searching reflection. No periods, no racking decisions between demureness or sophistication—and no frills disturb the sporting tranquility of this side of the mode. Choice is made straight and sure—it is the knit suit in its simplest, most casual form.

* * *

IT WEATHERS season after season admirably—its eternal freshness depends upon the correct lines, and new color combinations. It is correct for country, and for informal town wear, and travels from the suburbs to the city without a wrinkle, while the smart college junior adopts it as her own.

* * *

THE KNIT costume is the medium through which women wearing it achieve not only smartness but a reputation for chic! One can be supremely successful in matching, contrasting or harmonizing the knit costume with other parts of one's wardrobe.

* * *

THE KNIT ensemble pictured has its straight skirt, and cardigan jacket toned Dauphin blue, flecked in yellow, forming irregular, horizontal stripes. The sleeveless blouse is of vivid yellow flecked in blue. Wide bands of blue and yellow mark its lower section, which may be worn tuck-in or over the skirt. The V neck of the blouse, jacket edge and tops of the slit pockets are bound in plain blue. The hat is black felt, its turn-back brim caught with quill feathers in black and blue.

* * *

PEERING INTO the spring we wonder whether or not our color chart will change. Yellows are scheduled for important place in resort and springtime modes. Navy blue also promises to be in the vanguard of fashion. Stripes and plaids and checks will add interest to the season. The yellow that is most promising is a mustard-gold shade that is decidedly new.

* * *

IF YOU have wondered whether the new lightweight woolen frocks might pall upon the public, you will be interested to hear that they are appearing in other and brighter colors than the usual black, navy blue, brown and such. The yellows that are in such abundance for resort wear appear in the lightweight frock of wool as do other of the deeper pastels.

SOVIET TO PICK NEW LEADER

M[illegible], Dec. 16 (AP) The exigen[illegible] of Soviet politics today in[illegible] the prospect of another shake-up in the administrative posts in the Government which may reach even as high as Alexis Rykoff, president of the council of people's commissars, which post corresponds to that of premier in other countries.

Because of serious criticism Rykoff may soon request the central executive committee to relieve him of his position.

If the plan has been decided upon it is considered likely that the new premier has been chosen but his identity is held in the greatest secrecy.

The only other man to hold the post of Soviet premier was Lenin, Rykoff having been appointed after Lenin's death.

Last spring Rykoff, with Michael P. Tomsky and N. A. Uglanov appeared before the All-Union Congress of the Communist Party and "confessed" their sins as members of the Right Wing, promising to support the party policies in the future.

Uglanov was dropped as commissar of labor and Tomsky was ousted as head of the Soviet Trade Union, but Rykoff managed to retain all posts.

Reports today were that the Communist administration intends to eliminate any sign of opposition. An absolutely united party front must be maintained if the five-year industrialization plan is to be carried out.

At Odds on Parking

Lowell, Dec. 16—Although City Solicitor Henry V. Charbonneau expressed the opinion that the new rules banning all-day parking downtown are in effect. Police Supt. Hugh Downey announced that no effort is being made to enforce the new regulations.

EINSTEINS OFF TO CALIFORNIA

New York, Dec. 16 (AP)—Dr. Albert Einstein sailed for California early today to continue his research with American scientists.

The liner Belgenland will take the physicist and wife and the rest of the party to Havana on December 19, show them the Panama Canal on December 23, and leave them at Los Angeles on New Year's Day, after touching San Diego, Cal., on December 31.

Dr. Einstein will pass some weeks in Pasadena, Cal., with Dr. Robert P. Millikan, head of the California Institute of Technology, and visiting Mount Wilson Observatory.

Einstein in parting left this message:

"I am leaving New York with a sense of a new spiritual and mental enrichment and with thankful appreciation for the extraordinarily friendly welcome and assistance accorded me by the officials of the city and by the many sympathetic men and women whom I had the good fortune to find here."

Takes Own Life

New York, Dec. 16 (AP)—On the eve of his divorced wife's marriage to another George A. Van Der Bellen, 33, of Pedricktown, N. J., shot himself to death in the presence of the woman and their three-year-old son, Alex.

Excavations in the ancient ruins in Sybaris, in southern Italy, have revealed two pipe lines of terra cotta tiles nearly three miles long. These pipe lines were used to convey oils and wine from the vineyards and orchards to ships on the waterfront 2600 years ago. Read about this in the American Weekly section of next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Letters From American Readers

Letters from readers on current subjects are welcomed. Letters should not exceed 250 words in length, should be written on one side of the paper, and must bear the writer's name. Names will be omitted in publication, if requested. Address Editor, Boston American, 5 Winthrop sq.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

My attention has been called to an editorial appearing in your paper under date of December 11, 1930, relative to certain bills filed by me in respect to compulsory automobile liability insurance

The bill which I have filed in reference to demerit rating is substantially the same bill that was recommended by the Special Commission to Study Compulsory Motor Vehicle Liability Insurance and Related Matters as is set forth in its report, Senate Document 280 of 1930 (pp 24-26), and reported favorably by the legislative committee on insurance as Senate Bill 449 of 1930.

It is contemplated that any premiums paid under the plan of demerit rating by motor vehicle owners involved in accidents for which they are responsible will be applied to a reduction of the rates to be paid by motor vehicle owners who are not involved in such accidents

I have not, as the editorial states, filed a bill to require automobilists to submit a report to their insurance companies in respect to accidents in all cases. I have filed two bills requiring persons, whether or not they are automobilists, making claims against automobile owners to give written notice to the insurer of the accident and of any suit they may bring against a motor vehicle owner.

MERTON L. BROWN
Commissioner of Insurance.

Wrong Slant Seen on Poison Alcohol

Editor Boston American

There is a lot of crooked [illegible] and poisonous opinions [illegible] and the public [illegible] against them

When you say in your editorial column that Uncle Sam is in the role of a poisoner because prohibition has allowed poison alcohol it strikes me that a snarl in reasoning has here been discovered.

If this sort of reasoning is [illegible] accepted then Uncle Sam [illegible] a big gambler [illegible] because we have law [illegible] crimes [illegible] to exist. [illegible] D. I. JACOBS

Urges Veterans to Write Congressmen on Bonus Bill

Editor Boston American

Since Dec. 2, 1930 I have received a great number of letters from veterans all over New England asking for petitions for signature on the Hon. Wright Patman bonus bill. As the Boston Evening American has made it possible for a great many veterans all over the country to be acquainted with the proceedings of Mr. Patman's bill.

If the boys will give me a few more days I will mail to all vets the desired information and also the petitions.

This bill will have a hearing in a few days and it is the duty of every veteran to write to their congressman and ask them to support the Wright Patman bonus bill. I have just received 3000 more speeches from Washington to give out to whoever wants them.

3 WIVES KISS JAILED BIGAMIST GOOD-BYE

Logan Begs Wilda Not to Stay Long

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Wilda Gardner, bookkeeper in a hardware store, is in love with Logan Townsend. He is no Adonis, Wilda thinks, but "he has a rare smile." Wilda's father dies and her mother, Gracie, becomes a different woman when the lawyers say the estate will amount to $100,000. She plans a trip to Europe. Wilda has a wonderful time at a house party where Logan asks her to marry him. Myrtle, who is determined to win Logan, turns up at the dock as Wilda boards steamer for Europe.

By MAY CHRISTIE

(Copyright, 1930)

CORAL SWUNG round on Myrtle. "And you pretend to be so goody-good and yet I can see you're dying for a cocktail!"

"Coral, you story teller!"

"Cut out the baby-talk and come on with me in search of the bartender!"

"I never touch a thing! No, Coral, I wouldn't!"

"Then I s'pose you were only out to reform the crowd last night at Gussie's speak easy? Oh, you were there—as gay as a lark—a little bird told me about you. And you can't deny you were lit to the wide the night you flew in so late at the Mc Pherson's party in Manchester? I'm wise to you, old dear . . . for don't I tuck you up between the sheets myself after dosing you with aspirin and bromo seltzer?"

Myrtle Furious

At Being Shown Up

Myrtle was furious at being shown up so. She turned appealingly to Logan.

"You don't believe a word she's said? You know me better?"

"We all know you but too well, old kid, so quit your puffing." And Coral winked at the others as she took Myrtle firmly by the arm, and made as though to lead her out of the cabin. "The bar steward's a good-looking chap. I've already given him your name and address, so he can slip you a case of good liquor. You need a real bootlegger, Myrtle, for the last lot you had at your house was absolute rat poison!"

Logan's Goodbye

Begged Her Not to Stay Long

And she fairly pulled the protesting girl out into the passageway, closing behind them the door of the cabin.

Alone, at last, were Wilda and Logan.

"You won't stay away too long? You'll write regularly? You won't forget me, honey?"

"No. I couldn't though I wanted to."

"Darling—that you should leave me now—it's terrible!"

"Terrible of me, also."

He put his arms around her. She nestled close to him.

"You won't forget me, either, Logan?"

"As though I ever could! Why, this is the biggest and best thing in my life, Wilda!"

"Say it again. I'm going so far away. Right across the Atlantic ocean."

"If I were Lindbergh, I'd fly directly to you, dearest," said the young man fatuously.

"My thoughts will fly, all right," she answered.

The nearness and dearness of him! Oh, it was hard, this parting!

They kissed again—and yet again. And it seemed no time at all till Wilda's mother and their friends all trooped down into the cabin.

Then came the bugle: "Visitors ashore." To Wilda it was dirge-like.

Giggled Myrtle, just as though she'd read the other's feeling and was mocking it: "There's the Last Post being sounded over somebody's grave."

"Shut up," adjured Coral pertly, "if you can't think of something wittier than that, be silent."

Myrtle was annoyed. She put her hand on Logan's arm. "You big he-man, protect me!"

They all trooped up on deck. The crowds were congregated there. Among the passengers and their friends there was much kissing and bye-bying and bon-voyaging and weeping.

HAYDEN WILL CROSS IS DOUBTED

Expert in Dedham Contest Declares "Her Mark" Was Made by Another

Testimony in support of the contention that the cross purporting to be "her mark" on the will of Mrs. Ada T. Hayden, of Milton, was made by the hand of another was given by a handwriting expert today in probate court at Dedham, where the document is being contested.

Wilbur F. Turner was the expert. He testified for Frances Hazlett, Marion P. Lawrence and Harry G. Lawrence, step-sisters and step-brother of the deceased who seek a share of the $150,000 estate left by Mrs. Hayden to her husband.

Turner declared in his opinion the hand that wrote Mrs. Hayden's name wrote the cross, but not the words, "her mark." He said also the cross was marked over "her mark."

Although it has never been claimed the name on the will was Mrs. Hayden's signature, he testified it was a "spliced" copy of her signature.

It had been previously testified by Miss May Booth, secretary of Judge Joseph R. Churchill, who drew the will, that Mrs. Hayden was too weak to sign her signature but made a cross beside her name. Miss Barbara Glasgow of Dorchester, a nurse and witness to the will, had testified she saw Mrs. Hayden make her mark.

Bill Filed to Guard Rights of Citizens

A bill to protect the rights of citizens in public works employment was today filed at the State House by Rep. James P. Meehan of Lawrence.

Under this measure citizens who are war veterans would be given preference, next would come citizens of the state and then citizens of the United States. All contracts of a public nature would carry this clause. In town work, preference would not be required to be given to non-resident veterans over local citizens.

$50 Weekly for News and Picture Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston Evening American offers the opportunity. Each week $50 in prizes will be given for news and picture tips telephoned in to the News-Tip Editor, at Liberty 4000.

And what is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident or an unusual event has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip. If you have a camera, take a picture of some news event, while it is happening. Pictures of unusual animal poses are wanted, too. Bring your action pictures to the American quick. Delay often spoils them for use in the American.

There will be $15 given weekly for the best or an unusual event news tip received; $10 for the next best; $5 for the next best, and $2 prizes for each of the 10 next most valuable tips. Of course, the first one who turns in the tip in an interesting event receives the award on that particular item. Anyone who is alive and alert can win.

250 WILL JOIN RAIL BATTLE

The Foreign Commerce Club composed of 250 business men on Boston's waterfront, took steps today to intervene in the rail differential case against New York railroads.

President Elmer E. Elwell of the club announced he has instructed a special committee to draw up necessary papers to be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission when the hearings are resumed here Feb. 2.

The committee is headed by J. H. Heaney, transportation manager of the Shippers' Service, Inc., who has a license to practice before the I. C. C. Other members are President Elwell; Walter E. Doherty, customs broker, and Chester A. Gardner, the secretary.

Much Power in a Picture

This One Should Open Some Pocketbooks

It is not easy, as a rule, to think of others, less fortunate, when we are happy, and have all we need.

The little boy in this picture may be mistaken in saying to his father, so pathetically: "Sure! They're goin' to see us!"

This picture is printed, and these lines are written, in the hope that, through the eyes of the imagination, and because of their kind hearts, many readers of the Evening American will "see" children and men such as this, and, having seen, that they will HELP.

The Christmas Basket Fund and the Helping Hand department of the American offer you an opportunity to relieve many such fathers and children.

A long time ago it was said by the noblest Spirit that ever appeared on this earth:

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, you have done it unto me."

Many things on the world make [illegible] happy: friends, cheerfulness, money, and the pl[illegible] that comes with it.

But there is no greater, truer happiness than that conferred by a generous deed.

If you wish the American Christmas Basket Fund to act as your agent, send what you can afford, much or little, to the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston.

BACON LEADS FIGHT AGAINST RAMP FOR 'L' AT FOREST HILLS

STATE HOUSE HEARING FOR ESCALATOR

100 Opponents to Incline Plan Appear Before the Public Utilities Commission

The petition of the Boston Elevated to substitute a ramp for the present escalator at Forest Hills met with strong opposition at a hearing before the Public Utilities Commission at the State House today.

Some 150 opponents, residents, heads of civic organizations with public officials from Hyde Park, Roslindale, Jamaica Plain, Forest Hills and West Roxbury crowded the hearing room.

Because of the size of the throng the hearing was moved from room 166 to room 370, which is larger, on motion of ex-Representative Francis X Coyne of Dorchester.

BACON LEADS FIGHT

President Gaspar G. Bacon of the Senate headed the opposition which numbered in its ranks Patrick Brady, referred to as "the former mayor of Forest Hills," City Councillors Edward L. Englert of Ward 11, Peter A. Murray, Ward 13, Clement A. Norton, Ward 18, and Joseph Cox, Representatives William F. Madden and Joseph C. White, Representative-elect William C. [illegible] and representatives of a score of civic organizations.

Chairman Harry F. Attwill of the commission presided and [illegible] Ware [illegible] [illegible] handled [illegible]. He introduced Lewis E. M[illegible] consulting engineer, who [illegible] two [illegible] drawn to scale, one of the present escalator and the other of the proposed ramp.

RAMP IS CHEAPER

He explained that a new single file escalator would cost $48,000, and a double file $75,000, with temporary repairs to the present escalator estimated at $12,000.

The ramp, he said, would cost $2,000, with the additional advantage that there would be practically no cost of maintenance.

The ramp would be on a 15 degree grade, similar to those at Sullivan and Harvard sqs., 156 feet long with nine steps, four in one place and five in another.

Mr Barnum said the maintenance costs for escalators in 15 years was $831,000 and for the past 11 months, $48,000. He said the Elevated is just about breaking even and any added expense that can be done away with is to the advantage of citizens of all communities served by the road.

LEADING THE FIGHT against the Boston Elevated's petition to install a ramp at Forest Hills in lieu of escalators is Senator Gaspar G. Bacon.

THE STATE'S Public Utilities Commission is conducting a hearing on the Elevated's petition. Photo shows the crowded hearing room at the State House. It is contended by the Elevated that the cost of upkeep alone of an escalator is ruinous, while a ramp costs virtually nothing to keep in use. It was argued at the hearing today that ramps at Harvard sq. and Sullivan station have proved satisfactory. Numerous citizens and civic leaders oppose the ramp. (Staff photos.)

GARRETT TRIAL OFF TO JAN. 5

Illness of Chief Justice Walter Perley Hall of the superior court at his home in Fitchburg made it obvious today that the trial of Oliver B Garrett, his wife and Lillian V Hatch on conspiracy and extortion charges will not begin before January 5.

Dist Atty. William J. Foley said that under the present circumstances it is impossible to say definitely when the trial can start.

Judge Hall's illness has resulted in his cases devolving upon Judge Harold D. Williams, and there is one less judge to handle the cases on the docket. The chief justice complained of feeling ill last Friday and yesterday he was not in court. It was learned today he had asked Judge Williams to take care of his cases.

Court suspends on December 24 until after New Year's, and it is believed that there is little likelihood now of launching the Garrett trial before the holidays.

In spite of the prospect of spending Christmas in Charles st. jail, Garrett has made no move to obtain bail, and apparently is going to adhere to his original plan of refusing to ask for bail, thus getting an earlier trial.

$2500 Found on Woman Receiving State Aid

An 88-year-old Malden woman who was taken to the [illegible] bury infirmary a few days after the Malden Welfare Department, was found to have $2500 in cash secreted in her clothing when searched at the infirmary.

Search first was made at the request of Dr. Joseph W. P[illegible], chairman of the Malden Welfare Board, and revealed $700 in bills of large denomination. Further search at the request of an agent from the State Welfare Department revealed the balance.

Because the elderly woman had received aid from the state for some time, the state has made claim for the money.

$200,000 FOR SCHOOL JOBS

HEALEY TO GET BAIL IN DEATH

Thomas G. Healey, one of the alleged slayers of Patrolman Joseph O'Brien of Brookline, is to be released from Dedham jail in $5000 bail pending trial.

A [illegible] to have Healey admitted to bail was granted by Judge Gibbs in Norfolk Superior Court today after he had listened to the pleas of Atty. William G. Todd that the youth be allowed out to spend the Christmas holidays with his parents.

Dist. Atty. Winfield M. Wilbar offered no objection to the plea of Healey's counsel. It is understood Healey will be released today.

Healey is alleged to have been the companion of Paul Hurley of Pittsburgh on the night the officer was slain. The police contend that Hurley was the slayer.

NAVAL MEN AT McGANN RITES

The funeral of Ensign Bernard F. McGann, chief clerk to Rear Admiral Louis M. Nulton, commandant of the First Naval District, took place today with naval and civic officials present.

The cortege moved from the home, 31 Juliette st., Dorchester, to St. Peter's Church, Meeting House Hill, where requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. Cornelius Mason, assisted by Rev. Leo O'Day as deacon and Rev. John York as sub-deacon.

Rear Admiral Nulton was represented by Capts. C. F. Abele and J. F. Nelson. Mayor John J. Murphy, of Somerville, was also present. Mayor Curley sent a floral tribute.

The honorary bearers were Lieut.-Comdr. Philip C. Taisiz, Lieut.-Comdr. Frank J. Bailey, Lieut.-Comdr. Joseph B. Sullivan, Lieut.-Comdr. William J. Fitzgerald, Lieut. A. L. Madden and Lieut. Robert Culbert.

Active pallbearers were William E. Rolfe, Matthew McKenna, Edward Byrne, P. F. Walsh, John Liset, James P. Drumgoole. Burial was in New Calvary cemetery.

Gull, Frozen in Slade Mill Pond, Set Free by Sun

A careless sea-gull, trapped by the breath of Winter, furnished a bit of excitement today at Slade's Mill Pond, until another unit of nature—Old Sol himself—came to the rescue.

The sea-gull got himself frozen into the pond and was struggling for freedom. A boy spied him and began target practice with stones.

About that time Old Sol, dignified but determined, melted the ice and the gull soared away.

RUM CARRIERS GO AT AUCTION

A motorboat and a truck, taken by the government in liquor seizures, were sold at public auction today at the U. S. Army base in South Boston.

The motorboat, valued at $400, was sold to William S. Nolan of 31 State st. for $115. The truck, valued at $450, went to Thomas Ryan of 5 Worcester sq. for $92. A third government automobile, valued at $40, was sold to M. O. Shindledecker of 73 Rutland st. for $8.

THREE SAVED AS TRAIN HALTS

The keen eye of Fireman John Bannister and quick action on the part of Engineer F. O. Smith in charge of the Boston-bound train from Medford, prevented an auto-train crash today that might have cost two young women and a man their lives on the Middlesex ave. grade crossing in Medford.

As the train approached the crossing Bannister noticed several cars had stopped to allow the train to cross, but the machine with the trio had cut around the others and at high speed continued toward the crossing.

Hearing the shouts of Bannister, Engineer Smith brought the train to a sudden stop just as the automobile passed barely two feet in front of the engine far over on the left side of the road.

Smith said he examined the warning signals and found them working.

MIDNIGHT SHOW TO AID CHRISTMAS BASKET FUND BIG SUCCESS

THEATER IS FILLED TO CAPACITY

Stage, Radio and Night Club Stars Join to Aid Cause at Keith-Boston

A capacity audience at Keith Boston Theater last night and early today were in agreement on one thing if nothing else—that the huge midnight show staged for the benefit of the Boston Evening American's Christmas Basket Fund, was the biggest event of its kind ever presented in Boston.

And big it was, big in attendance and results and big in the length variety and attractions of its program. The huge audience enjoyed every minute of it

From the time that Mickey Alpert's band started the show promptly at midnight until Jacques Renard's Mayfair orchestra brought the presentation to a close long after 3 a. m., the great audience was treated to a glittering array of theatrical and night club stars

STAGE STARS THERE

Headliners from the stage, known throughout the country and Europe, caused the house to rock with applause for their efforts only to be supplanted by stars familiar to patrons of Boston's leading night clubs.

And the gasping point in the prodigious show was reached when a Boston College youth, who is almost a physical double for the late Jack Donahue, who dances and talks like Jack Donahue and who acts like the famed comedian, kept the throng in roars

He is Tom Hardy, a find of Mickie Alpert, who recently broke in" young Hardy at the Cocoanut Grove. All who saw him could hardly believe they were not watching the late lamented master of dancing and humor

All the stars appeared as advertised. Queenie Smith and Archie Leach headed a corps of stars from the popular success "The Street Singer." An entire scene from this play was presented.

RADIO FAVORITES AID

Florence Reed, a favorite with Boston audiences, made a brief appearance, coming to the theater after her evening appearance in "Purity," at the Plymouth. She also spoke briefly on her happiness in being able to give her services to such a worthy cause.

Hum and Strum, nationally known radio entertainers, made a big hit with the audience, as did Sadie Banks and Frank Marino, stars of "Street Scene." The latter pair sang the songs, which Majestic Theater audiences have applauded.

An avalanche of RKO attractions gave willingly of their time and efforts and in return were kindly applauded. They included. Six Lucky Boys, Audrey Maple, [illegible]rns and Allen, Tyler Mason, Don [illegible]umbert, the Maclone Sisters, the [illegible]ett Sisters, Billy Payne and a host of others.

GET BIG RECEPTION

Mr. and Mrs. Harry K Morton, old Boston favorites of several years ago, made a brief appearance and were acclaimed

Other entertainers included Fess Williams and his Hollywood Inn Orchestra, the Reynolds Sisters and Roseand Ray Lyte. Jimmie Gallagher and Arthur Browne acted as masters of ceremonies and provided the necessary touch to set off the entire presentation

The show was certainly a huge success and one that will linger long in the minds of Boston theatergoers. Everyone worked to aid [illegible] stage [illegible] the entire theater staff and the additional [illegible] summoned from the RKO Keith's [illegible] except the [illegible] donated their services to the fund

MADE SHOW A SUCCESS

The Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund takes this opportunity to extend its sincere thank to all the artists who took part in the show, and to Sam Payne, stage manager of the presentation.

Also to the RKO management headed by Charles Winston, divisional manager; H. Jay Rice, manager of the Keith-Boston Theater Al Duffy, of the Shubert Theaters who was responsible for appearance of stars from the Shubert houses, and Ranier Lime Rickey Co., and Bob Berger, who made donation of food to audience and show personnel and staff. All these people donated their time and services without charge toward making the Midnight Show the huge success it was, and the Fund offers to them its heartiest thanks.

The Louis Massell Florist Shop, 610 Tremont st., donated flowers which were sold during the perfofrmance. Receipts were given the fund.

INN SHOW AIDS BASKET FUND

The Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American is squaring away for the last surge of the campaign of cheer and it's up to you to aid, Goodfellows

There are a number of ways in which you can aid—and some of them give you a good material return, as well as that wonderful feeling that you have helped some unfortunate family.

COVER CHARGE TO FUND

For instance, next Thursday night at Hollywood Inn, Tremont and Stuart sts.—where an evening of enjoyment by you will be converted into Christmas enjoyment for some harassed and worried mother and father and their children.

On Thursday night Tommy Marren, director of Hollywood Inn, will turn over to the Christmas Basket Fund all the cover charge receipts and one-third of other receipts of his establishment as his part toward alleviating suffering in Greater Boston through this newspaper

And at Hollywood Inn that night patrons will be afforded a wonderful entertainment.

STARS TO BE THERE

In addition to a special floor show for the occasion and the usual peppy music of Fess Williams and his dance band, there will be stars present from many theaters, including the Keith-Boston Theater Harry K Morton and Jane Love of "Street Singer," and other favorites

In aid of the Christmas Basket Fund also, the Jefferson Club of Cambridge will give a turkey whist party tonight and Friday night at 8 o'clock at 231 Hampshire st., Cambridge

You can help by attending these whist parties, for the proceeds will be turned into the fund

Middlesex Citizens to Honor Bushnell

Members of the Middlesex League and other citizens of the 54 cities and towns of Middlesex County are planning a testimonial dinner to Dist. Atty. Robert T. Bushnell of Middlesex who retires from office on Jan. 7, after eight years of service.

An executive committee announcement of the affair characterizes it as "An Appreciation of the Hon. Robert T. Bushnell, His Administration and Service," to be held Jan. 5 at 6 30 p m at the Copley-Plaza, Boston

A general committee of over 200, including members of the bench and bar, professional and business men, the clergy, public officials and men and women from all walks of life, is divided into sub-committees in charge of various phases of the affair.

Ponzi Money Showers Down on Mooney in 1 Two-Bits

Charles Mooney, veteran Western Union manager for the [illegible] American was on the receiving end of scores of congratulatory messages today his own wire even brought them from New York when it was learned he had come into considerable of a fortune

"You never can tell where money is coming from," said Charlie "This innocent appearing letter arrived in the morning mail. I opened it, expecting another bill, and there was the check."

It was for 25 cents two bits a quarter of a dollar a bright refreshing reminder of the old days when Charles Ponzi had the financial world by the tail and was swinging it wide and handsome

"From Charles Ponzi to Charles Mooney—Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. I call it the prohibition dividend," said the telegrapher. "It's one half of one per cent of the original investment."

Charlie gave Charles $50 to build into a fortune. Charlie has got back all of the fifty he is going to get. The final dividend, amounting to about a third of the investment was paid to Ponzi investors on Dec 17, 1928. Today's was a "supplemental distribution of one-half of one per cent from unclaimed dividends" of the bankrupt estate

The check read in large type "This is the last dividend."

"There isn't any more," said Charlie. "Well, it's nice to get it around Christmas. I'm giving it to the League for Enforcement of the Prohibition Amendment. Ponzi and prohibition—there's a couple of lost causes for you."

Charlie's check was smaller than the average according to C. M Gordon trustee of the estate who said $1[illegible] was distributed among the [illegible]

"That's the last money the Ponzi investors will receive," he said

Bribe Charges on Kelleher Filed

Charges of accepting bribes and conspiracy to give and accept bribes against former Patrolman Patrick J Kelleher of Cambridge, were filed when he was arraigned today in Middlesex Superior Court. A charge of conspiracy to give and accept bribes against Jules Mondesire of Cambridge was also filed

Kelleher's dismissal from the police department and the loss of his civil service rating was punishment enough Dist.-Atty. Bushnell told the court. Modesire was spared because he had been a State witness

RAILROADS ASK CURB ON TRUCK AS CARRIER

Unrestricted Operators Getting "Cream" of Business, Says Hawkes of B. & M

Truck operators, unrestricted by rate tariffs or obligations of a common carrier are able to skim off the cream of the traffic and leave the unremunerative business for railroads to handle at published rates, it was complained today at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing at the Hotel Statler

The criticism was made by N. W Hawkes vice president in charge of traffic of the Boston & Maine Railroad at opening of a hearing on the question of coordination of motor and rail transportation

DEFICIT OF $44,000

Stating that the Boston & Maine Transportation Co., the railroad-automotive subsidiary, had a deficit of $44,000 in 1929 taken care of by the railroad Vice-President Hawkes said

"If relief cannot be given the railroads in the form of new legislation governing carriers who use the public highways, then the law should not continue to impose heavier restrictions on trucks and buses operated by railroads than on those of other persons.

"Railroads of New England are beset on all sides by unregulated highway competitors while they are peculiarly subject to motor truck competition because of the short hauls and the excellent highways in most of our territory.

REMEDY SUGGESTED

"If relief cannot be given the railroads in this matter, the outside truckman should be subjected to the same kind of regulation as the railroad, namely, first, that all public truckmen should be required to obtain certificates of public convenience and necessity from the authorities, state and federal, before they are permitted to operate.

"Second, that they be required to file and observe their rates in the same manner as the railroads. The States in which the Boston & Maine operates do not require either of these things today, except in Vermont"

MacLean Is Square Shooter and Credit To His Profession — Garden Ring Boss One of Boxing's Biggest Assets

He Has Done Much for Game in Old Bay State

Alex MacLean [illegible] square shooter. He sits there in his swivel chair in the [illegible] office in the Boston Garden, shrewd, kindl[illegible] fearless. Honest blue eyes peering through his spectacles looking every man in the face. Looking every man in the face, but not telling them to go to warmer climes, for old Alex has lived, has traveled, has seen, and age, experience, the milk of human kindness [illegible] and gives him an understanding heart, a [illegible] and that temperance of sport which can overlook petty faults and weaknesses in others. MacLean knows [illegible]. But old Alex could, when he looks everyone in the [illegible] to go to warmer climes if he wanted to, for his skirts are [illegible] and he owes not any man. He will hand over the [illegible] in the Boston Garden on December 31 to Billy A[illegible]. Always on the level, Alex MacLean never has been false to his trust.

Ask 'em here in Boston where he has lived for half a century. Ask 'em in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, New Orleans and other American cities in which, when the cycling craze gripped the country, he appeared as a champion cyclist. Ask 'em in London, Paris, Berlin, Dublin, Glasgow, St. Petersburg—we believe Leningrad is the latest name of the Russian metropolis, but they may change it tomorrow—Vienna, Rome. Ask 'em in the A. E. F. and the Army of Occupation. Ask 'em in far away Sidney and Melbourne and Cape Town and other far corners of the world, where MacLean's many and long sports journeys have taken him.

George Underwood

Every mother's son of 'em will tell you Alex MacLean is on the level and a square shooter. Half a century in sport here, there, everywhere, competing in, promoting, directing all branches of entertainment, recreation, finds his record clean and spotless. Not a breath of scandal has ever been attached to his name.

In the world of sport, where square shooters are fewer than some people think, although more plentiful than some scandal mongers spread, square shooting old Alex MacLean is a refreshing personage.

You don't have to study his face when he answers your questions or he tells you anything to ascertain whether he is speaking the truth. Alex MacLean doesn't lie.

Alex MacLean not only is honest. He is shrewd, experienced, intelligent. He sees that he does not identify himself with persons or things or enterprises in which he would have to lie. A foolish man oftimes is even more dangerous and undependable than a dishonest man.

Alex MacLean knows sport inside and out and from the bottom up.

He entered the sports business on the ground floor. He understands it from the angles of competitor, manager, promoter and financier. In sport he has been each and all of them.

Alex MacLean particularly understands sports and sports conditions in Boston in which he has been identified with sport for close to half a century.

BUSINESS OF SPORT

Sport, the business of sport, is a separate and distinct business, which requires just as much, perhaps more training in, experience in, than other trades or professions.

You can't [illegible] just as m[illegible] particularly training and experience.

Do the directors of the Boston Madison Sq. Garden corporation, all of them able, efficient with an understanding in their own special lines of endeavor far above the ordinary, understand what a valuable asset they possessed in having a man sitting at the matchmaking helm in the Boston Garden who thoroughly understands the business of boxing? An honest fearless enough to hold that helm in the right direction?

Matchmakers like honest, intelligent, experienced, fearless old square-shooting Alex MacLean are scarcer than hen's teeth.

This writer, who knew Tex Rickard intimately, unhesitatingly declares that Rickard himself would not have conducted boxing in Boston under the peculiar conditions that obtain here, and particularly under the peculiar conditions that are strangling the [illegible] financial profit than has able, efficient honest, intelligent, fearless Alex MacLean.

It is a lot different promoting boxing in the biggest city in the world during a time in which the game rode on a tremendous wave of popularity, in a city where there is no difficulty in selling seats at from $5 to $25, backed by a millionaire corporation, with no competition, no rival arenas and with a great gate attraction like Jack Dempsey, than it is promoting boxing during the present wave of hard times in a city in which a $3 top is the limit, where there is a dearth of boxing talent and one has to compete against another giant arena run by a first-class matchmaking rival.

You can search the country over and you'll not find more capable, efficient matchmakers than Alex MacLean and Eddie Mack, each of whom is carrying matchmaking burdens unknown, undreamed of in New York.

The New York matchmaker hasn't the competition, low prices and other things McLean and Mack have to contend with in Boston. Neither in New York, a vastly larger city than Boston, is there the diversified sports interest there is in Boston. All sports are patronized fairly well in Boston. Much larger New York practically patronizes only baseball, football, boxing and racing. In Boston's metropolitan area there are more schools and colleges than any place in the country. Nowhere in the world will you find school and college sports so well patronized. Interest in one sport lessens interest in another. Boston is interested in so many and varied sports boxing interest here naturally is bound to suffer.

This writer may be wrong, but in our humble opinion 10 Tex Rickards working day and night couldn't make boxing pay profits here this winter. The business of boxing is at a low ebb, like all other business, and probably will continue at a low ebb until the wave of hard times turns and the tide of prosperity once more sets in.

AN ABLE BUILDER

The wise business man builds for the future.

Matchmaker Alex MacLean made two very wise constructive moves here in Boston the last few months.

Two matches made and directed by Alex MacLean did more for the business of boxing than anything that has been done for boxing in a long, long time.

One was the Carnera-Maloney match, which MacLean arranged and saw was staged absolutely on the level. The defeat of Carnera did more to restore public confidence in boxing throughout the country than any other thing could have done.

The recent Risko-Maloney match in which Maloney lost a close decision to Risko in a red-hot fight for the Christmas Fund, confuted the scandal mongers and [illegible] restored confidence in the game, particularly in Boston.

The good done by the Carnera-Maloney and the Maloney-Risko matches already is being felt and will be felt all the more in months to come.

[illegible] who have [illegible] to it give it a bad name. The finger of suspicion always is pointed at it. What would have happened in boxing if there had been a big fight in which one opponent on paper outclassed another opponent apparently as greatly as did the Army football eleven outclass the Navy, and the top-heavy boxing favorite failed to do any more against the alleged "set-up," than Army did against Navy?

Ninety-nine per cent of the boxing fans would have declared that the favorite was "under a pull" and deliberately "carried" his opponent. If football was boxing, California fans would have lynched the Trojans after the game with Notre Dame.

A man rightly to manage and direct boxing, not only has to know boxing from inside out, but must have a wonderfully close touch on the popular pulse and must understand human nature and human foibles and weaknesses.

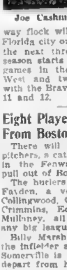
Such a man is square shooting, [illegible] experienced Alex MacLean. Not only was the Boston Garden nights fortunate in having MacLean's hand at the matchmaking helm but the game as a whole in the old Bay State was fortunate. The Boston Garden is New England's biggest arena. As boxing goes in the Garden so will it go throughout New England.

SOX TO LEAVE FOR SOUTH FEB. 19

By JOE CASHMAN

Following a conference with Manager John "Shono" Collins, President Bob Quinn of the Red Sox announced today that the club will start spring training at Pensacola, Fla., on February 21.

The athletes will report in two groups. The battery men and all [illegible] will check in on Feb. 21 while the veteran fielders will show up March 1.



Joe Cashman

The starting date next season is the earliest on which the Sox have been ordered to report in the Southland since Quinn took over the club in 1924.

It has also been decided that the Fenway flock will break camp in the Florida city on March 24 and spend the next three weeks before the season starts in playing exhibition games in the South and Middle West and two pre-season games with the Braves in Boston on April 11 and 12.

Eight Players Will Start From Boston Feb. 19

There will be eight players, six pitchers, a catcher and an infielder, in the Fenway party which will pull out of Boston on Feb. 19.

The hurlers will be Danny MacFayden, a veteran, and Sumner Collingwood, Charles Cronin, John Crimmins, Ed O'Neil and Andy Mullaney, all local boys, without any big league experience.

Billy Marshall of Dorchester is the infielder and Jimmy Galvin of Somerville is the catcher who will depart from here in the first contingent.

The late arrivals in camp had only one week in which to get in shape for the first exhibition tilt last year. Next spring, they will have two weeks as the initial contest with the Louisville club of the American Association isn't carded until March 14.

Red Sox Will Play 22 Exhibition Games

There are 22 games on the exhibition list at present and it is likely that a few more will be added later on.

No big league opponents will be faced by the Sox until they arrive home for their annual series with the Tribe, as was the case last year.

The complete exhibition schedule is as follows:

Saturday, March 14—Louisville, Pensacola.
Sunday, March 15—Louisville, Pensacola.
Saturday, March 21—House of David, Pensacola.
Sunday, March 22 — House of David, Pensacola.
Wednesday, March 25 — Louisville, Mobile.
Thursday, March 26 — Louisville, Mobile.
Friday, March 27 Birmingham, Birmingham.
Saturday, March 28 — Birmingham, Birmingham.
Sunday, March 29—Chattanooga, Chattanooga.
Monday, March 30—Chattanooga, Chattanooga.
Tuesday, March 31 — Nashville, Nashville.
Wednesday, April 1 — Nashville, Nashville.
Thursday, April 2 — Louisville, Louisville.
Friday, April 3—Louisville, Louisville.
Saturday, April 4—Indianapolis, Indianapolis.
Sunday, April 5—Indianapolis, Indianapolis.
Monday, April 6—Indianapolis, Indianapolis.
Tuesday, April 7—Columbus, Columbus.
Wednesday, April 8—Columbus, Columbus.
Thursday, April 9 — Columbus, Columbus.
Saturday, April 11 — Boston National, Boston.
Sunday, April 12 — Boston National, Boston.

NEW AND OLD RING BOSSES

BILLY AMES

ALEX MacLEAN

BILLY AMES, who moves into matchmaker's seat in Boston Garden vacated by Alex MacLean, who has resigned his post. With the burden of conducting boxing under present conditions in Boston off his shoulders, MacLean will find life a Happy Hollow for a few weeks before turning his activities in other directions. Ames received his training under MacLean.

FRIENDS HONOR BILL CORBETT

Representative William P. Corbett of Somerville will be tendered a dinner at the Parker House tomorrow night. Corbett was a former ring star. He earned his way through Tech and Harvard by the power of his fists. He is a member of the committee which has been investigating boxing and wrestling in Massachusetts.

Included in the guest list tomorrow night are the following: Governor-elect Joseph B. Ely, Treasurer-elect Charles F. Hurley, Mayor John J Murphy of Somerville, Senator-elect James C. Scanlon, Rev Anthony Flaherty, Rep. James C Hagan, Rep. Joseph J. Borgatti, Representative-elect John D. Crowley, Elmer C. Giroux, Atty. Arthur D. Healey, Roscoe D. Pound, dean of the Harvard Law school; Prof. John J. Burns of Harvard Law school; Rosnold C. Puffer of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Prof. Stanton C. Jackson of Washington and Lee University, ex-Dist. Atty. Thomas C. O'Brien and Mayor John J. Whalen of Chelsea.

William J. Roche is chairman of the committee.

Tech Six Looks for Victory on Friday

Coach Bill Stewart of the M. I. T. hockey team expects his sextet to chalk up its first win of the season on Friday night at the Boston Arena when the Engineer pucksters meet the Terriers.

Obrowski, a new Beaver wingman, is playing fine hockey for the Stewart coached team and in the Harvard and Princeton games last week he was the mainstay of the Tech attack.

Lynn Boy Elected Brown Captain

Providence, Dec. 16 — Paul Mackesey of Lynn, Mass., was elected captain of the Brown varsity football team by the letter men this afternoon.

Mackesey, the outstanding member of the squad this fall, prepared at Lynn classical high school. He plays tackle and has been a letter man for two years. He is one of the star [illegible] of the [illegible] lacrosse team.

Harvard and B. U. Fives to Clash Tonight at Cambridge

Harvard and Boston University basketball teams clash in the New Indoor Athletic Building at Cambridge tonight.

With both teams about on par on the court, tonight's hoop meet is expected to be one of the best of the local college season.

Harvard started the season with poor material and an underestimated five. A surprise win over Holy Cross in the Crimson opener, however, shows that Wachter's team is equally as strong as the last year team.

B. U. was nosed out by a single point by Brown in their opening tilt. Coach Win Karlson found that his offense was not clicking, but long practice sessions since that date find the Terrier five vastly improved.

Tonight's battle is the test match to determine which of the Harvard court players will make the Christmas trip to New York. Two games are scheduled for the remainder of this week. Harvard meets C. C. N. Y., Friday, and then will journey to West Point to meet the Cadets Saturday.

Lineup at Harvard

HARVARD		B. U.

Army and Navy Will Remain at Odds

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 16 (US) — No steps will be taken by the Naval Academy to renew athletic relations with the Military Academy, though such an end would be satisfactory to the midshipmen and most other naval people.

Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robinson, superintendent of the Naval Academy, said that he did not contemplate making any further move in the matter.

The general feeling among naval people undoubtedly is that the representatives of their service have gone as far as possible to restore athletic relations with the other service academy, and that the officials of the latter have indicated that they do not wish such a result.

CRUSADERS BACK ON NEXT YEAR'S GRID CARD AFTER LAPSE OF 10 YEARS

By MYLES T. McSWEENEY

Holy Cross will play Dartmouth next Fall in the first football game between the two institutions in 10 years.

This fact, made known by the publication of the Holy Cross grid schedule for next season, is significant. Holy Cross has determined to establish itself in the football world, and the slogan now at Mt. St. James is:

"Holy Cross the Notre Dame of the East."

For many years, Holy Cross was known principally on account of its baseball teams. Members of the Crusader nines have graduated to the big league, and each June, the outgoing seniors on the baseball team have been carefully scrutinized by big league scouts.

Although it is not generally known, baseball has been the sport that has kept alive all other athletic activities at Holy Cross. In the past five years, however, baseball has failed to produce enough revenue to carry along the other sports.

McEwan Hired to Put Holy Cross on Top of Grid World

When Capt. John McEwan, former Army coach, took up the task of coaching football at Holy Cross, Cleo O'Donnell, for many years grid mentor of the Crusaders, became graduate manager of athletics. This move was accepted as being a promotion for O'Donnell, but it now appears to be part of a plan to make Holy Cross supreme in the Eastern football world.

Holy Cross will play Harvard again next season. The acquisition of Dartmouth on the schedule is the first step toward making Holy Cross a "big" team. Is is understood that Holy Cross plans to gradually alter its grid schedule until only recognized major teams are on its schedule.

Becoming the "Notre Dame of the East" will be the work of several years. The Crusaders have many obstacles to overcome. They must eventually include Yale and Princeton in their schedule before they can claim equal grid honors with Rockne's famous Irish.

Place of Annual B. C.-H. C. Game in Doubt

But Holy Cross has taken the first step. They have the coach. The coach will get the material. And all New England will be glad to hail the Crusaders as the "Notre Dame of the East."

Up, Holy Cross, and at 'em.

Following is the Holy Cross schedule for next season:

Sept. 26—St. Bonaventure.
Oct. 3—Providence College.
Oct. 10—Dartmouth at Hanover
Oct. 17—Fordham at New York
Oct. 24—Rutgers.
Oct. 31—Duquesne.
Nov. 14—Harvard at Cambridge
Nov. 22—Loyola of Baltimore
Nov. 28—Boston College (place undecided)

Although the place of the annual Holy-Cross-Boston College game is officially undecided, according to the schedule, there is little doubt that it will be played here in Boston.

Price Knocks Out Skotz at Salem

In the main bout at the Salem A. A., Buster Price of Lynn finished Johnny Skotz of Cambridge in two rounds.

The best fray on the bill was between Totsy Santo, Revere, and Tony Acquaro, Lynn, which went eight rounds. Acquaro was floored in the first round, but held the lead until the fifth stanza, when body punches weakened him and Santo won.

Aroused by the judge's decision, Frankie Acquaro, brother of the boxer, walloped Patsy Santo as he was leaving the ringside. Officers rushed the offender to the street with applause from the crowd.

ROBERTI WILL BATTLE SANTA

Roberto Roberti, Italian heavyweight, has been signed by Matchmaker Eddie Mack of the Argonne A. A. to meet Joe Santa, 269-pound Portuguese heavyweight, in a 10-round bout at the New Boston Arena on New Year's Day afternoon.

Roberti is back in this country after a ring tour in South America. He has shown in Hub rings against Monte Munn, Ted Sandwina, Jack Humbeck, Jack Gagnon and King Solomon. He won all of his bouts here and will give the giant Santa the first test he has had since invading this country.

Golden Glove Bouts Have Furnished Action

Billy Cuddy will stage another Golden Glove boxing tournament at Mechanics Building on Saturday night. There will be bouts at 112, 118, 126, 135, 147 and 160 pounds and in the light heavyweight division.

The Golden Glove tournament has furnished the fans with plenty of action and the boys who win their way into the finals will be the class of the simon pure warriors in New England.

Schaaf Ends Training for Go With Baer

Ernie Schaaf will end his training today at Toland's Gym for his ten-round bout with Max Baer, Coast heavyweight, which will be staged in the New York Garden on Friday night.

Jack Sharkey, American heavyweight champion, has been coaching Schaaf. Sharkey will accompany Schaaf to New York and will act as one of Ernie's seconds. Al Lacy will also be in Schaaf's corner when he faces Baer.

Fordham Grid Star Has Operation

New York, Dec. 16—Adam Elcewicz of Cambridge, Mass., all around Fordham University athlete, was operated upon for acute appendicitis. Authorities at Fordham Hospital announced he was resting comfortably tonight.

Elcewicz was stricken suddenly in classes today and was taken to the hospital for an immediate operation. He has been a star on the football team for three years and is captain-elect of the baseball team.

Yale Football Star Wins Scholarship

New Haven, Dec. 16 — John T. Lindenburg of Columbus, Ohio, a football and basketball man, has been awarded the Norman Stewart Hall Memorial scholarship at Yale.

The scholarship was awarded for the first time last year and was established in memory of Norman S. Hall, Yale football and track man, who was drowned two years ago while saving the life of a skating companion.

Bruins Battle Detroit Falcons at Garden Tonight

BEATTIE WILL PLAY FOR LOCALS

Lineup Tonight at Garden

BRUINS	FALCONS
Harris, lw	rw, Fillmore
Welland, c.	c, Goodfellow
Clapper, rw	lw, Sorrell
Hitchman, ld	rd, Noble
Shore, rd	ld, Rockburn
Thompson, g	g, Dolson

Bruins Spares: Beattie, Barry, Owen, Pratt, Galbraith, Chapman, Darragh, Gainor. Detroit Spares: Aurie, Lewis, McCabe, Hicks, McInenly, Frederickson, Cooper, Hay. Face off at 8:30 p. m.—Referees to be assigned by National Hockey League.

The debut of Jack Beattie, red-headed rookie whom the Bruins have just taken over from Springfield, will be the main attraction for another capacity crowd when the Rossmen meet the Detroit Falcons for the first time in Boston at the Garden tonight.

Beattie's first appearance may not mean so much in itself, but his arrival has caused Manager Art Ross to shift his forward lines about, and the success of the Boston entry this season may depend on how the new lines function this p. m. against the high-flying Falcons.

The new recruit worked out in a practice scrimmage with Harry Oliver and Marty Barry and looked capable of holding his own with the two veterans.

The Welland, Clapper and Harris line will start tonight's tussle, while the Darragh, Galbraith and Chapman line will also be ready for action.

Bruins Should Begin Drive for Top Berth

This gives Art Ross three lines that are adjudged to be of equal strength. If all three forward walls flay the enemy as expected, the Bruins should set the league on fire from now on, just as they did a year ago.

Hereafter there will be no distinction in the Bruins' forward lines, such as first, second and third. They will all be known by the name of the center in the line. [illegible] will be the Beattie line, the Chapman line and the Welland [illegible]

Ross hopes that this is the final and result-producing move in a revamping of his forwards that has been going on now for three weeks.

He broke up the old Dynamite Trio of Welland, Gainor and Clapper to get a better balance in the attack, sending Gainor to work with Chapman and placing Harris up on the starting line with Welland and Gainor.

The Bruins have been taking it on the nose more frequently this season than usual. The fans are [illegible] long in back of them, but Art Ross has not been satisfied with the general work. He has been building up and the acquisition of Beattie was just what he has been waiting for.

He now believes that the reconstruction period has been finished and tonight's fracas with the Falcons will decide.

The depot will be packed as usual tonight for there is great interest not only in the invasion of the Falcons, who are proving very worthy foemen, but in what the Bruins will be like now that Beattie has been added and things have been straightened out to Art Ross' desires.

Penn Alumni Want Hanley as Coach

Philadelphia, Dec. 16 (INS)—Now it's Dick Hanley, coach of the Northwestern University eleven. Pennsylvania alumni are touting for the head coach's position at the local institution next season.

Midwestern Pennsylvania alumni have started the Hanley boom. Local Penn alumni circles are taking to the scheme enthusiastically. A fat offer from Penn might bring him to Philadelphia.

The names of Glenn Warner of Stanford and Dick Harlow of the unbeaten Western Maryland eleven are also being mentioned prominently as possible successors to Lud Wray, who was released by Penn.

Lou Little, coach at Columbus during the past season, is also mentioned as successor too J. Ludlow Wray, who was "fired."

Little went to Columbia after five years at Georgetown.

Medford High Hoop Schedule Announced

Medford High's basketball schedule is announced today by Faculty Manager Ralph Kendall, following approval by the Medford school committee.

The schedule follows:

Jan. 6, 3:30 p. m., Salem at Salem; Jan. 9, 8 p. m., Fitchburg at Medford; Jan. 13, 8 p. m., Quincy at Medford, Jan. 17, 8 p. m., Bridgton Academy at Medford; Jan. 20, 3:30 p. m., Brockton at Brockton; Jan. 23, 8 p. m., Chelsea at Chelsea; Jan. 27, 8:00 p. m., Massachusetts Nautical Training School at Medford, Jan. 30, 8 p. m., Arlington at Medford, Feb. 3, 3:30 p. m., Quincy at Quincy, Feb. 6, 8 p. m., Lynn English at Medford, Feb. 10, 3:30 p. m., [illegible] Feb. 13, 8 p. m., Arlington at Arlington, Feb. 17, 3:30 p. m., Chelsea at Medford, Feb. 20, 8 p. m., Lynn [illegible] at Lynn, Feb. 23, 4 p. m., Fitchburg [illegible] Feb. 27, 8 p. m., Malden [illegible] March [illegible] 3:30 p. m., [illegible] at [illegible] March 6, 8 p. m., Watertown at Watertown.

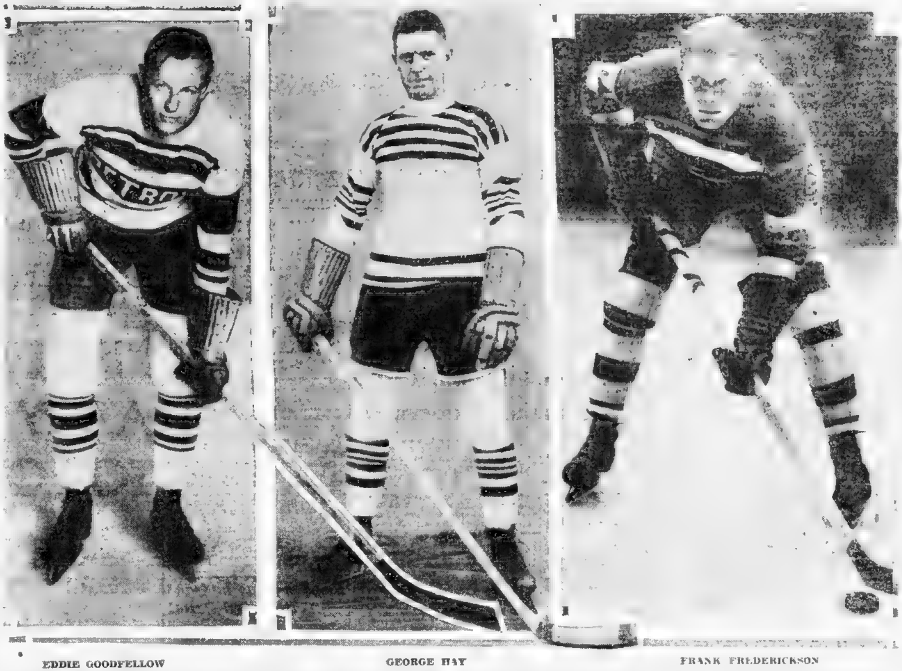
HIGH-FLYING FALCONS WHO'LL SWOOP DOWN ON BRUINS



EDDIE GOODFELLOW GEORGE HAY FRANK FREDERICKSON

THREE MEMBERS OF the Detroit sextet which battles the Bruins at the Garden tonight. A year ago they were the Cougars, but now they're the Falcons. Since the change of name this team has been getting up in the world. The players are Eddie Goodfellow, George Hay and Frank Frederickson. Freddy is an old Boston favorite. His two teammates are supplying the punch for the Falcons. Goodfellow is one of the junior sensations in the circuit.

Tigers Fight to Keep Out of Can-Am League Cellar

Battling simultaneously to keep out of the Canadian American League cellar and to gain third position in that circuit, the Boston Tigers tonight tackle the Philadelphia Arrows in the Quaker City. On Thursday, the Arrows will return the visit in a game at the Boston Garden.

In the lower ranges of the Can-Am race the three teams are so closely bunched that these two games will have a lot to do determining the standing. New Haven, after beating the Tigers here on Saturday, dropped another game to the Providence Reds and so failed to increase its lead over the Tiger.

Should the Tigers win their next two games against Philadelphia, the locals would gain four points in the race and oust the Eagles from third place—something they hoped to do last Saturday. Should the Tigers, on the other hand, lose both their engagements to the Arrows, they would drop from fourth to last place in the race.

At present, the Tigers have a three point lead over the Arrows, having compiled a total of six points in three victories. The Arrows, with one win and a tie, have three points.

No one realizes better than do the Tigers that they must win this week or forfeit all hopes of rising in the race. Manager Eddie Powers read the squad the riot act in the dressing room last Saturday when the team practically handed the Eagles the game. Unless the locals show some signs of life, there are going to be some new faces on the Tiger roster.

The Tigers left for Philadelphia last night, and the team, therefore, will enjoy a full day's rest in Philadelphia before taking the ice tonight. So far, the Tigers have beaten the Arrows 9 to 3 at the Garden, and lost 2 to 1 at Philadelphia.

Medford Tracksters Have Busy Schedule

Medford High's track schedule opens New Year's day and the season of indoor track continues to the State Meet at Boston, Feb. 28th.

The season opens with the Alumni. The first outside team is Newton High which will be run off at the Boston Y. M. C. A.

The schedule follows:

Jan. 1, 2 p. m., Alumni at Medford; Jan. 8, 3 p. m., Newton at Boston Y. M. C. A.; Jan. 16, 3:30 p. m., Lynn English at Medford; Jan. 22, 3 p. m., Malden at Boston Y. M. C. A., Jan. 31, 2 p. m., Northeastern Interscholastics; Feb. 14, 2 p. m., B. A. A. School boy meet; Feb. 21, 2 p. m., Andover Interscholastics at Andover; Feb. 28, 2 p. m., State Meet at Boston.

HARVARD NEEDS HOCKEY RINK

An indoor athletic plant with an artificial hockey rink and accommodations for holding indoor track meets will be erected by Harvard on Soldiers Field within the near future if sufficient funds can be raised, it was stated today at Cambridge.

Harvard needs a place to hold its hockey [illegible] and in the annual report of the committee on the regulation of athletic sports at Harvard to President A. Lawrence Lowell it is pointed out that the athletic facility which Harvard needs more than anything else is a hockey rink.

For hockey practice and hockey games Harvard is dependent on the [illegible]

"This is one sport in which we do not feel we can do much toward developing players, and we can do nothing for boys who simply want to skate or who want to play 'Shinny.'

"At considerable expense we engaged the exclusive use of the Garden for 33-hour periods, during which time we train the varsity, second varsity and freshman squads. Time prevents us taking the boy who cannot skate to teach him how, or to take the inexperienced hockey player and work on technique with him.

"But even with these inadequate facilities we have had consistently good hockey teams. We hope that some time in the near future we shall be able to construct a skating rink which would not only enable us to take care of the great number of boys who would like to play hockey, but would also give us an opportunity to use it for recreation skating."

Louis B. Dailey to Quit U. S. L. T. A.

Newark, N. J., Dec. 16 (AP)—Louis B. Dailey, of South Orange, N. J., today announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election as president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

The Newark Evening News quoted friends of Dailey as saying he was retiring "in protest of conditions in amateur tennis." The newspaper said Dailey failed to arouse general interest in an "open" tournament in which amateurs and professionals competed on an even basis, and met opposition when he tried to provide greater opportunities for young players.

Wh[illegible] strategy to [illegible] letting the [illegible]

[illegible] is desirable al[illegible] for two reasons. First [illegible] with practice, you come to an ability to make so much pitch put the ball almost exactly where you want it to [illegible] because it is a simple matter to top the ball off the niblick blade. Therefore the pitch becomes almost wholly a matter of regulating the pitching pressure, while with the run-up the ball often is deflected by obstructions on the green which are not seen. Also the pitched ball can be made to stop where it falls or take run from the point where it falls, but no one has ever invented a way to make a run-up stop if too much pressure [illegible] stroke is applied. In this one point the pitch is doubly advantageous because the ball pitched with too much pressure still can be made to stop just the same if stopping action has been applied to the ball. Therefore, pitch everything around the green.

The Last Mile—

CHAPTER 22

"I WOULDN'T hurt you dear."

"Of course not, Dick."

"And I want to marry you—you know that."

She was [illegible] again.

"Don't you know?"

"Of course—you told me so—and you told mother so."

"Your mother is willing—I am sure she likes me."

"Yes."

"Then will you — darling — promise me, you'll marry me. Here, dear—"

He took a little plush case from his pocket, opened it and lifted out the half-carat solitaire.

"Let me put this on your finger—you understand, don't you?"

She gave him her hand. He put it on her finger.

His voice became husky.

"That means that we are really and truly engaged?"

"Yes," she murmured faintly. She wondered if she was putting on the shy stuff properly. She hoped that she was blushing.

"Darling!"

Dick Walters clasped her in his arms. It was a sudden embrace and for a moment it startled Ethel because heretofore his touch had always been gentleness itself.

"Dick—dear—don't—please!"

"But, dearest, we are engaged—we are going to be married before very long and live together in our new house—man and wife—and it's all right for me to kiss you."

She relented a little and let him kiss her.

This seemed to make Dick lighthearted, because of his happiness.

She Struggles

He clasped her to him, his arms about her, he kissed her full on the lips and it seemed that he would never let her go. She struggled.

"Please—not so rough—not so—it doesn't seem as though we should—like this—it seems sort of—more passion than love—I'm scared."

Ethel thought that she knew her stuff thoroughly.

"It isn't, dear, it's love—that's all—just natural love," Dick declared.

He seemed clumsy to her—she marvelled that he did not awaken in her any passions, she knew that he was aflame with it.

"I'll teach you to love me—to love my kisses, darling," Dick declared.

Again he reached for her to clasp her in his arms.

She tried to dodge back as he reached for her.

In his excitement he grabbed too hard and she leaped up. She thought it a lot of fun to pretend to be frightened of a man's honest embrace, and Dick's embraces were honest enough, then, God knows.

He stood up when she did.

"Come here, dearest——"

He reached for her as she dodged back and his hand caught her flimsy dress at the neck.

Just then she slipped on a twig and fell. He tried to hold her by her thin dress.

The dress tore down like tissue paper, and the little sheer garment under it——

Ethel stood there, revealed nearly to the waist.

Dick Walters stared—his face turned white and then a sickly green, all in a flash.

There, right over her heart, was tattooed the letter "N"!

One glance at her bosom, bared by her torn dress, and another glance at Dick Walters' face, and Ethel Simmons knew that her pretensions were over, so far as Dick was concerned.

She needed no words to tell her that Dick was staring at the "N" which Mert Nissinger had tattooed over her heart.

Ethel was a quick thinker. She didn't believe that this could be explained, but there was her explanation that she had once [illegible] about the letter being put there in a sorority initiation. She decided to try it. She wondered what Dick's first words would be when he did speak?

"Oh—Oh Dick—I'm so ashamed I could die!" she murmured, snatching at her torn dress.

Dick leaped forward then. He yanked her hand away and pointed at the tattoo mark.

Ethel tried to struggle.

"Dick—don't—it's wicked—I—I wouldn't permit such familiarity, even after we were married," she cried.

It wasn't a very diplomatic thing to say.

Anger and Passion

His eyes blazed now. A million disturbing thoughts seemed to be running through his mind.

"The deuce you wouldn't permit familiarity!" he snapped.

She tried to pull away from him. He put one arm about her and held her.

"So you are one of Nissinger's girls—one of his crowd he boasts about in bar rooms?"

Ethel cringed. She would try her last chance.

"Oh! Oh, Dick—I'm so ashamed I could die!" She murmured. "Now—it's the Greek letter—my sorority mark that was put on me when I was initiated—and you thought me a bad girl!"

Ethel began to cry. She managed it quite well.

"Greek letter? Sorority? What sorority? You never belonged to one—do you think I'm such a simp as to believe that stuff? Mert Nissinger tattooed that N on you, just as he put it on a lot of other cheap little girls—and you pretending to be so pure and saintly!"

"Take your hand off of me!" she answered, realizing that her silly excuse was useless.

She struggled more and sagged down. He let her sit and sat down beside her—one arm still about her. He stared into her eyes. She stared back at him unblinking, although inwardly she was shrinking from him. She was afraid. His eyes looked so queer. They seemed to be looking right through her.

Dick Walters never [illegible] a strange, almost weird sensation. He was blazing with anger at the girl and filled with chagrin at having been fooled, yet at the time [illegible] was longing for her.

"Take your hand off of me," Ethel repeated.

"Yeah? I'm not good enough, eh? I mustn't touch you? Mert Nissinger can paw you all over, he can tattoo his initial on you—he can——"

"Well, what of it?" Ethel cried. She realized her little game was up.

Dick [illegible] laughed at her. It was [illegible] laugh.

"What of it? Nothing, I suppose. You sure made an awful simp out of me, that's chiefly 'what of it.' Say, how did you think you were going to marry me and then explain that initial?"

"Oh, shut up—let go of me, help me pin up my dress and take me home."

"Yeah? I'll take you home when I get good and ready. Are there any more tattoo marks on you?"

That Bluff

"None of your business. You might as well get the truth now—you make me good and sick—I never had any use for you. Now will you let go of me?"

He held her closer.

"I'm no good, eh? I make you sick. I suppose Nissinger didn't make you sick? God, what a laugh he must have been having on me that time he boasted about tattooing his initial on girls and knowing that I was going with one of them right then—that I, and almost everyone else thought you were a little saint."

"Dick—I—I couldn't help it—a girl can't help falling in love—why can't you be decent about it—just forget it."

"Forget it? Forget dreaming about the time we would be married? About the time I'd hold you in my arms—the time I'd have you for myself, body and soul? Can I forget about the house I bought for us? Can I forget how I boasted to my people about how wonderful you were—how sweet and pure? Like fun I'll forget it."

"Please, Dick."

She was resisting him. She lay in his arms. She was afraid he would hit her — he might blacken an eye or break her nose and spoil her beauty. His eyes looked queer as if he were half crazy.

"Can I forget how you led me over to the church and put up that bluff, pretending not to know Nissinger or anything, when he was married? I thought, because he knew me slightly, that he bowed to me and lifted his hat solely because I had a lady with me—lady!—some lady you are. No, Nissinger was bowing to you and probably he was thinking what a simp I was which was true enough, then perhaps he was wondering how surprised I'd be if I knew you had his initials on you!"

"Help me fix my torn dress, Dick."

"Shut up—listen to me for once. I'll tear the whole dress off you if I feel like it. I suppose when you questioned me about who the two girls were Bart Culver was telling of, you wondered how much I knew—I guess you were one of those girls, too? How many men have you been chasing 'round with, between going to prayer meeting and making a simp out of me?"

Ethel's quick temper got the best of her again.

"Will you let me go? You make me sick—what I do is none of your business."

"No? What you do to me—or what you have tried to do to me, is none of my business, eh? Afraid to let me touch you—never let me kiss you——"

Dick Laughed

Dick suddenly laughed. It was a harsh laugh.

Ethel cringed, not at his word but at his laugh.

"You were too good and pure to let me touch you? That's a laugh, now. You gave yourself to others and gave me the laugh. You and your preaching! Told me that the world is what you make it—I always remembered that—the world is what you make it—be good and it is a good world—you'd make it bad, I guess."

"Let me pin up my torn dress, Dick. Do you realize I'm sitting here half naked?"

"You're used to that, I guess," he said, and the way he sneered at her made her lose control of herself again.

"You are asking for it—so here it is—you are just a simp—an awful simp—that's what I think of you and what I always thought of you! Now will you let me go?"

"Sure I was a simp—I'm not a simp now, but I was. I was such a simp that I believed in you and was afraid to touch you. But I'm no simp now, girlie—not a bit of it—"

He drew her to him and hugged her fiercely.

"Guess I'm as good as Nissinger or any of your other lovers. They had you and I'll have you!"

"Dick-I-I wish you wouldn't—"

She decided not to protest. She wondered how she would explain to her mother. She'd tell her that Dick was no gentleman. Dick wouldn't call on her again. If he saw her at all he'd meet her secretly. She'd have to be good to him, she decided.

"You're not so mad at me, now, are you, Dick?" she asked.

"Mad? No, I suppose not."

"I'm glad you still care for me." She decided that it would be better to pretend to like him.

"Care for you?" He stared at her for a moment.

He was mad—mad at himself for being such a fool, mad at her for making such an awful simp of him.

SECRET AGENTS SOUGHT FOR GRAIN PROBE

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—An enlarged flying squadron of confidential inquirers to track down and prepare those responsible for irregular transactions on the country's grain markets is desired by the Department of Agriculture, it was revealed today in the department's report.

Authority for the Secretary of Agriculture to control short selling by foreign governments, a consequence of the recently disclosed Russian transactions in the Chicago pit, is advocated.

Dr. W. W. Skinner, chemical technologist, said in the report that the right type of turpentine is sought, to be turned into synthetic camphor.

"If the research succeeds," he added, "I see no reason why a synthetic camphor industry should not develop in the South."

Investigations designed to cut the farmer's annual fertilizer bill by $60,000,000 were outlined by Dr. Henry G. Knight, chief of the chemistry and soils bureau.

Substantial progress was reported in curbing tuberculosis among cattle, swine and poultry. The disease has been eradicated to the point of less than one-half of one per cent in many parts of the United States.

The department has found sweet sugar can be produced from cow's milk. Millions of pounds of skim milk going to waste, contains sugar that can be extracted.

GIRL AND 3 MEN HELD IN THEFT

A girl and three men, charged with conspiracy to steal $3250 from the Atlantic National Bank, were held in bonds of $2500 each for the grand jury by Judge Adlow after a hearing in Municipal court today.

The defendants are Pauline Green, 28, of Cohasset; Ellery Duncan, paying teller at the Huntington ave. branch of the bank, and his father, James L. Duncan, both of Arlington, and David Rosenthal of Malden.

Duncan is also charged with larceny of the money. Henry Gerrish of Malden, charged with conspiracy, was allowed to go on his own recognizance. It is understood he simply introduced Miss Green and the elder Duncan.

The Government alleges Miss Green offered James Duncan a half-interest in a motor boat concern in exchange for a loan of $3250 which she needed badly for a few days until she could collect a legacy of $11,000. The legacy did not arrive and it was discovered young Duncan had let his father have the money, according to the charges.

Husband's Remark Costs Him His Wife

Brockton, Dec. 16—The old story of telling your wife you are going out to see your best girl, knowing she wouldn't believe it, wasn't so good for Lloyd H. Loring of Pembrook, a court ruling such statements constituted cruel and abusive treatment. As a result Loring is now without a wife.

Mrs. Cora Loring based her charge of cruelty on this continual remark by her husband whenever he left home, coupled with the fact he knocked her down and dragged her out of a dance hall. A divorce was granted.

Experts to Plan Uniform Air Code

Washington, Dec. 16 (INS)—Formation of a national system for uniform regulation of air transportation is expected to result from a gathering of officials and experts of the aeronautical industry meeting with Secretary of Commerce Lamont and Air Secretary Young here today. Practically all states were represented.

Man Is Arraigned in White Slave Ring

Providence, Dec. 16 (INS)—The seventh person to be arraigned under secret indictment by the federal grand jury here in connection with an alleged white slave ring, Raymond Patriaca, 22, of Providence, today pleaded not guilty and was held in bonds of $15,000. Six others pleaded not guilty last month. Patriaca was charged with transporting a New Bedford (Mass.) woman between Providence and New London, Ct.

BANK ROBBERS SLAIN IN FIGHT

Sidell, Ill., Dec. 16 (INS)—Three Clinton, Ind., bank robbers were riddled with bullets by a posse of officers six miles north of here and two of them were killed and the third badly wounded.

Bandit bullets wounded a Clinton, Ind., policeman, and Joe Walker, an Indiana posseman.

The fight occurred after a pursuit at 70 miles an hour for nearly 40 miles from Clinton, Ind., where the bandits raided the Citizens State Bank, a $600,000 institution, this morning and robbed it of $7000.

Credit for the overwhelming of the bandit gang was given to Deputy Sheriff Boyetta of Clinton, Ind., who with a remarkable shot knocked the machine gun out of the hands of one of the bandits at the critical moment.

The fate of S. W. Gilbert, cattle buyer of Dana, Ind., whom the bandits kidnaped in their dash to escape from the posse, was not learned.

Rhodes Wins by One Disputed Ballot

A judge pondered in Supreme Court today—six weeks after the voters pondered on election day—and when he spoke, Albert T. Rhodes was elected by the people to the Leominster City Council over William A. Silverthorne. Judge George A. Sanderson ordered a writ of mandamus to compel the registrars of Leominster to count a disputed ballot in favor of Rhodes. Each candidate received the same total of votes, 391. The registrars had cast out one ballot as a blank, because the "X" on it appeared to be midway between the names of Rhodes and Silverthorne.

State Starts Probe of Investors Shares

Accountants retained by the State today started a thorough examination of the books of the New England Investors Shares, Inc., whose affairs have been under scrutiny by the attorney-general's department the last two weeks. Louis H. Sawyer, assistant attorney-geenral, has estimated that losses to investors in New England and Canada who had dealings with the company might run to more than $1,000,000.

Bad Check Trail Left by "Nice Old Couple"

An unsuspecting-looking aged couple, who did considerable Christmas shopping Saturday turned out to be bad check artists, several Lynn merchants learned today. Declaring that they were trying to do their bit for prosperity by making purchases, the couple tendered checks for $27.50 each on six merchants. The drafts were drawn on a Swampscott lumber company and were endorsed by the president. Today the checks "bounced" back.

FIRE INSURANCE A KEY TO LOW PRICES

FEW have a true appreciation of the far-reaching effect of Stock Fire Insurance in holding down the cost of all merchandise.

No less authority than the Encyclopedia Britannica contributes a "testimonial" as follows:

"In the United States, as in no other country, has insurance in all its various phases become universally recognized as an essential of commerce and industry. To this fact may be attributed in large measure the achievements of America in business enterprises.

"Insurance encourages men and corporations to hazard their resources on new developments without fear of loss from natural and unavoidable catastrophes."

At every step in the processing and distributing of materials—storage, manufacturing, transportation, wholesaling, retailing—the protection of Stock Fire Insurance contributes that indispensable element of certainty without loading prices for speculative risk.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE companies assume what would otherwise be an oppressive carrying charge against the risk of destruction, and for a premium which on the average is only a fraction of 1 percent of the amount insured.

The more than 250 Stock Fire Insurance companies constituting the National Board of Fire Underwriters have rendered their services at an average price that has constantly declined for many years.

CONSTANCE BENNETT MAY YET BE STARRED IN "THE YELLOW TICKET"

ELISSA LANDI ALTERNATE CHOICE FOR ROLE

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor
Copyright 1930, by Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16--Is Elissa Landi or Constance Bennett the lead in "The Yellow Ticket?" I carried a story Sunday saying that the Fox company wanted Miss Bennett but that Pathe would not lend her. Now I learn that Connie has the privilege of making two independent pictures a year and that there is a chance that she will be starred in "The Yellow Ticket" after all. In case Pathe makes it too difficult, Fox will put Elissa Landi, a newcomer, into the role that Florence Reed created on the stage.

Louella O. Parsons

Let me tell you about Elissa Landi. She is unmistakably an actress She has good looks, a personality and a voice. Fox considers her their Greta Garbo-Marlene Dietrich, and I do not believe that Winfield Sheehan is far wrong when he says the girl will do something, for I believe she will. But, of course, Connie Bennett is Connie Bennett and you know as well as I do that the mere mention of her name brings them into the theater.

• • •

"PHILLIPA" has been mentioned by those who read our best books as one of the best sellers of the month. I think we can depend upon these book scouts who say that Anne Douglas Sedgwick's novel is doing right well. The Fox Co. has purchased it and it will be made with Chandler Sprague as director and Ralph Block as the supervisor. A good book is more to be desired than pearls and diamonds. Perhaps I should say a good story, for let there come a play or story and watch the producers grab.

• • •

CLAIRE LUCE is asking for her release from the Fox Company. She is the blonde Follies girl who came West with her millionaire husband, Cliff Smith. A week or so ago Mr. Smith was bitten by a dog with the rabies and for several days it looked as if it might be serious

It was then that Miss Luce made up her mind to go to Europe with her husband and to give up a career which at best could not mean very much

Claire and the husband are sailing Dec. 31 for Europe. Most girls would be willing to give up career or anything else for a trip to Europe with a millionaire husband.

• • •

GEORGE ARLISS will get his first look at the prize awarded him by The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. He arrived in town Sunday with his wife and all he knows about the prize is what he has heard. He knows he was given the award for the best acting of the year in "Disraeli" but he hasn't seen the statuette. Darryl Zanuck has been keeping it in his office waiting for the English actor. Arliss starts almost immediately on "The Ruling Passion," the dialogue for which has been written for him by Booth Tarkington. The story is by Earl Derr Biggers.

I am wondering if "Old English" will make the money that "Disraeli" made. It is a charming picture and a remarkable study of an old man, but whether or not our motion picture going public will react to a picture in which a doddering old man is the hero can only be told when the box office receipts are counted.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: JOAN BENNETT week-ending in Palm Springs. DARRYL ZANUCK taking about 10 men hunting. CECILIA LOFTUS lunching at the Assistance League CONSTANCE BENNETT taking a final look at the rushes of "The Easiest Way." KATHRYN and ADOLPHE MENJOU entertaining a group of friends at their home on Nottingham rd. JOAN CRAWFORD being congratulated in San Francisco by Los Angeles friends on her work in "Paid" BEBE DANIELS and BEN LYON celebrating six months of married life by entertaining friends at dinner. LOLA LANE winning the sympathy of friends on the loss of all the money she had saved in the Bank of Hollywood. FRANK JOYCE and MYRON SELZNICK also getting sympathy for having deposited some of their funds in this bank. ROY BURNS very ill at the Good Samaritan Hospital

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

WRESTLERS ON HOWARD BILL

"Wrestling Week" was ushered in at the Old Howard yesterday. Stars of the mat are presenting special matches both afternoon and night, each day this week. Stanley Stasiak, "Lion of Poland," and Jack Sherry, "Ohio Champion," will meet all comers. They offer a dollar a minute to any man they fail to throw in ten minutes.

The burlesque attraction introduces Joan Collette, a peppery dancing maid. She was accorded a great reception. Al Rathburn was a favorite. The entire production is colorful with many striking scenic effects. One of the surprises was the "Under the Sea" ballet. The "Garden of Eden" scene was another hit. Bebe Almond, Stella Williams and Holly Leslie delighted with their contributions.

The vaudeville and pictures bill offered Mae Wynn and Buddy in a dancing feature; and Villa and Strigo. The pictures included "Hell's Harbor" with Lupe Velez, and "In Gay Madrid" with Ramon Novarro and Dorothy Jordan. Joan Collette's midnight show comes Friday.

CLEVER GIRLS AT GAYETY

There was an abundance of clever girls at the Gayety yesterday when Billy Arlington's Own Show opened for the week. Miss Joan Lee met with a cordial reception. Well-remembered from last season, she eclipsed her previous showing. Running a close second was Reggie White, whose singing and dancing was another hit.

Boots Rush, fast-stepping soubrette, and Eleanor Cochran, prima donna, were other stars in a decidedly "girly" show. The outstanding scenic feature was an underwater novelty, "Asleep In the Deep," put on by Joe and Ernestine.

Arlington has a way of taking his audience into his confidence which kept every one laughing happily at him. Dan Taylor, character man and musical specialist; Harry Beasley, straight man, and Vic Hallen kept entertainment going at high pitch Holub's Jazz Hounds pepped things up

"War Nurse" Coming to the State Friday

"War Nurse," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's much-discussed, frank and realistic adaptation of the anonymous Cosmopolitan novel, is the picture opening at Loew's State Friday. Robert Montgomery heads a cast that includes Robert Ames, June Walker, Anita Page, Marie Prevost, ZaSu Pitts, Hedda Hopper, Helen Jerome Eddy, Edward Nugent and Martha Sleeper.

Coming Events

Ethel Barrymore in "Scarlet Sister Mary" will come to the Wilbur next Monday

Walter Woolf and Violet Heming in "Ladies All" will begin their local engagement at the Majestic next Tuesday

"Strictly Dishonorable" will be the attraction at the Colonial, starting Christmas night.

"Rebound" will be the first of the new ventures at the Copley, starting Friday, December 26

Grace George in "The First Mrs. Fraser" will take the stage at the Plymouth on Monday, December 29

Bernard Shaw's "The Applecart" will be the second of the Theater Guild's presentations at the Tremont, starting Monday, December 29

"Artists and Models" will arrive at the Shubert for a limited engagement on Monday, January 5.

"Up Pops the Devil," a comedy, will be the attraction at the Wilbur, starting Monday, January 5.

YULETIDE SPIRIT KEYNOTE OF STRONG SCOLLAY SHOW

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

THE YULETIDE SPIRIT is the keynote of the new stage show at the Scollay. "Jingle Bells" is its appropriate title. Manager Elliston Vinson, who has been building up quality units, scenery and all, in his local playhouse, turned the job of direction over to Dave Gould, an impresario of the art terpischorean, and the result is a credit to both men.

• • •

Dave Gould

The production runs on a big scale, requiring an hour and a half for complete presentation. It is entertaining throughout, has many novelties, and develops sweet touches reminiscent of fantasy days when "The Wizard of Oz" and similar things were in high favor. It is easy to see that one of the Gould assets is striking imagination, plus effective staging. Mr. Gould who modestly suggests that meritorious mention be made of his assistant, Paul Florenz, remained here for the finishing details. Having whipped the whole extravaganza into shape, he hopped from Boston Airport yesterday, to begin rehearsals on a new show in Gotham.

• • •

IN "JINGLE BELLS" are woven various variety acts; the cast has 50 persons. There are 11 big scenes pertaining to the Christmas spirit, winding up with a Santa Claus ensemble which could easily be a community's greeting to the coming of the holiday next week. Outstanding is the dancing of both visiting and local talent; there are excellent new routines, some of them sparkling with classiness. Deft poetic treatment of some sections deserve special praise. Among the sterling performances are those of the gifted Gray Family, of the dogs trained by M. Marinoff, and the Scollayettes, who are very clever and agile indeed.

• • •

THE BOSTON DANCING girls present "Alice in Wonderland." The Dave Gould dancers are equally good in several special numbers. Bennie Fairbanks does a fine job as master of ceremonies for the big show.

MARION DAVIES' LATEST PICTURE COMING SOON

One of the most complicated jobs connected with films in which Marion Davies stars is finding a story that satisfies Miss Davies. She makes many trips to New York and London and Paris, which are not made public, in a personal search for material. And everyone associated with her constantly is on the lookout.

Marion Davies

When "The Bachelor Father" by Edward Childs Carpenter, produced by David Belasco and the outstanding hit of the season finally was decided upon as furnishing the best available material for the fourth appearance of Miss Davies on the talking screen, it represented not a few thousands of miles of travel by several individuals, and so many hours of reading books and looking at plays, that if the hours were put end to end, they would reach from now until ten years from now.

After the vehicle was chosen—and as a play it had a great success not only in this country but also abroad—it was turned over to Laurence E Johnson for adaptation to screen requirements Johnson worked with Robert Z. Leonard, who directed this film, as he had "Marianne," Miss Davies' first vocal photoplay, her other two being "Not So Dumb," and "The Florodora Girl" The new picture will be seen soon in Boston

• • •

THOSE WHO WORK with Miss Davies at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, have set as their rule that, no matter how good each production in which she appears may be, the next one must be better, if human ingenuity and effort can do it. It is one of the penalties of success that the public always is expectant of constantly improving performances

The moment that Miss Davies generally was referred to as the first comedienne of the screen she was given a mark to shoot at which becomes more difficult with each succeeding cinema success.

• • •

NATURALLY IN A situation like this, the usual statement that "no expense or pains were neglected" to make an outstanding entertainment achievement, need not be taken with any grain of salt

Now that this latest undertaking of the "first comedienne" has been cut and titled, and made up in celluloid copies, and is about ready to be seen on the screen, it may be said that, at the studio, anyway, the feeling is that Miss Davies again has gone beyond the rosiest expectations It is no secret that the inside view is that she has turned in another great performance, in which romance and comedy are mingled in exact proportions

Continuing Shows

MAJESTIC—"Street Scene" a grim play of city life Holds the season's record for long distance. Last days

SHUBERT—Queenie Smith in "The Street Singer." Lively musical comedy, surrounded by pretty girls.

PLYMOUTH—Florence Reed in "Purity" In which Miss Reed suffers, but not in silence.

TREMONT—"Green Grow the Lilacs." Oklahoma cattlemen take strange liberties with a wedding party. Last days

WILBUR - Katharine Cornell in Dishonored Lady." An unpopular lover is expeditiously removed by poisoned coffee.

Special Met Show to Aid Drive for Santa

Co-operating with the Salvation Army, the Metropolitan will, on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, give a "Useful Article Christmas Show" for children under the age of 16. Every child bringing to the theater any useful article, which term may be elastic enough to include toys, and which would assure the visit of Santa Claus to homes which he might otherwise miss, will be accepted

BRIGHT STAR IS 'LORELEI'

June Walker

When June Walker the leading woman in "Green Grow the Lilacs," at the Tremont was last in Boston and at the same theater in "Waterloo Bridge," her role, which was a stellar one, was that of an American chorus girl who had been stranded in London. At the beginning of her career Miss Walker was herself a chorus girl Later on when she had achieved the position of dramatic leading woman, she was called upon to play the character of a chorus girl in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," "The Bachelor Father" and, year ago, in "Waterloo Bridge."

Miss Walker has gained her present high standing in the theater by the legitimate and none-to-easy path of long and active endeavor

ORCHESTRA IS CONDUCTED BY BURGIN

By MOSES SMITH

Richard Burgin, concert-master, conducted the second Monday evening concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in the absence of Serge Koussevitzky, [illegible]

The program included the Mozart A Major Violin Concerto and Brahms' Second Symphony, as [illegible] announced, but there was a last minute substitution of the Twelfth Handel Concerto Grosso, in B minor, for the Mozart G minor symphony.

Anton Witek, concert-master of the orchestra until it was partially disrupted by America's entrance into the Great War, was the soloist. His appearance after [illegible] many years had a sentimental interest, if it was not too [illegible] musically. There were moments of Mozartean grace in his performance, but also minutes of technical insecurity and [illegible] tone

Mr. Burgin again pleased a [illegible] and enthusiastic audience by his dynamic, often sensitive, leadership. His vigor was not [illegible] picturesque, but it "went places," musically speaking. The music of Handel was beautifully interpreted without [illegible] exaggeration of either [illegible]

The excellent performance of [illegible] was surprising. The work was planned on a large scale but not for the gigantic [illegible] with which Bostonians are now familiar. The end was always in sight in the beginning of the exposition, but Mr. Burgin found place often for beautifully sketching details.

Loew's Orpheum

"The Bat Whispers" is the feature coming to Loew's Orpheum Friday. Jack Sidney's "Circus Parade," a glittering tabloid [illegible] dancing and comedy revue headlines the vaudeville portion of the show. Abe Reynolds, [illegible] comedian; Gene [illegible] Kelo [illegible] and Rubio Sisters are others on the bill

Trumpet

Some of the Greek historians ascribe the invention of the trumpet to the Tyrrhenians and others to the Egyptians. It was in use in the time of Homer. First torches, then fish shells as trumpets were signals for war.

Best Thing for You Is to Leave Him Alone

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BEATRICE FAIRFAX will gladly answer questions regarding heart and home problems. Address her in care of the Boston American. Write on one side of the paper only. If you wish a personal answer enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope. Otherwise, questions of interest will be answered through her daily columns.

Miss Fairfax broadcasts over Station WLEX every evening except Saturday and Sunday at 6 35 p. m.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am deeply in love with a neighbor of mine. He is 21 years of age and has a steady position He is a very nice young man, but when he is out with me he doesn't say three words. When we are out with two other couples he acts very childish and embarrasses me very much My chums don't know how I stand him. His family does not like the idea of his going out with girls. They put him through a third degree every time he goes out. I've known him for four years altogether and he never changes.

Beatrice Fairfax

UNLUCKY IN LOVE.

Dear Unlucky in Love—This young man is evidently in the grip of family tyranny, and his parents are doing all they can to keep him from growing up into a self-reliant independent [illegible]. My best advice to you would be to leave him alone. Unless something happens to change him you can never be happy with him. When you love a man, you want to expect the characteristics of manhood, not those of an immature and undeveloped child which is what this boy is at present, and may always be. Of course, his parents love him, with a queer, warped, selfish kind of love that tries to plant suspicion in his mind of everyone he knows, and thus bind him closer to them. It's a powerful enemy to fight, this family fixation and I'm afraid it will only bring you tears and heartache. Better look for someone else, while you're still young and can forget.

Why Not Go With Al?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

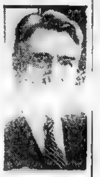
I am 18 and going with a young man of 19. I shall call him Roddy. I think a good deal of him and he does of me. Once I was willing to give up dancing for him but, as he is as fond of dancing as I am, there was no need to do that. He works till late and he comes for the last of the dances and then takes me home. We cannot go out together because of that. I go to dances with my girl friends. And here's the trouble. I went out with another young man now and then before I started going with Roddy. I shall call him Al I can't seem to get Al off my mind. He tells all his friends and mine, too, that he cares for me. His friends, all of whom are married, always invite us to spend the evening with them. So far I have refused, although I felt badly afterward. I don't know what to do any more. I like Roddy real well, but at times I am tempted to cheat. Can't you help me and tell me what to do? "AT SEA."

Dear "At Sea": As you're not engaged to Roddy, what can be the objection to your going out with Al? At 18 it is well to have several young men friends, and to be pleasant and agreeable with all of them. Unless in exceptional cases, a girl of your age is a wee bit young to marry and it's better to "pal around" with two or three than to take one—to whom you are not engaged—so seriously.

Acne May Induce Inferior Complex in Victim

By P. [illegible] C[illegible]LAND, M. D.

ACNE IS an inflammatory disease involving the glands of the skin. It is most frequently found on the face, but also it attacks the shoulders and back. It is extremely common and makes up about 70 per cent of all [illegible] disease has caused more distress than any other human ailment The distress, of course, is not physical pain or disability, but it is the suffering due to the embarrassing disfigurement of the face



Dr. Copeland

We are all proud and most of [illegible]. Pimples are by no means conducive to a happy [illegible] mind. The condition of the skin hurts the personal pride. No doubt it has marked the beginning of an inferiority complex that has spoiled many a career

As a result of this attitude of mind, people suffering from acne have easily succumbed to quackery. Fake physicians and quack specialists quickly realized the susceptibility of these individuals. They have extracted much hard-earned money from such sufferers.

Acne is most commonly seen between the ages of 15 and 25. If untreated or neglected during this time, it may become chronic. It was because of the common appearance of the disease at this time of life that it was believed to be due to some glandular influence. It was believed to be associated with the period of development into manhood or womanhood.

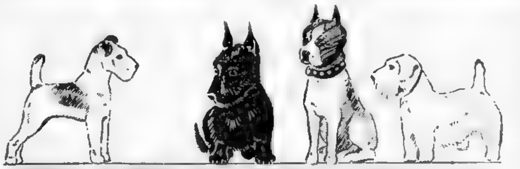
Animal Toys

Directed by AMOS PARRISH



NEW YORK, Dec. 16—Whether little Johnny and tiny Dorothy would rather have a pink elephant, a white lamb or a calico giraffe is a problem bothering lots of aunts and uncles at this moment.

And after all, the chances are that they'd much rather have a dog or a cat—especially if there's a real live dog or cat in the house.

Of course neither Johnny nor Dottie could tell you why. A psychologist would probably say it's because they understand about dogs and cats. They see them every day—know how they walk and run—what kind of noises they make. And they can reproduce these actions in their play.

Few small children know the habits and habitats of giraffes, elephants or even lambs. Of course, if they're already well supplied with commoner animals, a striped tiger or a kangaroo makes an interesting curiosity. (But we warn you to read up well on tigers and kangaroos, for you're sure to be plied with questions if you give one.)

Teddies, Dogs and Cats

The Teddy Bear, of course, is as safe as a dog or a cat. But that's because every child knows some other child who has a Teddy Bear, and he's accustomed to seeing it. But aside from these, it's the dog and the cat that are the most fashionable animal toys everywhere this year.

And what dogs and what cats! Especially what dogs. It makes little difference what kind of live dog Johnny already has — you can find its stuffed counterpart in almost any toy department.

Wire-haired terriers, French poodles, setters, Scotties, Sealyhams, shepherds, Pekinneses, all varieties of bull dogs, chows, St. Bernards. Even Chinook, the Antarctic dog that lived with Admiral Byrd at the Pole. And mongrels of almost any mixture your imagination can call forth.

They're soft. They're cuddly. And above all, they look real They're real in coloring and expression Real in posture.

And that's something that's different this year. Because these new dogs don't only stand up four square on their feet. They sit back on their haunches, they lie down on one side with forepaws extended. They're even in racing position—chasing a cat, if you will.

They're grand to play with—and to sleep with. Guard a little chap all night long with never a bark to disturb him.

Of course there are dogs that aren't realistic at all. There are mournful dogs with soulful eyes and floppy ears. Laughing dogs with a grin from ear to ear. And these make a pleasant change, too.

Cat Families

Cat families are something new. A mother cat with her brood of kittens in various breeds and postures. Some of them lying down. Some of them sleeping Some of them rolling on their backs. Any child who's had a litter of kittens in the household will get a lot of fun out of these.

Some of them are Persian—and snooty. But most of them are just Tabbies and Toms—and as democratic as any cat carnival on a backyard fence.

The monkeys dressed up in jackets and trousers and caps are amusing. Bunnies, soft and furry, are well-liked. And for a grand gesture, you might assemble a whole menagerie, as you can easily do from the many varieties of animals in Santa Claus' zoo—with a camel, an elephant, a tiger, a kangaroo, a babboon, a wolf, a bear cub, and a pig—with a few birds—such as penguins, ducks and chickens—thrown in for good measure

Home-Made Christmas Dainties for Gifts

By MARTHA LEE

Organizer and Conductor of New England's Largest Homemakers' Club of Over 37,000

LOOKING BACK over last year's list of Christmas presents two especially attractive gifts [illegible] One an exquisitely wrapped box of home-made bonbons and [illegible] a [illegible] fruit cake in a [illegible] tin, liberally sprinkled with [illegible] raisins and nut meats, with a sprig of holly through the ribbon.

Martha Lee

Home-made cakes, cookies and candies certainly make lovely as well as economical gifts and they seem to put the real spirit of Christmas into the gifts since they are literally a labor of love. So today I am going to give you some suggestions for home made food Christmas gifts that I hope will solve some of your holiday gift problems. First a moist and delicious fruit cake.

FRUIT CAKE

- ½ lb. butter
- ½ lb. sugar
- 6 eggs, beaten
- 1 cup flour
- 1 tsp. nutmeg
- 1 tsp. cloves
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- 4 tsps. baking powder
- ½ lb. currants
- ½ lb. raisins
- ½ lb. citron
- 1 tbsp. rose water

Cream the butter and sugar, add beaten eggs, then spices, baking powder and flour which has been sifted together; stir in fruit which has been dredged with flour, and lastly add the rose water, or desired flavoring. Bake in deep pan. Steam three hours, cover with paper and bake in slow oven 45 minutes

Banbury tarts and Christmas gingerbread cut in Christmas tree, stocking and Santa Claus shapes may be frosted and decorated with holiday designs and are truly tempting

Caramels, creamy fudge, Divinity fudge with chopped nuts and candied cherries, gumdrops, marshmallows and a great variety of bonbons from fondant are all easily made, delicious and desirable. So if you've never tried anything except fudge and penuche, why not drop me a line for recipes for simple home-made fondant and directions for molding this into a great variety of delicious bonbons some with cocoanut centers, some with cherry, nuts, etc You can use this same fondant for plain and colored mints as well as chocolate dipped mints, too.

Turkish delight is as easy to make as it is delicious and I hope by now you have tried the butterscotch, Scotch mallows and barley sugar lollypops that I gave you the other day.

Perhaps you would like me to send you the complete collection of these candy recipes? And if the fruit cake recipe seems too simple, I have a larger and naturally a more expensive real English fruit cake and also a less expensive steamed fruit pudding as well as a steamed fig and steamed cranberry pudding. The gingerbread and Banbury tart recipes are yours too upon request, of course.

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

ST. JAMES PUDDING

- 3 c. sifted pastry flour
- 1 tsp. each of soda, cloves, nutmeg and cinnamon.
- 1 c. molasses
- 1 c. sweet milk
- ½ c. butter
- 1 c. chopped raisins
- Little orange peel if desired.

Cream the butter and flour, to which has been added the spices. Add the molasses and the milk, beating the mixture constantly to prevent lumps. Finally add the raisins and the orange peel if you use any. Put this batter into coffee cans or other cans suitable for steaming. These cans should be about three-fourths full Put these filled cans into a pan of hot water. Cover the pan and allow to steam for about 3 hours. Serve with whipped cream or the following sauce:

BABY BUNTING

"I am so discouraged [illegible] my [illegible] cookies from the older [illegible] between meals and will not eat his food at table. What can I do?"

Can't you get the co-operation of the mothers of the other children in the neighborhood to stop their giving your little boy cookies between meals? Eating between meals is a bad habit and a difficult one to break

It is usually after a particularly hard spell of playing that the children forage one another's homes for food and fill up before their regular dinner time. A small child will often eat a great deal of food under the impression that he is hungry, when he is highly excited, and needs nothing more than a cool drink of milk and a rest. The real cure for the habit is to adopt the plan that children's specialists recommend —a half glass of milk and slice of buttered bread at 10 30 and 3 30, and this satisfies the between-meal hunger healthfully.

BROKEN RAINBOWS

By May Christy

Quoth Coral: "Methinks that's the liquor talking."

Said Myrtle, spitefully: "You've no more sentiment in you than a brass monkey."

"All ashore," yelled an official in a dark blue uniform.

The bugle blew again

"Au revoir, Wilda darling."

And Logan pressed her hands and gave her a swift kiss in front of all of them.

When the others were half over the gangplank he ran back to her.

She had tears in her eyes. She held his roses in her arm. In the garish light that illuminated the decks her face was pale and flower-like "Sweetheart! I had to come back!"

"Oh run! We're going."

"I'll be a stowaway! Why was I such a damn fool as not to book passage, too? Without pay I could have got an extension of vacation"

"Hurry! Oh, Logan—"

Another kiss. Then his feet fairly flying over the gangplank . . .

Wilda hung over the side. Her mother, too. The ship started moving.

They waved as they slid from the docks. Waved frantically as they saw their friends—and Logan—at the pier end, waving back to them as they turned out into the river.

CHAPTER XXIX

Gracie and Wilda slept the sleep of the dead the first night aboard the Atlantic liner

They awoke at 10 a. m. next day. Gracie pressed the little button near her bed, summoning the steward.

He brought a breakfast menu that was as long as a yard

"Gracious goodness! This must be a sanitarium for the thin! Here, help me, Wilda!"

Wilda stirred sleepily

"What is it?"

She was down in a bright pool of dreams. Odd, wakening on an ocean liner!

But it was calm. Except for the vibration from the screws the cabin seemed almost stationary

"Wilda, there are about 15 different kinds of fish listed! And eggs that sound as though they'd never seen a hen! You order."

The girl reached for a little negligee on a hook by the bedhead, wrapped it about her shoulders.

"All right, mother."

Dishes that were French. Dishes American. And Spanish omelettes.

"Sure you feel all right?"

"I slept like an infant, mother."

Oh! they'd been tired, those two. The last rush getting everything done. The vicissitudes of packing.

"Sure you don't want to dress and go down to the saloon?"

Responded Gracie:

"Ladies always breakfast in their beds on an Atlantic liner."

That was final

"All right with me. Only you're usually such an early bird, I wondered . . .

"Don't talk so much. Order what you want." Gracie wanted to play the grand lady in front of the supercilious-looking steward.

"I'll have orange juice, and shirred eggs, and hot rolls and coffee."

"And I'll have honey-dew melon, and that fish thing—it must be Scotch—called 'finnan haddie'."

"Very good, madam. Anything else?"

"Oh, hot cakes. And coffee."

When the steward had disappeared, Gracie told Wilda how thankful she was she hadn't been seasick.

"They say the first night out can be very stormy. But I slept like a cherub."

Breakfast over, appeared another uniformed young man, in spotless white. Their bath steward.

"First turn on the corridor down the left, madam. You'll find hot towels there, and soap."

And away pattered Gracie in her new orchid peignoir, fringed with marabout

To have a good looking, well-mannered young man summon one to one's bath . . . it was too "ultra"!

She felt extraordinary chirked up . . . and yet a little out of water . . a little nervous.

Thereafter she made a meticulous toilette. She would wear that beige, brushed-wool sports suit. Too hot for New York, it was the very thing for combating Atlantic breezes.

The cutest little sports hat (costing $15) went with it.

"I don't look anything near my age. I could pass for somebody in the very early thirties." Looking in the cabin mirror, the widow so she assured herself.

She'd tip Wilda off to that It was rather tiresome, just the same, that Wilda—though loyal—was so excessively honest.

Wilda was dressing now. In a plain little country frock that had seen at least three summers.

"Don't put that old rag on! Didn't I buy you special clothes for shipboard?"

The girl turned listlessly

"I thought this would be suitable for the morning with my red sweater."

"Wear the gray. It's the very thing for walking on the deck. And the gray brogues."

Her daughter did as she was asked. Mrs. Gardner scurried out of the cabin. "I must get hold of the chief steward right away to arrange for our table-seating."

"Don't they provide a place for everybody?"

"Of course. But the early bird gets the plums. That's to say, if you haven't any special pull. And it's my ambition to be at the captain's table"

"What on earth for?"

"Because it gives us a sort of hallmark."

"I wonder why?" Wilda pulled the gray dress over her shoulders.

"The best people sit with him at meals. He's the head of the ship. I should have thought a girl as intelligent as you would understand his position."

Wilda has interesting adventures aboard ship in tomorrow's installment.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

NO GIRL can line up among the beauty dollies unless her teeth are white, healthy and even. The Paris model, the chic chapeau, sassy shoes and carefully laid-on complexion are without charm or flavor if teeth are bad. Dentistry can overcome the worst effects. Raw vegetables are good for the teeth, providing dentine material. Orange juice, tomato juice and milk make teeth strong and happy. Twice a year gird on your armor of courage and march to the dentist's chair.

Tired eyes are comforted by hot applications followed by cold At the first sign of inflammation apply a boric acid solution; dissolve a teaspoonful of powdered boric acid in a cupful of boiling water, cool and apply with an eyecup. Persistent eye strain foretells the fact that it is time to see old Mister Eye-doc and have an examination for specs.

B. C. Forbes

"Our country has now reached the point where those who are not working want work, and all those who are working wish to do better work; they are giving an impetus to business. We see it everywhere; our negative vision has been supplanted with creative vision which reveals better business, prosperity and advancement for all.

"Some institutions have started a quick recovery, while with others it will be gradual—for those who always prefer to be pulled into it through the momentum of others."

* * *

[illegible] of the Central Illinois Bank, Chicago's largest financial institution, sees the outlook thus:

"The world-wide economic disturbance has unsettled peoples nerves and produced excessive fear. Eighteen months ago everyone thought business was better than it really was, and now it is difficult to find a man who does not believe business is worse than it really is. Extravagance, over-speculation and too widespread disregard of the operation of economic law brought on our present troubles. Hard work, economy, debt liquidation and courage lay the foundation for prosperity. The disposition to do a real day's work is now evident, people have been economizing for 18 months, paying their debts and adding to their savings deposits, and despite recurrence of spasmodic fears, confidence is gradually returning. We must be at about the bottom and the next turn should be upwards.

Louis F. Swift, head of the world's largest packing enterprise, gives me this analysis:

"The liquidation that has been going on for more than a year has corrected a number of flaws in the business situation. It has reduced to a minmum the stocks of manufactured goods in the hands of producers and distributors. In the packing industry, pork stocks are the lowest in years, while stocks of butter and poultry are considerably lower than they were a year ago.

"The year 1931 is bound to witness a general recovery in business—if only to bring about a replacement of the stocks of goods that are being used up. Consumption cannot run ahead of production indefinitely.

"The packing industry is all set for a busy year."

B. G. Dahlberg, creator of the Celotex Company, after emphasizing that general building conditions have been [illegible] went on:

"We have had most of the branch managers from the field in during the last month going over 1931 conditions and program, and we find that to a man they are optimistic. This optimism is caused not by actual orders received, but by the fact, first, that dealers' stocks are down almost to the extinguishing point and must sooner or later be replenished, and, second, that builders, architects and others are actively figuring and making plans for increasing building business for the next year.

"If we and others interested in building operations can sell the general public on the idea that now, with relatively cheap materials, plentiful labor, etc., is the time to revamp their old houses, it should make for considerable activity in house rebuilding.

"We are appealing to all lumber dealers to enlist idle building tradesmen to go from house house urging that this be done."

That sounds like a sensible suggestion, doesn't it?

Homer Guck, president of the Chicago Herald and Examiner, gives this inspiring information:

"The Chicago Herald and Examiner had the best November, the best October and the best September in its history. Our circulation in the last six months increased 53,600, making it the largest 3-cent morning circulation in the world. With the exception of two luxury classifications, our advertising lineage locally is ahead of last year. These figures indicate that business in Chicago and in the Central West territory is gradually bettering."

RAILS BATTLE TO WIN BACK BUSINESS

By FRANK H. McLOON

Several of our big railroads are already battling to win back business lost to automotive competition. The reason New England carriers as a rule are making better comparative showings than those in other sections is because they were pioneers in devising ways to meet the modern competition. The Boston & Maine, for example, was one of the first in the country to run passenger buses. Numerous other instances of virile management in these northeastern states could be cited.

* * *

"Pennsy" was a pioneer in taking to the air. The new president of Missouri-Kansas-Texas, M. H. Cahill, is trying a unique experiment. He has named as his assistant Mrs. Frances Whitehead, widow of Charles N. Whitehead, "Katy's" former president. Mrs. Whitehead will direct the railroad's service and organization from a cultured viewpoint.

Mrs. Whitehead

She will seek refinements of service to encourage the use of the road by women.

* * *

The Boston banks long ago blazed a happy trail in refining their service. The railroads do well to copy a move that has proved so successful in banking circles.

Method of reporting the U. S. Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce weekly survey of business conditions has been changed. The change was made in response to our suggestion that business be measured in dollar volume as shown by checks handled.

* * *

Previously the department had been using the measure of bank debits, which we contended was meaningless to most people. We saw no reason for changing our view when John F. MacDonald, managing editor of the department's "Survey of Current Business" gave us an explanation.

* * *

Mr. MacDonald stated that the term, as construed by the Federal Reserve Board, represents:

"Debits on the books of reporting banks to accounts of individuals, firms, and corporations, and of the United States government, including war loan deposit accounts, also debits to savings accounts, payments for trust accounts, and certificates of deposits paid. Figures do not include debits to the accounts of other banks or in settlement of clearing-house balances, payments of cashiers' checks, charges to expense and miscellaneous accounts, corrections, and similar charges. Monthly figures are derived from weekly reports by prorating the figures for those weeks which do not fall entirely within a single calendar month."

President Frank D. Comerford of the New England Power Association says his organization will spend $12,000,000 for construction, extensions and additions during 1931. He said construction which normally might be deferred for a year or two is being expedited by the New England Power Association and other electric companies as part of the general campaign to restore prosperity.

STOCK PRICES AT NEW LOWS IN BOSTON

Prices continued to decline in trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. Volume was fairly large, with changes on the downside ranging from fractions to 3 points or more.

Many issues sold at new 1930 lows after a forenoon session of irregularity. Torrington dropped 3 points, Edison was 2½ lower and Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway preferred was off a point.

Issues selling at new lows included: American Telephone, Aviation Securities, Bigelow Sanford, Venezuela Mexican, Swift & Co., U. S. Electric Power, Stone & Webster, Reece Folding Machine, Boston Personal Property.

Also New Haven, Railway Light & Security, New England Telephone, Pacific Mills, Nash, Merganthaler, Gillette, General Capital, Employers Group and Eastern Gas & Fuel preferred.

Westfield Manufacturing was strong, gaining a point. Boston Elevated second preferred and Atchison sold a point lower.

The executive committee of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. authorized the expenditure of $1,430,609 for new construction and improvements in plant necessary to meet the demand for service.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

New York traction unification plan tentatively agreed to calls for retirement of the 6 per cent stock to be issued in exchange for B.-M. T.'s equity in N. Y. R. T. and Williamsburgh Power Plant over a period of approximately five years through creation of a fund from earnings. Each year it is proposed to set aside approximately $12,000,000 for retirement of the new 6 per cent stock, thus reducing materially the charges ahead of the city's investment.

Better Earnings Are Seen Ahead

Most reports for fourth quarter will not be good. Many will show smaller earnings than the third quarter, due to smaller production and lower prices. But general opinion is that a number of companies will show larger earnings in first quarter of 1931 than in last quarter of 1930. The second quarter of next year, so opinion goes, should mark the beginning of a general improvement.

Drop in Coca-Cola Found Sympathetic

Drop in Coca-Cola today was viewed as sympathetic, caused by action of Canada Dry in cutting its annual dividend rate to $3 against $5 paid previously. However, an upturn in Canada Dry's business could easily lead to a restoration of the former rate.

Conservative Policy Best, Says Saylor

Pres. Saylor of Canada Dry Gin-Ginger Ale, Inc., said

"Sales and profits for this quarter will be less than for the same period of last year because last year we had not felt the business depression. It was the consensus of the board that we could not expect much improvement in business before the beginning of the beverage season about April 1.

"Sales for October were the lowest in any month of the past year. November sales showed an increase over October, and December to date a large increase over November than November over October. This we feel is very encouraging.

"You may think that in view of our strong financial position, as shown by the annual report, that we are following too conservative a dividend policy, but let me remind you that your directors have always followed a very conservative policy in dividends, and it has always proven advantageous for our shareholders."

Bear Selling in Bethlehem Steel

Bethlehem Steel has been one of the bear targets in recent weeks. Many rumors have been circulated to explain the persistent selling. As a matter of fact, part of the liquidation can be attributed to the uncovering of stop-orders as a result of the lower prices established by the attacks against the issue.

It has been well known that earnings of Bethlehem in the current quarter have been unsatisfactory. The corporation earned 63 cents a common share in the September period and activity in the steel industry has been further reduced since the beginning of October. Dividend discussions have been general, but thus far nothing has been announced from responsible quarters on the subject.

NEW DIVIDENDS ARE ORDERED

American Ice Co., of which Boston Ice Co. is a subsidiary declared regular quarterly dividends of 75 cents a share on the common and $1.50 on the preferred, both payable Jan. 26.

Gotham Silk Hosiery Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred, payable Feb 2.

Firestone Tires & Rubber Co. declared regular quarterly dividends of 25 cents on the common, payable Jan. 20 to stock of record Jan. 5, and $1.50 on the 6 per cent preferred, payable March 2.

Western Massachusetts Cos. declared regular quarterly dividend of 68¾ cents per share, payable Dec 31.

Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc., declared a quarterly dividend of 75 cents, placing the stock on a $3 annual basis, against $5 previously, payable Jan. 15.

Joseph Dixon Crucible Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents on common, payable Feb. 16.

A. C. Gilbert Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents on common, payable Feb. 16.

American Brake Shoe & Foundry Co. declared regular quarterly dividends for two quarters on the common stock of 60 cents each.

International Hydro-Electric System declared regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents in cash, or 1-50th of a share of class "A" on the class "A", payable Jan. 15.

Godchaux Sugars, Inc., declared regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the class "A", payable Jan 1.

White Orders Are Over a Year Ago

Cleveland, Dec. 16—Chairman Woodruff of White Motor Co. says:

"Operations so far this year show a profit. December orders are running ahead of December, 1929. Financial position is exceedingly strong. Ratio of current assets to current liabilities, which was 10 to 1 at end of 1929, is improved. We have avoided and reduction in hourly wage rate."

STOCKS DRIVEN LOWER IN WALL ST. DEALINGS

New York, Dec. 16—The stock market was driven lower in Wall st. today with some sharp shrinkages in values. A few leaders rallied a point or two in the last few minutes, but net losses were spread over a wide list.

Recessions in prominent shares ranged from 2 to 6 points. Trading was in substantial volume, the day's transfers aggregating 4,150,000 shares.

HAS A SHARP BREAK

The market sold higher in the first hour, but was soon unsettled by heaviness of the oils, and broke sharply late in the day.

Shares losing 4 to 7 points included American Telephone, New Eastman Kodak, and Allied Chemical. Coca Cola and Worthington lost 7 and 8.

U. S. Steel, American Can, Standard of N. J., Woolworth, Air Reduction, DuPont and International Harvester lost 2 to 4 points.

General Electric and National Buscuit lost little more than a point, and radio only a fraction.

Lowered prices for wheat, copper and silver joined to cause uneasiness among speculators.

Auburn had a temporary spurt of 5 points in the short covering.

The continued selling of the petroleum issues seemed to reflect nothing more tangible than growing dissatisfaction with the low and unprofitable prices prevailing in the industry, and apparent inability of the industry to do anything about it at this season of low gasoline consumption.

COPPER FALLS BACK

In addition, copper prices fell back further. Copper Exporters, Inc., reduced its price half a cent a pound domestic, and some custom smelters offered the metal at 10 cents, only ½ cent above the 31-year low touched a few weeks ago.

The recent plunge into new low ground by the cotton market was partly attributed in the trade to special and temporary factors such as banking difficulties in the South, hampering the stabilizing efforts of the co-operatives. The market gave a somewhat better account of itself today.

Report that the German sugar producers had withdrawn from the conference of the Chadbourne committee in Europe were not interpreted over-bearishly in local trade circles, where it was said that private advices from Europe led to the belief that the conferences would be renewed.

The market utterly ignored the increase of 5 to 10 per cent in prices quoted by American Radiator and Standard Sanitary, although in building circles this was regarded as fully as favorable an omen as the recent increase in the prices of plates, shapes and bars was regarded in the steel industry.

It was recalled that the building industry, which gives employment to some 10 per cent of the nation's workers, was a leader in the business revival which followed the 1920-21 depression. Of course, there was a shortage of building at that time, owing to the accumulation of deferred projects during and immediately after the World War.

It is felt in building trade circles however, that there is currently a substantial amount of deferred construction only awaiting signs that the decline in building costs has been checked.

Irregularity Rules Big Bond Market

New York, Dec. 16—Irregularity prevailed in the bond market today. Second grade rails and utilities, which suffered severely in the heavy selling last week, showed a tendency to improve and gilt edged issues moved uncertainly. There were some wide variations among industrials and a few other domestic corporate bonds that are thinly traded, but changes were largely fractional.

More Freight Cars Ready for Service

Class I railroads on Nov. 30 had 508,498 surplus freight cars in good repair and immediately available for service, the car service division of the American Railway Association announced today. This was an increase of 47,053 cares compared with Nov. 22, at which time there were 533,445 surplus freight cars.

Grains Are Lower in Chicago Market

Chicago, Dec. 16—Old crop deliveries of wheat covered a narrow range today. Other grains sold off sharply, led by corn. July hit 69c during the day, lowest since 1903. Closing prices for corn were 2⅛ to 2⅝c lower, wheat unchanged to 1⅝c down and oats 1½ to 1⅞c off. Rye was 1½ to 2¼c lower.

Cotton Higher in New York Market

New York, Dec. 16—Cotton futures today closed 11 to 16 points higher; Dec., 9.46; Jan., 9.48. New contracts—Dec., 9.45; Jan. 9.45-53; March, 9.75-77; May, 10.02-03; July, 10.20-23; Oct., 10.45-49. Spot steady; middling, 9.60.

BOSTON'S BIG BOND ISSUE IS AWARDED

City Treasurer Edmund L. Dolan today sold $6,650,000 in 3½ per cent and 4 per cent bonds to a syndicate headed by the First National-Old Colony Corporation on a bid of $100.039 for the entire issue.

Mayor Curley, in approving the sale, stated that this reflects the excellent financial condition of the city. Many communities have had difficulty in disposing of bond issues, he said, and in one instance a large city could find no bidders for its bonds.

During the present year the city borrowed $22,000,000 in temporary loans, the mayor said, and municipal financial affairs were in such an excellent condition that all of this money was repaid by the first week of October.

CURB MARKET AT NEW LOWS

New York, Dec. 16—Curb stocks experienced another violent price upheaval today as a heavy outpouring of selling orders carried prices in all sections of the list to new low levels for the year or longer.

Slight rallying tendencies in the closing minutes of the session carried a number of issues from their extreme low points of the day, but in the main, final quotations were sharply below previous closing prices.

Duke Power was the heaviest loser in a reactionary utility group, sustaining a loss of about 7 points.

Other issues to show declines running up to 5 points included Electric Bond & Share, American Gas and Electric, Northern States Power, American and Foreign Power warrants and Electric Power and light warrants.

Cities Service sold off to the lowest quotations the present stock has ever been available at, showing a loss of 1½.

Oils were outstandingly weak with Vacuum tumbling 11½ points, Humble off more than 5, Gulf off almost 4 and less extensive declines the rule in other oil shares.

Tire and Motor Plants Increase Employment

Increased employment schedules are announced by the Hudson Motor Car Co., the Chevrolet Motor Co., the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. and the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.

William J. McAneeny, president and general manager of Hudson Motors, announced that 5700 additional employes had been added to the company's payroll in the last month and that more workers were being taken on each week. He emphasized the fact, however, that all are former employes of the company.

The Chevrolet Co., according to M. E. Coyle, vice president and auditor, is adding a night shift with the intention of giving employment to as many people as possible in Detroit.

INCREASE FORCE

He stated that the company plans to increase its present force of 30,000 men to 40,000. At present, the company is working on a four-day a week basis.

When the night shift reaches 40,000 the company intends to increase working hours rather than add new men.

Employment at the Chevrolet plant in Detroit is now the largest in the past six months.

P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, announced that beginning January 5 the company would revert to an eight-hour day basis five days a week.

This, it was stated, will permit a substantial increase in production and will give practically full time employment to workers who have been working short time for several months.

The announcement stated that officials of the company desire, as much as possible, to even off the peaks of employment by slightly lengthening or decreasing the hours per day. The adoption of the five-day week will do away with all Sunday work.

TO INCREASE OUTPUT

At the recent low point, production at the Goodyear plant amounted to 30,000 tires a day. The change in hours will increase production to 48,000 tires a day and 55,000 tubes.

Profits reported by the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. during November amounted to $650,000, as compared with $53,000 in the same month last year, according to H. S. Firestone, Sr.

At the annual meeting of stockholders, Mr. Firestone also announced that early in January the daily hours of employment will be increased and that the plant will attain "a normal capacity" before the end of the winter.

In commenting on the wide discrepancy between profits last November and November, 1929, he stated that this was caused by the fact that automobile manufacturers this year ordered their annual requirements in that month, while last year the usual automobile orders had not been received at that time.

Sales of Natural Gas Are Increased

Sales of natural gas by Appalachian Gas Corp. group of companies for 10 months ended Oct. 31 amounted to 16,566,579,800 cubic feet, compared with 12,884,506,673 cubic feet last year. Excluding sales of companies which were not in operation during the 1929 period, total sales amounted to 14,753,971,800 cubic feet against 12,638,768,673 during the first 10 months of 1929, an increase of 2,115,203,127 cubic feet. For October, 1930, sales were 1,727,162,800 cubic feet.

Extra Dividend in Stock Is Ordered

New York, Dec. 16—E. W. Bliss Co. declared an extra dividend of 8 per cent in common stock on the common stock, payable in quarterly instalments Jan. 2, 1931; April 1, July 1 and Oct. 1 to stock of record Dec. 20, 1930; March 20, June 20 and Sept. 20, 1931, respectively. Regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents in cash on the common was also declared, payable Jan. 2. Pres. F. D. Mooney of Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies S. S. Lines was elected a director.

Dividend Is Omitted

New York, Dec. 16 (AP)—Globe Wernicke Co. directors today omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.50 on common stock due at this time.

KELVINATOR'S NET FOR YEAR INCREASED

George W. Mason, chairman of the board and president of the Kelvinator Corporation, Detroit, and of the Leonard Refrigerator Co. and H. W. Burritt, vice-president of both companies, are visiting Harry Troutwine, manager, Kelvinator Sales Corporation, Cambridge, local Kelvinator distributors, and Leonard jobbers.

Mr. Mason and Mr. Burritt are making their annual tour of the eastern states visiting the distributors and jobbers who handle Kelvinator and Leonard products, making selling plans for 1931 and getting first-hand information concerning prospects for next year.

Mr. Mason, in happy mood and thoroughly enjoying his business jaunt through the East, which he knows and likes, talked freely and optimistically about his company affairs.

"We have had a good year in the electric refrigeration business," he said, "which stood up far better than most others during the year 1930. Last year, over 600,000 electric refrigerators were sold. It is estimated that the number for 1930 will be at least 900,000, of which Kelvinator has sold its share.

"The Kelvinator Corporation made a 31 per cent increase in net profit for the fiscal year to September 30, 1930, over the previous year. The 1930 net was $1,601,016.37. This excellent showing was made despite charges against operations for the period, covering tool and die charges and experimental work amounting to $463,841.62. In addition, there was a heavy expense incident to the introduction of new lines of refrigerators.

"The net profit for 1930 is equal to $1.35 per share on the 1,182,136 shares outstanding, compared with a net of $1,221,383.73 for the previous fiscal year, equal to $1.02 per share on 1,179,859 shares then outstanding. Domestic refrigeration sales are reported as being 31 per cent greater this year than in 1929."

Port of Boston

By JAMES J. DELANEY

With a foreign fleet and coastwise craft pouring in to fill Boston harbor yesterday, one of the busiest beginnings for a week went down in the record of the port.

The S.S. Baltic, White Star liner, after leaving Christmas passengers, mail, parcel post and cargo from Liverpool and Queenstown, resumed her passage for New York.

The S.S. Newfoundland, Furness liner, left passengers and cargo from Liverpool coming by way of St. John's, Newfoundland, and Halifax, Nova Scotia. She returns Wednesday with a list of passengers who are going home to Newfoundland and Nova Scotia for the holidays.

The S.S. West Kebar, American West African liner, came in here with passengers and cargo from 22 ports in West Africa.

Throughout the day arrivals and departures made the day one of the most active for a long time.

CRUDE RUBBER

More crude rubber was brought into the port of Boston than all other United States ports combined during November, with the exception of New York, statistics of the Maritime Association of the Chamber of Commerce show. A total of 1305 long tons was received, most of it from Batavia, Belawan-Deli, Colombo, Malacca and Penang.

NEW COMMISSIONER

Francis Murphy of Beverly was appointed shipping commissioner by Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce. He has been acting shipping commissioner since the retirement of E. B. Grant, last August. Mr. Murphy, a veteran in the service, has been attached to the shipping commissioner's office here for 34 years.

EUROPA SAILS

New Englanders who sailed on the S. S. Europa, North German Lloyd line, from New York on a midnight sailing for Cherbourg, Southampton and Bremen last night included Dr. H. A. Garfield, president of Williams College, Williamstown, son of the late President of the United States. Others were: Wolfang R. Thomas of Cambridge, H. W. Kelley of Boston, Prof. Carl Schalen of the Harvard University Observatory, John Norgren of Belmont, Dr. J. C. A. Fagginger Auer of Harvard University, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Seibel and son of West Lynn, H. T. Froehlich of Harvard Law School, Frederick Thompson of Cambridge, Karl Haroldson of Boston and Dr. Wilhelm J. Wiss of Worcester.

Class in Cooking Graduate Tonight

Tonight at 6:30 the Brides and Business Girls' class of the Martha Lee cooking school will have their graduating party on the 5th floor of the Boston Evening American building, Winthrop Sq. It will be a moment of great importance to the earnest group of girls and women who have devoted much time and study to acquire a mastery of the culinary art.

A very interesting program is scheduled for the occasion which in addition to the usual awarding of diplomas and refreshments, will include special entertainment features, all of which for the benefit of a large number of Martha Lee followers, who reside too far away or for other reasons cannot be present, will be broadcast over station WLEX.

One particular attractive feature of the program will be Ranny Weeks and the H. P. Hood & Sons Modern Orchestra, who will entertain during the graduation exercises. Ranny is the possessor of a rich baritone voice, which coupled with his unusual ability as a leader has won for him an enviable reputation among radio listeners.

Like a number of enterprizing young men of the day the energetic young Ranny saw the possibilities which radio offered, and over a year ago after making a series of recordings for both Brunswick and Victor entered the field of broadcasting, and so successfully that today few there are of the great radio audience who do not dial in when he is announced.

Stimson Will Speak at Commemorative Service on WNAC at 3 P. M.

Over the individual networks of the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System, the commemoration of the centenary of the death of Simon Bolivar, South American liberator, will be broadcast from the Hall of Americas of the Pan-American Union, tomorrow from 3 to 3.30 p. m. The program will be heard locally over station WNAC.

Playing a conspicuous part in the program is an address on "Bolivia" delivered by Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state and chairman of the governing board.

The services will be opened by the United States Marine Band under the leadership of Capt. Taylor Branson. A selection especially composed for the centenary "Hymn to Bolivia," by Francesco Ugartechea of Puebla Bolivia in Vizcaya, Spain, the ancestral home of the Bolivar family, will be sung in English by the chorus of Georgetown University. Other Latin-American selections will be played by the Marine Band.

LETTERS SWAMP WLEX SANTA

Santa Claus is having his troubles. An average of 300 letters a day ar delivered to him at the Boston Evening American WLEX studio, and Old Nick and his squad of secretaries are kept busy from early morn until late at night opening the kids' mail. Old Santa is trying to figure out how he can read all of the kiddies' requests before he descends through the chimney to deliver his goods. He doesn't want to disappoint any of them and he promises they will all be satisfied. Santa Claus is heard each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6:30 p. m. over WLEX.

Ranny Himself

RANNY WEEKS, popular radio artist and leader of Hood's modern concert orchestra, will entertain at the Christmas graduation party of Martha Lee's cooking school at the Boston Evening American, beginning at 6:30 tonight. The exercises will be broadcast over WLEX.

Concerning Radio

Edited by BILL WHIPPLE

During the past six years it has been our lot to a considerable extent to be in close contact with matters of the radio world. As a whole it has been interesting, although, frankly, not as profitable as we could wish; circumstances have prevented us from striving vigorously into the radio arena of action, where the rewards for effort are greatest.

But there is one phaze of broadcasting which most emphatically we do not aspire to be identified with—it is that of announcer. Long, tiresome hours, contact with temperamental entertainers, the need for "a voice with a smile" even though ill and down in the dumps, and a remuneration for services not at all what we believe it should be.

For the benefit of you readers who imagine the position of an announcer is an enviable one, we shall enumerate herewith the working hours of some of the best known "gentlemen of the 'mike.'"

Patrick J. Kelly, supervisor of the NBC announcers, of which there are 18, gets to work at 7:45 o'clock each morning, and does not leave for the day until about the same time each evening. On Saturday he cannot leave the studio until 1 o'clock at night, or next morning, making a day of about 17 hours.

Ted Jewett, Howard Petrie, Louis Dean and Jeff Sparks each roll a sleepy eye at the microphone at 7:30 a. m. every day but Sunday. They leave about 6 o'clock in the evening, unless there is an emergency call for longer duties. Charles Tramount arrives at the same hour as the others, but he cannot leave until 7:45 p. m., because he handles the Phil Cook program at that hour.

Milton J. Cross, last year's diction award winner, has several long days each week. On Sunday Cross pushes open a studio door at 8 a. m. and is "Standby" for an hour before presenting the Children's Hour, which ends at 10 o'clock. His final program, the Kaffee Hag Slumber Music, ends at 11:30 p. m. You can see that even old-timers are not exempt from a long grind.

Graham McNamee knows full well what long hours are and still works them. His particularly trying day is Friday when he must be in Philadelphia before 10 in the morning, after handling the Fleischmann Hours in Brooklyn that night and getting to bed around midnight.

GRAHAM
PHILA.

John S. Young gets to the studio at 1 p. m. and remains there until 1 a. m. each Wednesday; the other days are not quite so difficult, but they are by no means days of leisure. Take it month in and month out, the broadcast announcer has a long, tough grind; only a hardy constitution can stand it and, it appears to us, only a person with a pronounced ego would stand it.

While we are on the subject of long hours and hard work in the realm of radio, we are going to refer to a dynamic personality in this city of Boston, whom many of you know and whom a great many more would know were he not so modest and so consistently shunned the limelight. We refer to Linus Travers, production manager for the Shepard Service with offices at WNAC, Hotel Buckminster. Perhaps this will bring a blush to the cheeks of the accomplished Linus, still we are going to state that he is the possesser of about as fine a voice as we've ever heard over the air, and a diction second to none. Were he not so valuable in a managerial capacity the public would hear him over the air more often than is the case. Mr. Travers has just produced a new program over the Yankee Network called the "Salute to Advertising," of which much favorable criticism has already reached our ears. It is a happy task for us to say a word of commendation for one so deserving as Linus Travers.

RADIO Personalities

A letter received by NBC from A. H. L. MELLOR of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police says that the far northern detachment of the Royal Mounted, situated on the Arctic coast and the Polar islands receives broadcasts from the larger American stations with great clearness, and they are highly appreciated. . . . ADELE HOLT of the CBS Home Makers Club counts among her prized possessions a letter from Mark Twain, the first proof copy of Cabell's "Jergen," and an autographed card of Woodrow Wilson. . . . What some of the radio folk are asking of Santa: HOWARD BARLOW would like to have the calves of his legs enlarged so his socks will stay up better; WILLARD ROBISON asks for the ability to be continually grateful for the many blessings of the closing year; FRANK PARKER wants to know what Santa has before he tells him what he wants; EVANGELINE ADAMS pleads for a new planet; BOB HARING wants three square meals a day and a pair of suspenders. . . . After doing three hours work to appear in 30 seconds of moving picture SEN KANEY has decided to stick to radio rather than go in for movies. . . . EDWARD DAVIES, WENR, Chicago, baritone, has just completed five years of continuous service on a program, which is believed to be the record for uninterrupted affiliation with a single program.

MODEL DEPICTS WAGON PARTY

For four-and-a-half years Salvatori Adamo, of 121 M st., South Boston, a Sicilian by birth, worked in constructing a miniature replica of the Italian cart in which he rode during his boyhood days.

Adamo, who did all the work by hand, duplicated the original to minutest detail. Figures of peasants are in the wagon and a horse is in the tiny shafts.

The sides of the cart are decorated with paintings depicting a Sicilian wagon party, many of which Adamo attended with his childhood friends. The greater part of the cart is made from a single piece of wood.

In addition, Adamo, after years of effort, has almost completed the mechanism of a clock that operates by the action of sand upon the hands. It keeps time to the minute now, but he hopes to perfect it to second-timing soon.

'Airmail From Yukon to Buenos Aires Soon

Washington, Dec. 16 (US)—Airmail service from the Canadian Yukon to Buenos Aires will soon be a reality.

W. Irving Glover, Assistant Postmaster General, returned yesterday from a conference with Canadian postal officials regarding the establishment of airmail service between Minneapolis and Winnipeg. This will be put in operation as soon as the Canadian Parliament approves.

"The World Court"

The New Orleans States, of which Robert Ewing, Democratic National Committeeman and a leader in public affairs throughout the South, is publisher, has started a vigorous fight against the United States entering the League Court. Colonel Ewing is also publisher of the Shreveport Times, the Monroe Morning World and the Monroe News-Star. He has been vice-president of the Associated Press and for several terms president of the Southern Publishers' Association. The New Orleans States, and Mr. Ewing's other papers, carried the following editorial, entitled "The World Court":

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S decision to take out of his pigeonhole the Root-Hurst World Court protocol and send it to the Senate is followed by the announcement by the American Foundation, organized to promote American entrance into the Court, of the results of a questionnaire to the daily newspapers of the country, showing a majority of them favorable to the protocol. It is probably not a wild guess to say the President was influenced in his decision by forehanded knowledge of the questionnaire.

Yet it is unfortunate that, with so many pressing domestic problems to solve, Mr. Hoover should wish to inject into the present short session so controversial a subject, with the threat of a special session with its attendant disturbance to business. It is the more unfortunate when every time the World Court issue has appeared in any election, the answer of the people has been against our entanglement in the affairs of the Old World governments; and especially is that their sentiment now, when Europe today is veritably a tinder box.

The President having sent the protocol to the Senate Wednesday, that body should reject it, as it rejected the proposal in its original form. The rejection took the form of reservations, of which Number Five provided:

> That the Court shall not render any advisory opinion except publicly after due notice to all States adhering to the Court and to all interested States and after public hearing or opportunity for hearing given to any State concerned; nor shall it, without the consent of the United States, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest.

It would have been a matter for regret if the reservations had been accepted, for that would have made us a part of the Court, with only a single vote, and involved us in all European quarrels, with the certainty of making enemies and losing friends. But the European governments were not satisfied to have us on any such terms, and they rejected the reservations; and it would have been better for this nation if that had closed the chapter.

But Mr. Root, reflecting the will of the Foundation, of which he is one of the conspicuous members, went to Europe to seek a new basis. He had a formula of his own which proved unacceptable, and out of the negotiations that followed emerged the so-called Root-Hurst protocol, Sir Cecil Hurst, of Britain, being one of the ablest of the European diplomats.

The protocol is infinitely worse than the original reservation. It does not reserve the right to the United States to veto the submission to the Court of any question in which it has an interest. It throws the door wide open to the foreign powers to submit any question they choose involving the interests of the United States, and all we may do, if we are dissatisfied, is to object and retire from the Court.

Even a person of only average intelligence must see the dangers lurking in American membership of the Court under such conditions, the bitterness of feeling that would be likely to follow our withdrawal after once in. No stronger indictment of the protocol could be made than that by ex-Senator Pepper, who described it as "an arrangement that substitutes the remedy of withdrawal from the Court after the mischief has been done for the salutary provision which prevents the mischief from arising."

In 1920 James M. Cox made the League of Nations of paramount importance in his candidacy for the Presidency and was defeated by 7,000,000 votes. The Senate refused to ratify the treaty that made us a part of it, and sits with the United States unrepresented as a member.

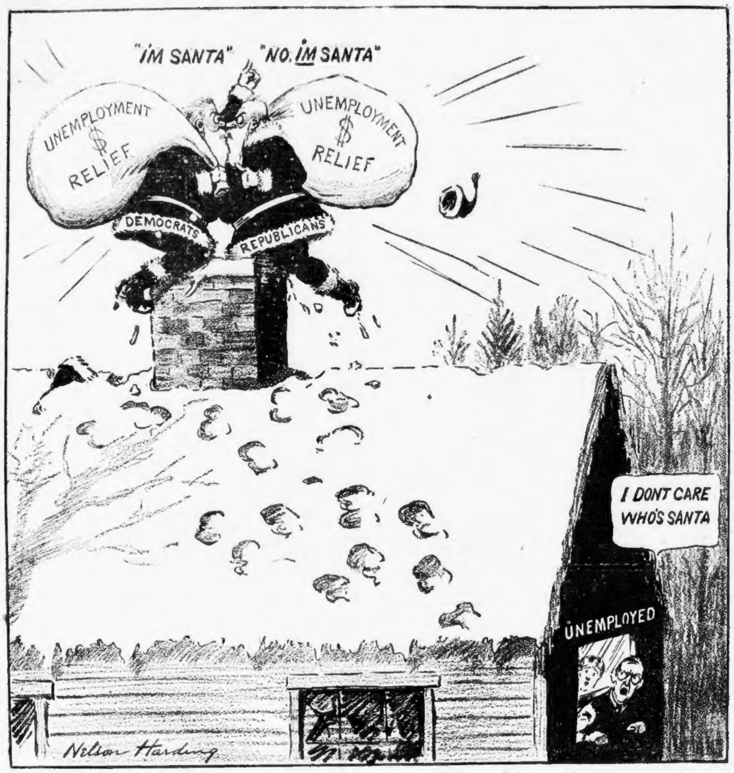
The Court is a mere subsidiary of the League of Nations, created by it. It has been described as a back door to the League.

The United States, supported by overwhelming public sentiment, refused to enter the League from the front. Why should it enter it from the rear?

It were better if the protocol had been left to moulder in the White House pigeonhole. Since the President has elected otherwise, the Senate should accept the challenge and make a decisive end of it.

WHEN TWO'S A CROWD

By NELSON HARDING



Two constitute a crowd when they
Both selfishly attempt to play
At Santa Claus and try to be
First down the chimney, as we see.

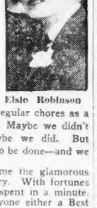
Result, confusion and delay
If neither rival will give way.
Both parties waste good time, because
We don't care which is Santa Claus.

Listen, World! -:- A Dream

By ELSIE ROBINSON

What Have You to Express?

THEY FOUND Roy Danks dead in his beautiful studio on 67th street. Slumped in a kitchen chair—three gas jets turned on. No one knows whether he killed himself or not, but his wife said he'd been downcast for a long time over his "inability to express himself."



Elsie Robinson

I suspect it was that futile dream of self-expression that really asphyxiated poor Danks—and the gas jets just finished the job.

Self-expression — we've gone loco over it in this 20th Century. Time was when we humans did our regular chores as a matter of course. Maybe we didn't like them. Maybe we did. But there they were to be done—and we did them.

Then along came the glamorous Twentieth Century. With fortunes being made and spent in a minute. And almost everyone either a Best Seller or a Hollywood Star. Naturally, who wants to stay in a kitchen or a stock room? Nobody.

If you don't believe it, run a column like this for a couple of weeks. Scores of letters daily, and nine out of ten clamoring for "self-expression." People of every age, every position. Youngsters in Hi. Graduates, drudging resentfully in some office or shop.

Stenos — clerks—business men—housewives, so many housewives—all wanting to write—or act—or sing—or play in the movies. Wanting to "express themselves" . . . Do Something—or Be Something Different.

And what have they to express?

The truth is, of course, that most of them have nothing to express. They're simply lazy, bored, discontented, irritable. They haven't imagination enough to see the adventure that lies in their own job—that lies in even the dullest job.

They haven't sufficient grit or patience to study. But they kid themselves by thinking what they could do If They Had A Chance. And they dramatize their lives by thinking how Tragically They've Been Frustrated.

Actually, if someone gave them a chance to express themselves, they could do nothing with it. For they have grown no selves to express. They're just yearners. And nothing but.

But their yearning is costing us plenty . . . It's sprouting a fine crop of lawlessness, suicide, misery and divorce. Because the yearners can't have the life they want, they won't have the life they can have. Their bodies may go through the motions of living those lives—go through the motions of housekeeping, typewriting, clerking, trading. But their spirits are not in it.

Their spirits slouch apart, brooding, rebelling, slowly asphyxiating themselves with the poison of their own discontent.

Does that mean that we should all spinelessly accept mediocre lives, just because we weren't born Barrymores or Bernard Shaws? Of course it doesn't. There are great things to express, and great souls are expression. But the average yearner wouldn't recognize that sort of self-expression if he saw it.

For real self-expression means that you have something to express. And getting something to express is the loneliest, grimmest job on earth. Before you can know about life, or tell about life, you must live life.

And you can't live life or learn life by merely blatting about it. You must endure discipline and suffering and sacrifice and humiliation—until at last you grow a soul wise enough and wide enough to be worth expressing.

And if you're really bent on growing that sort of soul, you can do it as well in a busy kitchen or office as you can in the most gorgeous studio. In fact, you can probably do it better. But try and make 'em believe it!

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

When Broadway Was a Real Street

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—When Broadway was a real street: "Silver King," the fashion plate bartender at the Knickerbocker. . . Town sports who hung out in John McGraw's billiard parlor. . . The roaring presses in the basement of the Herald building. . . And the blinking, green-eyed owls on cornices.

"First nights" at the Empire. . . "Floradora" at the Casino. . . The frosted buckets of champagne at Martin's. . . The cartoonist table at Churchill's at 4 in the afternoon. . . George Rector in his Broadway entrance awaiting customers. . . The Battling Nelson Grill at Jack's. Tad and Hype Igoe caroling "Frankie and Johnnie." . . "Stuffy" Davis, the sweatered dramatic critic. . . Clyde Fitch and his Inverness coat. . . The midnight crowd at Kid McCoy's "Poodle Dog". . . Thorley the florist and his lapel flower. . . The Kaiserhof. . . Paul Dresser, the song writer.

The Astor Roof on a hot summer night. . . Lillian Lorraine swinging out over the audiences on the New York roof. . . Anna Held's French accent. . . Harris Merton Lyon's table at Keene's chop house. . . The autographed wall pictures of players at Browne's. . . The Flatiron building.

Irvin Cobb and his gang in the Martinique bar. . . Charlie Somerville, the Broadway reporter, and his gold-headed cane. . . Fleurette, the tragic little cigarette girl at Maxim's. . . Mae Murray dancing at San Souci. . . Vernon Castle's pink sport shirt. . . Stanford White's unique parties.

Collegiates in down-town Bustanoby's. . . The Domino Room in uptown Bustanoby's. . . The Monday afternoon crowd at Hammerstein's Victoria. . . Diamond Jim's elephant-shaped ruby studs. . . Rennold Wolf's column in the Morning Telegraph. . . Valeska Suratt's back. . . Margaret Hawkesworth's night club.

* * *

Those were days when Broadway at night was released into quasi-shameless jollity, free of discipline, but rarely dangerous. East side gorillas with sinister twists to their lips remained below 14th street and spenders who flashed rolls were not "put on the spot." Frescoed night club walls did not stress the aphrodisiac and orgiastic. There were no masters of ceremony, hostesses, cabaret floor shows featuring kerchief-in-the-cuff lollipops or blackmailing baby talkers. Broadway was Broadway—impishly gay but arresting.

* * *

In that period of Broadway, State Senator James J. Walker was acquiring his Broadway familiarity. Where chandeliers blazed brightest he would be found, the suave and affable "Jimmy"—a fountain of bubbling wit—building political bridges that spanned, well, anyway, to the City Hall.

* * *

In the foam of faces in the Hunting Room of the Astor every day at luncheon sat the movie moguls—Marcus Loew, Joe Schenck, Adolph Zukor, Jesse Lasky and the omnipresent Louis Mann.

* * *

Few of the colorful characters who exhaled the vitality of that epoch survive. Gone are Oscar Hammerstein and his peaked opera hat. Also Manny Chapelle, the wine salesman, and Richard Canfield and his collection of Whistlers. Broadway musketeers gave way to racketeers. And a great street becomes a catch-penny carnival.

* * *

I suppose future antiquarians will hark back to modern Broadway necromancy with the same sentimental sigh. They will lament the passing of the types and institutions looked upon a shade contemptuously by the present generation. Goldberg, jestingly, sounded a mighty truth in his cartoon caption:

"They all look good far away!"

* * *

Each generation in its conceit thinks it has surpassed its predecessor, and doubtless has. (Will the restless quit running up and down the aisles until the sermon is finished?) If any one of the present crop of columnists could return to view the handiwork of his successors a century hence he would probably hang his head in shame and cry:

"And, O, boy, wasn't I rotten?"

Our Militia Hangars

They're a Disgrace to the State

The national government, the city of Boston and the private commercial aviation interests have erected adequate and handsome structures at the airport which are a credit to themselves and to the prestige which the aviation industry has so steadily accumulated in our economic life.

Boston has a splendid airport and when Mayor Curley's plans for future expansion are accomplished it will be no doubt the peer of any aviation field and plant in this country.

But the State hangs back. The hangars and housings of the National Guard Air Corps have reached that state of dilapidation that they would be more appropriate decorations of a junkfield on the edge of the Essex County marshes.

These hangars were a gift to the State originally. The cost of their erection was met by popular subscription. The State's principal contribution was of $22,000 for moving them when the field was enlarged. In contrast, Connecticut has spent $250,000 for suitable housing for its air units, New Jersey is spending $240,000 and Maryland has plans for $250,000.

It may be that the erection of suitable hangars, for safety, for comfort and for decent appearance, will appeal to Governor-elect Ely as one of the necessary and suitable items of his expansion program, for stimulation of business and relief of unemployment. His favorable attitude in the matter would have the commendation of all citizens, because none of them want Massachusetts to suffer the reputation of being a backward State.

Hire, Not Fire, She Says

Mrs. Putnam Talks and Acts Wisely

Mrs. William Lowell Putnam accepts appointment to Mayor Curley's employment commission, and she makes a statement which should arouse the wealthy, contented people of this State to a realization of their social duty and responsibility.

It is the time for them to hire, not fire, people, she says. They have the funds. They have the profits acquired in the abnormal period of prosperity.

Providence has treated them with boundless generosity. It has given them personal comfort and relief from the tortures of poverty or privation. It has given them the power to provide jobs, to stimulate business and to make this Christmas a happy one for thousands who otherwise will be cheerless and comfortless in this season of peace and goodwill when happiness should reign everywhere.

Mrs. Putnam says truthfully that men and women do not want to beg. They want to earn a livelihood for themselves and their families in honor and independence.

Her statements are worthy of republication here, because they speak a fine social philosophy and because they are backed by good deeds. She has followed her preachment by the good example of increasing her working force by 100 per cent during these Winter months. A thousand persons in this State with her fine intentions and example who are possessed of the means to emulate her practice would set the tide in the right direction overnight.

Widows and Widowers

Mere Man Is Out of Luck

It is better to be a wife than a husband, if there's anything in figures. A wife has an excellent chance to become a widow. A husband has a slim chance to become a widower. In fact, the odds are two to one in favor of the wife and against the husband. That may be an injustice, but it is a fact.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company makes this disquieting discovery—for men—after a survey of the widower situation. It found that women are apt to live longer than men, anyway, and that the average married woman invariably survives her husband. Not all married women are average, but in the great majority of cases the rule holds good.

Most husbands are older than their wives at marriage, and hence start with the cards stacked against them. If a man is five years older than his wife, for instance, he has but 40 chances in 100 of attending her funeral. And if he is fifteen years older he has but 26 chances in 100.

There must be a moral in these statistics, though it is difficult to draw. Staying single won't help, because the figures also prove that married men live longer than bachelors. You are forced to the conclusion that men are born out of luck, and that whichever way they play it, they lose. It's a sad world, men.

Cowpaths Still With Us

Exposition May Bring Some New Paving

Plans for the 1931 exposition in Boston, which will celebrate a century of progress by the New England States, seem to have gotten away with their best foot forward. Perhaps an incidental benefit will be the paving of the dilapidated streets which lead from the heart of Boston to the exposition grounds at the Strandway. If we have no thought of our own jouncings and broken springs we might pretend a concern for our tourist visitors who, when they use Broadway, Dorchester Avenue and the contiguous highways, will believe they are on a radial route of a great city, not on the cowpaths they have read so much about in history.
